Mrs. Hulda Francisca Schmidt, widow of Gottfried L. Schmidt, pioneer resident of Southern California and the mother of Superior Court Judge Ruben Schmidt, died yesterday at her home, 3440 Wilshire Boulevard, at 86 years of age after an illness extending over more than eight years.

Mrs. Schmidt was born in Copenhagen, Denmark, the daughter of Christian Volxen and Sophia Nielsen. She came to California in 1869, and for more than sixty years had lived in her Wilshire Boulevard home.

She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Harriet Sparks and Mrs. Stella Hatch, both of Los Angeles.

Private funeral services will be conducted at the home at 9 a.m. Wednesday by the Garrett Brothers. Interment will be in the family plot at Inglewood Park Cemetery.

PLANE'S NOSE DIVE MAY CAUSE DEATH

CLAIRE FAHY BADLY HURT IN CRACK-UP

Aviatrix Injured Perhaps Fatally When Taking Off at Tonopah for Coast

TONOPAH (Nev.) Dec. 15. (AP)—Mrs. Claire Fahy, Los Angeles flyer, was injured perhaps fatally today when her plane stalled and went into a nose dive as she was taking off for Los Angeles and crashed from an altitude of about fifty feet.

Dr. Stanley P. Anderson, who flew here from Burbank, Cal., to attend her, said she received either a fractured skull or a fracture of the neck at the base of the skull, and in addition suffered a fracture of the jaw and numerous bruises. He said she has "a slim chance for recovery."

Mrs. Fahy is unconscious tonight and Dr. Anderson said she cannot be moved, even to an X-ray room for an examination, until the effects of the shock have passed.

Mrs. Claire Fahy is the widow of Lieut. Herbert J. Fahy, pilot, who was killed in a crash on the estate of Cliff Durant, automobile magnate, in Michigan nearly a year ago. Mrs. Fahy was flying with him at the time.

She participated in the 1929 women's air derby from here to Cleveland and since her husband's death purchased the flight biplane in which she crashed. She was returning home from Nevada after participating in an airport dedication last Sunday.

FARMER AID DELAYED

Measure Blocked in House

Vote to Suspend Rules and Pass $30,000,000 Relief Fund Fails

Senate Debate Rages With Co-operation Pledge Forgotten

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—Administration forces in the House were defeated today in their effort to force suspension of the rules for quick passage of the $30,000,000 drought-relief measure desired by President Hoover, as against the $60,000,000 appropriation approved by the Senate last week.

The vote was 208 for suspending the rules and 189 against it. The Republican leaders thus fell thirty-eight votes short of having the necessary two-thirds.

At the same time President Hoover's program for aiding employment and extending relief to the drought sufferers was vigorously defended in the Senate today by Senator Watson of Indiana, the Republican floor leader, against fresh attacks from Democrats and Republican insurgents.

In the House only one Democrat, Black of New York, voted with the Republican majority, while sixteen Midwest Republicans and the lone Farm-Laborite, Kvale of Minnesota, sided with the Democrats against suspension.

"DOLE" FEATURE FOUGHT

The result was not surprising and administration leaders went into the fight, the bitterest of the session to date, knowing they probably would not be able to hold the Republican lines solid and so stood to lose. But they were determined to make an effort to head off the Senate proposal that the government advance loans to farmers for food and clothing, as well as for seed, stock feed and fertilizers. There is no disagreement anywhere in Congress on the latter items, but the administration insists that loans for food and clothing would constitute a charity "dole" that would set a dangerous precedent. The Republican contention is that relief of this character must be left to the Red Cross and State and local agencies.

The Republican leaders in the House will return to the attack Wednesday or Thursday with a special rule whereby the $30,000,000 program will be taken up with all amendments barred and with only one motion—that for recommendation to committee — standing in the way of passage. The chances are they will succeed in getting their bill through in this way. Then will come a tussle between the House and Senate in conference committees and another fight on the floor later over adoption of the conferees' report.

AGAINST SUSPENSION

The sixteen Representatives who voted against the administration motion for suspension of rules were: Browne, Wisconsin; Campbell, Iowa; Christgau, Minnesota; Cooper, Wisconsin; Craddock, Kentucky; Finley, Kentucky; Garber, Oklahoma; Garber, Virginia; Hull, Wisconsin; Kading, Wisconsin; Lambertson, Kansas; Lankford, Virginia; Leavitt, Montana; Nelson, Wisconsin; Schneider, Wisconsin, and Shaffer, Virginia.

During the heated debate which preceded the vote, Representative Garner of Texas, the Democratic floor leader, advocated an increase in the surtaxes on incomes above $100,000 to defray the expense of government loans for food and clothing for drought sufferers. He predicted that "human nature" would "make liars out of many farmers" who receive the loans for rehabilitating their farms and they will divert the money to food for their families.

"I am glad," said the Republican floor leader, Representative Tilson of Connecticut, "that the gentleman from Texas has so frankly stated the Democratic position. They would raise taxes and have the government go into charity. I am not in favor of such a course. I believe that the Red Cross and other relief agencies in the States and local communities should take care of the charity phase. When we

CONDITION OF POINCARE NOW GRAVE

Physician Summoned in Haste as War President of France Grows Worse

PARIS, Dec. 15. (AP)—The condition of Raymond Poincare was worse tonight and friends were apprehensive as the 70-year-old statesman of France fought an illness which one report said had developed into partial paralysis.

Late today Dr. Louis Boidin, who had visited M. Poincare earlier, was hastily summoned again. As he entered the war President's little house on Marbeau avenue at the edge of Paris he told newspaper men:

"Do not expect any declaration from me. I shall not come out again as I am remaining overnight."

Dr. Boidin's statement was taken to mean former President Poincare's condition was serious.

It was learned tonight M. Poincare complained of feeling ill first on the 4th inst., when he sat in the Senate during the session in which the Tardieu Cabinet was overthrown. During a long meeting he remained in the deliberations room in an excessively heated atmosphere and when he emerged complained to a friend of being chilled.

"These sittings are very tiring," he told the friend, "yet they want me to resume the duties of the Premiership when I can hardly weather one sitting in the Senate."

Atlanta was prepared for the first snowfall of the winter. A low of 32 deg. has been predicted here tomorrow.

Richmond, Va., reported a high today of 39 deg. with a low of 31, but only a trace of snow was in evidence.

A light snow fell throughout the day at Nashville, Tenn., with a high of 39 and a low of 34. Colder weather with snow was forecast.

FILM CHIEF ARRESTED ON GOOSE HUNT

J. L. Warner and Others Taken in North Charged With Overreaching Limit

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 15. (AP)—Charged with shooting more than the legal limit of geese, a group of motion-picture executives and players of Hollywood and Los Angeles were arrested near Butte City yesterday. The group included J. L. Warner, motion-picture magnate, and Darryl Zamick, brother-in-law of Adolph Zukor.

Members of the group said they were shooting near Butte City and upon counting the bag found they were twenty birds short of the limit. Just then, according to their story, a flight went over and several of the hunters fired. Upon recounting the bag they found they were eight geese over the limit. At that moment George Tonkin, A. F. Miner and Taylor Lander appeared and took the men in custody.

FILM ACTOR LOSES FIGHT FOR CHILD

Barthelmess Ordered to Share Daughter's Custody With Miss Hay

NEW YORK, Dec. 15. (Exclusive) Richard Barthelmess, film actor, has lost his fight to wrest sole custody of his 8-year-old daughter, Mary Hay Barthelmess, from the child's mother, Mary Hay, the dancer, who divorced him in Paris four years ago. The child, now living in the Hollywood home of her father and his second wife, the former Mrs. Jessica Sargent, will arrive at the New York apartment of her mother before Christmas.

Barthelmess, who agreed when he was divorced that he and his ex-wife would share the little girl's custody, refused to give her up to Miss Hay after he remarried. This battle over the child's custody has been raging since last spring when Miss Hay went to visit her father, Brig.-Gen. Frank Merrill Caldwell, commandant of the Presidio at San Francisco, expecting to bring her daughter back with her.

When Barthelmess came East recently he and Miss Hay took their dispute before Rev. S. Parks Cadman as arbiter. The film star charged that his ex-wife was not a fit parent and she accused him likewise as an unfit father and with exploiting their child to gain publicity for his pictures, and also charged that the second Mrs. Barthelmess had alienated the child's affections. The clergyman decided in favor of the mother, who then obtained a writ of habeas corpus requiring the father to send the girl east.

PORTIONS OF BEESEMYER FRAUD RECORDS VANISH

Pages recording almost eleven months of Gilbert H. Beesemyer's amazing financial transactions which wrecked the Guaranty Building and Loan Association are missing from his little red-ink "theft" ledger, it was discovered late yesterday by Chief Deputy District-Attorney Stewart.

The ledger, which sets forth in detail just how much money Beesemyer took from the company and spent in his various promotions, was taken from the safe of the Guaranty association for examination by Stewart and Milton O. Shaw, examiner for the State Building and Loan Commission, and it was then discovered that almost one year's record is gone.

The two officials were unable to determine just how much of the valuable record is gone as no numbers appear on the loose-leaf pages. How the missing pages came to be taken from the record had not been learned last night.

PAPERS LOCKED UP

A second record known as a journal from which the "theft" ledger was compiled, was unearthed by Stewart and Shaw in the vaults of the wrecked loan company, and will supply, the officials declare, all of the missing data and also give new details of Beesemyer's amazing transactions.

As a precaution against any further loss of valuable evidence the remains of the "theft" ledger together with the newly discovered key journal were placed by Stewart and Shaw in the vaults of a downtown bank and will remain there until wanted by the grand jury.

Questioned in the County Jail Beesemyer declared that his little black "theft" ledger was complete when he delivered it to the authorities and that the last time he saw it there was nothing missing.

A second surprise in the Beesemyer investigation came shortly after the discovery of the missing leaves of the "theft" ledger had been announced when Dist.-Atty. Fitts uncovered $25,000 in cash which had been concealed by Beesemyer three days before the crash of his company.

PURPOSE EXPLAINED

The money, according to Fitts, was taken from the funds of the Guaranty company by Beesemyer in cash and given to another person to be turned over later to his wife and son. According to Fitts, $11,000 was to have been given to Mrs. Beesemyer and $11,000 to Elmer Beesemyer, the jailed financier's 17-year-old son.

Fitts declined to make public the name of the person trusted with the money by Beesemyer and stated that all of the information in his possession will be given to State Building and Loan Commissioner Whitmore so that he will be able to add the amount to the assets of the wrecked company.

The appearance of LeCompte Davis, criminal attorney, at the District Attorney's office, a secret conference between Fitts, Stewart and Davis, with a subsequent announcement by the District Attorney that Davis is representing Beesemyer as his counsel, added the third major development of the day.

Other developments were:

(1.) Eighteen grand jury subpoenas were served on witnesses scheduled to appear before the grand jury today.

(2.) Unavailing effort was made by the authorities to locate Earle N. Moore, vice-president of the Elmer Oil Company and close business associate of Beesemyer, wanted for questioning.

(3.) It was discovered that Beesemyer had financed an oil and supply house, an airplane company, a small railroad in the northern part of the State, an oil company, a gold mine and several large real estate developments, all with funds taken from the Guaranty Building and Loan Association.

(4.) A visit was paid to his father in the County Jail by Elmer Beesemyer, son of the former financier.

(5.) Beesemyer appeared in Superior Judge Wood's court for arraignment and a continuance was granted until this morning.

(6.) It was discovered that Beesemyer had extensive oil dealings involving millions with Earl Moore before the formation of the Elmer Oil Company in 1928.

(7.) It was announced by the investigating officials that a great deal more than $3,000,000, as first announced by Beesemyer, had been

COURT PLEA HITS SNAG

Bankruptcy Case Postponed

Federal Judge Delays Until Saturday Action on Move for Receivership

Whitmore Fights Proposal to Take Guaranty Affair Out of His Hands

Two moves to have United States District Judge Cosgrave appoint a receiver for the Guaranty Building and Loan Association, closed and taken over by State Building and Loan Commissioner Whitmore because of Gilbert H. Beesemyer's admitted misuse of its funds as its secretary, were continued yesterday.

Judge Cosgrave said he will take the proposals under consideration and on Saturday at 10 a.m. will hear those interested in the actions. The situation is too complicated, the judge told a group of attorneys who called on him yesterday, to be settled without careful inquiry.

Meanwhile, six other legal moves centering around the collapsed association were made, one in Federal court and five in Superior Court. The other Federal suit asks also for a receiver and charges Whitmore with being more experienced as a political office-holder than as a business man competent to bring the association out of its financial mire. Two of the Superior Court suits are for damages of $7,661,783 and $6,600,000, respectively, against association officials, one is a suit by Whitmore to establish his asserted right to do what he did in taking over the association, another has to do with attachment against questioned property and the other is an action directly against Whitmore and his bonding company to recover $5000 lost by an investor.

RECEIVERSHIP OPPOSED

Whitmore, flanked by Deputy State Attorney-General Maltman and Attorney Stanley A. Steindorf of the Building and Loan Department, appeared before Judge Cosgrave in yesterday's chamber proceedings to oppose the bankruptcy receivership action begun Saturday by Attorney J. L. Lewinson, but on which the judge at that time declined to take action, setting yesterday morning as the hour for its consideration. Attorneys Alvin W. Wendt, J. F. T. O'Connor and A. E. Button appeared for association directors, also to oppose the Lewinson action.

When Judge Cosgrave received these men he found a new element in the form of a creditors' petition in opposition to the bankruptcy receivership action begun by Lewinson. This petition requests dismissal of the bankruptcy action and calls for an equity receivership. These creditors were represented by Attorneys W. Sumner Holbrook, Jr., and James C. Sheppard. The creditors are stated in the petition to be W. S. Holbrook, Dixie C. Sheppard, Carrie C. Sheppard, Angus MacDonald Clyde E. Holley, Lillian E. Kearney and Superior Finance Corporation, Ltd. They set out that

AUTOS TO RUN IN GROOVES

Traffic "Tracks" Being Laid on New York Bridge to Prevent Motor Accidents

NEW YORK, Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—An important experiment in bridge traffic is being worked out for the span that links Manhattan to Long Island just east of lower Central Park. Three sets of grooves in which automobile wheels will run are being built in the pavement on the upper-deck roadway which is to make Queensborough Bridge a two-level highway. The top roadway will not be ready until next spring, but blue prints of the traffic innovation were available today.

If the "buried track" idea is successful the scheme may be put into effect on other new bridges.

The grooves on the upper level of the Queensborough span will have a two-fold purpose. They will eliminate traffic accidents caused by wet weather skidding and they will control the driver who refuses to stay in line. The tracks will be two inches deep and set sufficiently far apart to insure safety. There will be four roadways on the second-story level, three of them grooved and carrying eastbound or out-of-town traffic. The other roadway will be used as an overflow lane for cars going either way, the traffic policemen to open and shut the flow.

The lower level now being used as a two-way bridge, will carry four lanes of westbound or into-the-city traffic. A fifth lane will serve the same purpose as the overflow roadway on the upper level. More than 100,000 cars pass over the bridge every twenty-four hours.

The grooved runways were designed by Chief Engineer Edward A. Byrne of the Department of Plants and Structures, after he had made a study of bridge accidents and found most of them had resulted as cars try to pass one another. He is confident the grooved lanes and one-way traffic will show a much reduced accident record.

"This device costs no more than an ordinary roadway," said Mr. Byrne, "and it puts the motorist and his car under rigorous control as soon as the automobile enters the roadway."

WHITMORE OPPOSES MOVE TO FORCE RECEIVERSHIP

New Suits Pile Up in Federal and State Courts Over Guaranty's Assets

DEMANDS VARIED

The State officials and attorneys for association directors announced that they will oppose any receivership move. They take the position that the affairs of the association should be conducted by the commissioner and that there are many reasons why a receivership would not be wise. While Lewinson and Holbrook are for receivership, they are acting in opposition to each other, in that Lewinson is for bankruptcy and receiver, while Holbrook is for an equity receivership. The former receiver would act under the Federal referee in bankruptcy and the latter would act directly under the Federal judge.

Judge Cosgrave heard no arguments while in chambers, it was learned, but at the start said he would have to have more time for consideration of the issues and so set the date for hearing Saturday. Some of the attorneys made brief sketches of their views and the chamber meeting was at an end.

COURT APPROVAL ASKED

On conclusion of his appearance before Judge Cosgrave, Whitmore went to Superior Court with a petition for its approval of his seizure of the association. He sets out that as a result of his department's examination of the association it was found to be "in an unsafe condition" and was conducting its business "in an unsafe manner so as to render its further proceedings hazardous to the public or to those having its funds in custody." He sets out that under the law he stepped in, closed it up and took it over for administration. The action was brought for him by the State legal department under Atty.-Gen. Webb through Maltman and Steindorf.

Superior Judge Doran set next Tuesday, 10 a.m., as the time to hear Whitmore's petition. Whitmore in explaining his move issued a formal statement in which he said:

WHITMORE'S STATEMENT

"The State statutes place a definite duty on the building and loan commissioner to regulate an association when it is in an unsafe condition. However, if some of the creditors file a petition for involuntary bankruptcy a question of whether or not the State or the Federal courts have jurisdiction immediately arises. Performing my duty under the State laws it is incumbent upon me to make a showing before the Federal courts that the State courts have jurisdiction and that liquidation should proceed in accordance with the machinery set up by the State laws. The building and loan commissioner has no option in the matter if the Federal court determines that it has jurisdiction.

"It might be unfortunate for the investors if the liquidation cannot proceed under the machinery set up by the State laws because this State procedure has been especially designed to handle the liquidation of building and loan associations."

SUITS FOR DAMAGES

The plaintiffs in the $7,661,793 damage suit are given as Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Douglas, Oma Caneer, Willis Caneer, Russell Fleck, Romey Fleck, Frances A. McBride, Karl B. Schurr, Carrie Helen LaRue, Abbott Lindsey and Ernest Stensel. Douglas, an attorney, filed it, he said, on behalf of all stockholders, declared to number about 20,000. They are proceeding on the theory that officers of the association are liable for defalcations by its employees. It is directed specifically against Beesemyer as its secretary and the other officers.

Officers of the association include O. S. Dexter, president; Sam Kress, Charles Lumpkin, K. J. Koebig and Clifford Gillespie, vice-presidents.

The plaintiff in the $6,600,000 action is Ralph E. Kearney and he also moves to recover money for stockholders and directs his suit against all of the officers named in the first suit and in addition C. E. Jacobson and Oscar L. Bishop. They, he sets out, were association directors until 1927. From them he asks $150,000. Scott McReynolds is his attorney. The $6,600,000 is the amount he estimates as association losses.

ATTACHMENT SOUGHT

Attorney George W. Zent and Gladys Zent began an attachment suit in Superior Court against six lots on account of $9900 certificates of indebtedness which Zent says he holds against Beesemyer and the association. Capt. Jewell of Sheriff Traeger's office, which is called on to attach the lots, said the lots are assessed in the name of North American Bond and Mortgage Company. The North American Bond and Mortgage is a Beesemyer company from which he is said by authorities to have embezzled about $500,000.

Casley McWilliams, who sets up that he is a $5000 investor in the association, filed suit in Superior Court against Whitmore and his bonding company, Southern Surety Company, asserting that the association collapse is chargeable to Whitmore in that he assertedly permitted the Beesemyer defalcation by reason of asserted wanton carelessness and gross neglect in examination of the organization. McWilliams sues to recover the $5000 he lost. Black, Hammack and Black are the attorneys in the action.

SURETY COMPANY SUES

Later in the day, Seaboard Surety Corporation of America filed in Federal court a bill of complaint asking that a receiver for the association be appointed. It set up that it is a holder of some of the $12,000,000 in certificates issued by the association. It sets up in substance that Whitmore is incompetent as a business man to handle the situation because he, it is asserted, is more of a political officeholder than business man.

Attorney George D. Blair filed the suit on behalf of Milton I. Shafer, bail bondsman, and it is directed against the association in general, Beesemyer and association officials in general and specifically Harry E. Jones, Frederick G. Leonard, R. Stuart, Orville Routt and A. Z. Taft, Jr., described as careless and negligent in handling association matters.

The bill was filed after Judge Cosgrave had left for the day, but it appeared to attorneys that action in this matter will go over until Saturday morning along with the others of its kind.

DEPOSITORS ORGANIZE

Attorney S. S. Hahn announced yesterday that 175 association depositors had met in his office and formed the Guaranty Building and Loan Depositors' Protective League with twelve directors who elected Ralph J. Reese chairman, and V. B. Espinosa, secretary. He said the board will meet in his office this forenoon to plan for a general public meeting of persons losing through the association going on the rocks.

Hahn said his organization will demand removal of Whitmore from office, will oppose any bankruptcy move against the association, will demand removal of association directors and will ask that a body of representative citizens be placed in charge of the association.

He announced eight other of the twelve directors of his organization as C. K. Denman, A. L. Rosenblum, Mrs. Glorian Smith, Dr. Harry Finkel, Don Leeson, F. L. Kays, Harry Turpin and Albert Ettinger. Hahn called the depositors' meeting yesterday.

CASH PLAN OFFERED

Whitmore announced Sunday that he would ask the Clearinghouse Association to get its member banks to underwrite 25 per cent of the face value of association certificates so that much ready cash might be got at once on them. He said he was not certain that the plan is feasible. He did not broach the plan yesterday, however, saying he had not had time to get around to it.

Informal complaints reached some court officials yesterday that holders of safety deposit boxes in association branches were denied access to their boxes and belongings contained therein. They complained that they are mere renters of vaults in the offices and not in any way connected with any of the organizations' difficulties. They requested that something be done about this.

Whitmore said he had given orders that persons properly entitled to have access to the boxes should be permitted to do so upon presenting credentials. He said he would see to it that such access be given.

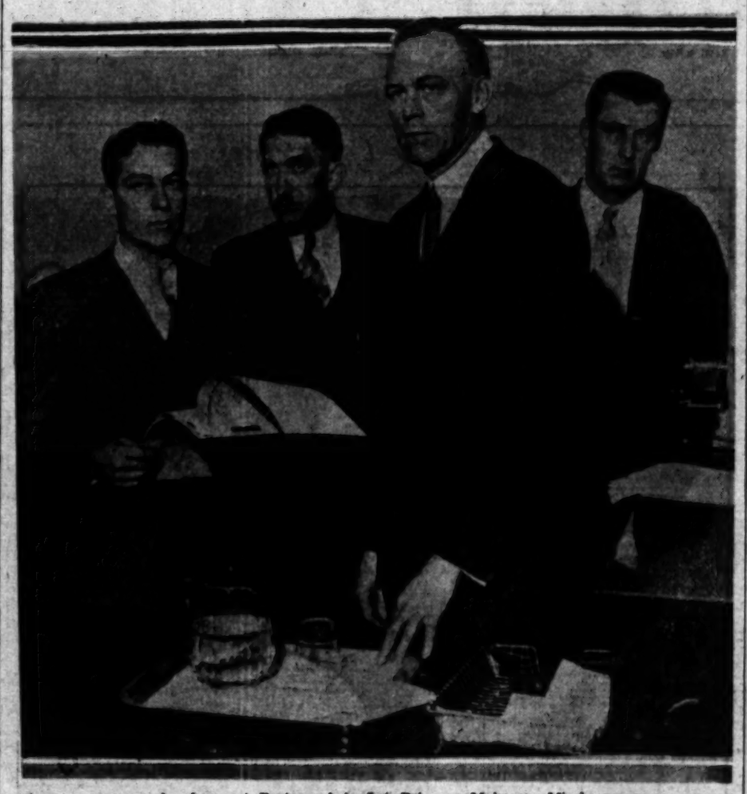
Confessed Swindler of Millions Faces Court



Arraignment Postponed to Let Prisoner Make up Mind sunk by him in a frenzied oil-drilling program.

(8.) It was discovered that while his embezzlements began in 1922, Beesemyer repaid all of his "borrowings" some time in 1924 and then again dipped into the funds of his loan company.

SEARCH FAILS

Chief among the activities of the authorities yesterday was a frenzied but unsuccessful search for Moore, who acted as vice-president and general manager of Beesemyer's Elmer Oil Company. Moore, according to the searching detectives, left his home in Beverly Hills several days ago and up to a late hour last night had not been located.

According to Fitts, the missing man is wanted to explain the flood of gold spent under his direction in a drilling schedule at Santa Fe Springs and other oil fields during which eleven dry holes were drilled.

Moore, who, according to Beesemyer, had sole control over the actual operations of the oil company, spent more than $2,000,000 since the formation of the Elmer Oil Company, and various other sums before the company was incorporated, the records show.

MOORE TO APPEAR

Although no official word was received by District Attorney's investigators from Moore, Verne E. Robinson, attorney for the Elmer Oil Company, of which the man was vice-president, declared that he believed that Moore had retained counsel and probably will report to the authorities some time today.

Moore, it is understood by the authorities, has retained an attorney and will appear for questioning if desired. In statements made by the missing man before the authorities decided that he was an important figure in the present investigation, he declared that he knew nothing of Beesemyer's embezzlements.

"I was working for Beesemyer," Moore was quoted as saying, "and we had some bad and some good luck in our drilling program. I know nothing regarding Beesemyer's finances or where he got his money. I believed him to be wealthy.

SIGHT UNSEEN

"During the years that I have been associated with Beesemyer I have many times signed various papers for him at his request. Many times I had little or no knowledge of what I was signing, as he explained that the papers had to do with routine matters."

From what could be learned yesterday Moore drew no salary from the Elmer Oil Company, but did have some kind of a cash drawing account from which he obtained money when needed. The expenses for the oil-drilling operations conducted by the company were paid for by check on the Elmer Oil Company, the money being supplied to the oil company's account by Beesemyer.

LARGE SUMS TRACED

With experts working on the various books and records of the Beesemyer companies, Fitts last night announced that he had been able to trace a number of large sums spent by Beesemyer through the Elmer Oil Company from the pockets of depositors in the association, to Beesemyer's personal account and then into the bank account of the concern.

The tracing of the various sums was done by expert accountants without much help from Beesemyer, who refused to give any detailed accounts of what he did with the stolen money. In his various statements made since his arrest Beesemyer admitted taking some $8,000,000 of company money, but declined to trace any single item after checking the money out of the company.

Clean shaven and appearing unworried, Beesemyer was taken into Superior Judge Wood's court yesterday morning shortly after 10 o'clock, together with a score of other prisoners, for arraignment, but when his name was called he requested more time to study the indictment.

"I do not wish to have an attorney," he declared to the court as his opening statement after his name had been called by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Jones.

"I wish to have a few days in which to think this thing over and examine the indictment against me," he continued.

"This court will not be governed by your wishes," was the answer by Judge Wood.

Then the prisoner was asked if he had a lawyer and was notified by Judge Wood that it is his right to be represented by counsel at all stages of the criminal proceedings.

DELAY GRANTED

With Beesemyer insisting that he did not want an attorney, but did want some time "to think it all over," Judge Wood continued the arraignment until this morning. He notified Beesemyer, however, that he must be ready at that time. It was later in the day that Davis appeared at the District Attorney's office and announced himself as Beesemyer's attorney.

Back in his cell in the County Jail Beesemyer was visited by a score of friends and former business associates. He talked to all who called, but declined to give much information to the press, declaring that he wants the sensation of his arrest to "die down as soon as possible."

"I don't now know just what I am going to do in the morning," he declared. "I am going to enter a plea of guilty and I do not believe that I need an attorney. However, I am going to take the advice of my family and friends in the matter."

ONE ITEM STUDIED

Much of the time of the authorities investigating Beesemyer's $8,000,000 embezzlement went yesterday to a close examination of the $238,000 item, the last in his "theft" ledger account which shows as a check or a credit to the Bank of Hollywood.

Beesemyer, in attempting to explain the item, declared that it had to do with a transfer of capital stock in the loan company and did not represent any actual money transaction. Officials, however, declared that they are not inclined to accept his explanation and will make an exhaustive investigation of the matter.

Another discovery came yesterday while Shaw and Stewart were examining the "theft" ledger and the journal which were later placed in the safety-deposit vault when it developed that Beesemyer first began to dip into the funds of the Guaranty association early in 1922 and for a time was thousands of dollars in the red, only to pay off in full and, in fact, get into the credit side of the ledger for some $50.

HE GETS IN RED

Shortly after the credit item appeared in the ledger, however, Beesemyer again withdrew large sums and never again was able to get out of the red ink. The heavy withdrawals began, according to the records, in the latter part of 1924.

According to the schedule of grand jury witnesses for today, Beesemyer probably will be recalled for questioning concerning the entry mentioning the transfer of the $238,000 to the Bank of Hollywood. It is understood that the grand jury will attempt to discover just what became of the money.

DIRECTORS ON LIST

Orville L. Routt, Charles R. Stuart, A. Z. Taft, Jr., and J. R. Dexter, directors of the Guaranty Building and Loan Association, also are among the list of witnesses.

Others called to testify are Charles E. Whitmore, State Building and Loan Commissioner; C. C. Barnes, Moses Stern, T. M. Stenzgaard and Roy Dorothy, his assistants; Mary A. Wilmar, secretary of the Elmer Oil Company; Ethel Flanigan, head book-keeper for the Guaranty Building and Loan Association; Dewel Tackaberry, Harry E. Jones, Frederick G. Leonard, Frank Love, Clint Vaught, C. W. Lilja, Milton O. Shaw, Earl N. Moore, and R. L. Fleury.

Subpoenas for George Walker and A. E. Faich, former building and loan commissioners, both of San Francisco, also were ordered issued. The two former commissioners probably will not be called until some time next week.

R. F. Dupuy, manager of the Beverly Hills branch of the loan association, yesterday said he was anxious to co-operate with the State officials investigating the crash of the loan company.

"I would like to say also," Mr. Dupuy added, "that my remarks on the employment of Richard Hyde, as accountant in the Beverly Hills office of the Guaranty company, quoted in yesterday's issue of The Times have been misunderstood. The fact that Mr. Hyde is the son-in-law of Charles A. Whitmore, State building and loan commissioner, had nothing to do with his employment in the office as our accountant. That is what I wanted to convey when I was asked to comment on Mr. Hyde's employment."

LEGION STARTS MOVE IN INVESTORS' BEHALF

Members of the Hollywood Post of the American Legion last night started the formation of the Depositors' Protective Committee comprised of investors of the Guaranty Building and Loan Association and following the preliminary session at the post clubhouse, 2035 North Highland avenue, announced that another meeting will be held Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

Officials of the post said last night that although the committee is expected to serve Legion members who were investors in the Guaranty company, the meeting Thursday evening will be open to any investor, whether they are members of the American Legion or not.

BANK LOSS PROSPECTS MINIMIZED

Wood's Aide to Remain in Charge Until Hollywood Board Offers Its Plan

The statement of Deputy State Commissioner of Banks McPaul that there likely will be little if any loss to depositors in the Bank of Hollywood, closed by State Commissioner Wood, still stood yesterday. McPaul reiterated also his declaration that he has as yet found no financial connection between the bank and Guaranty Building and Loan Association save that of personalities.

The bank's board yesterday was to have presented a reorganization plan to Wood but was unprepared to do so and none was forthcoming. Wood gave the directors until next Monday with the warning that no further time will be given. Meanwhile McPaul said he is going on with an inventory of the bank's assets and liabilities for presentation to the court in event of liquidation or to the officers in event of reorganization.

McPaul said he expects Wood here from San Francisco next Monday, and that in the meantime he will continue to hold possession and await submission of a reorganization plan.

President G. R. Dexter of the bank, who is president also of the association, and his bank board maintained silence yesterday as to progress of the reported reorganization plans save to authorize announcement through an employee that "there is no news." Others on the board are John A. Avery, O. L. Bishop, C. B. Edington, Orville L. Routt, E. R. Smith, H. J. Strathearn and R. N. Stevenson. Gilbert H. Beesemyer was chairman of the board of the bank.

grounds, where they were harangued by their officers and urged to join the republic which had just been proclaimed. All who joined the movement—about 1000—were given rifles and ammunition, although many had never used such a weapon before, and those who refused were locked in a hangar.

Six planes were wheeled out and their wings were painted red by some rebels, while others disarmed guards over the arsenal and filled a motor truck with bombs which later were placed in planes.

PAMPHLETS DROPPED

Several of the ships began a flight over Madrid, dropping pamphlets which urged troops to revolt and threatened to bomb their barracks if they did not.

Other mutineers severed all communication between the aviation field and the capital and seized the government wireless station near the airdrome, imprisoning the manager in charge. Through this medium they announced to the world a revolution was on and a republic had been proclaimed.

The government acted speedily. The Leon regiment of 3000 men under Gen. Orgaz was dispatched to round up the mutineers, while the government artillery began a bombardment and loyal army aircraft took over the ships piloted by rebels. In all, said an official statement, about 5000 troops were assembled to crush the uprising.

There were few or no casualties, since the government said it wished only to intimidate the rebels, but after shells had spurted shrapnel dust and gravel over the airdrome for half an hour a white flag shot to the top of the airdrome and the rebellion at that point was ended.

MANY SURRENDER

Many of the mutineers surrendered when the first shells fell and others waited until they saw the gleaming bayonets of the infantry approaching.

In the mean while the pamphlet-spreading planes, in one of which Franco held the stick, saw what had happened to those on the ground and the four machines speedily set a westward course for Portugal.

As night closed in upon Madrid the city was treated to another leaflet-bombardment. But this time the pamphlets were dropped by loyal aviators and proclaimed the collapse of the revolutionary movement.

Vigorous precautions were taken, nevertheless, and late tonight a strong force of cavalry occupied Getafe Airdrome to prevent any extension of the revolt spirit there.

PROPERTY IN BEESEMYER'S NAME FOUND

Tax Roll Shows Sixty-five Parcels of Real Estate in Jailed Financier's Name

Search of the assessment roll in the Tax Collector's office yesterday revealed that Gilbert H. Beesemyer is the recorded owner of sixty-five parcels of real estate in Los Angeles county with the assessed valuation of approximately $42,020.

The real estate consists of three parcels in the Hollywood business district with an assessed valuation of $23,270, forty parcels in the El Segundo district, varying in assessed value from $20 to $450, slightly more than 158 acres in the northern section of the county near the Ventura county line assessed at $770, three parcels north of Hollywood in which F. A. Hartwell also is cited as a recorded owner with an assessed value of $2540, two parcels with a total assessed value of $5570 in the Bixby subdivision of the Rancho Los Cerritos and other miscellaneous pieces of property.

Taxes totaling $1933.33 have been levied on the property for the present fiscal year, none of which have yet been paid, according to the records. The real estate is assessed at 50 per cent of its value for tax purposes. The fact that Beesemyer's name appears on the books as the recorded owner does not necessarily indicate ownership as in no instance has he made a statement to that effect to the Tax Collector, it was stated.

BRITAIN RATED HIGHER ON SEA

Admiral Pratt Testifies on Naval Superiority

Numerous Bases Declared Factor of Strength

Need of Merchant Marine Urged in Congress

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15. (AP)—The highest ranking naval officer testified today that Great Britain retains sea power superiority over the United States despite technical parity under the London treaty.

Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, told the House Naval Committee Great Britain's numerous naval bases gave that country a sea power that could not be equaled until the United States builds up its merchant marine.

DRAFT SUBMITTED

Acting Secretary Jahncke submitted to Congress the draft of a proposed bill to comply with treaty provisions and authorize $510,000 to convert the battleship Wyoming into a training vessel and $269,000 to make a target ship out of the battleship Utah. It also would provide for scrapping the battleship Florida and other smaller vessels.

Pratt was discussing a $134,000,000 naval building program the Navy proposes to start the next fiscal year. When the questioning swung to parity, Pratt said conditions made Great Britain seek more vessels, while the United States, with fewer naval bases, needed larger ships.

POINT NOT RAISED

The point of bases was not raised at the London conference by American delegates, he said, because "it would have complicated the question so much we might not have been able to reach an agreement."

When Chairman Britten asked whether Great Britain's larger number of bases would give her a "tremendous military advantage" over the United States, Pratt replied:

"She is a stronger sea power and always will be a stronger sea power until we get a larger merchant marine."

PRATT NOMINATED TO RANK OF ADMIRAL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15. (AP)—President Hoover today sent to the Senate the formal nomination of Rear-Admiral Pratt to be chief of naval operations with the rank of admiral.

Mrs. Jesse Lasky at Her Easel

MRS. LASKY MOUNTS PEGASUS

Wife of Film Magnate, Already Known as Painter, Revealed as Poet by Published Book

NEW YORK, Dec. 15. (AP)—Mrs. Bessie Lasky, wife of Jessie L. Lasky, motion-picture magnate, became a published poet today. A collection of her verse appeared entitled "And I Shall Make Music." Already a painter, Mrs. Lasky began writing verse about a year ago. Mother of three children, she personally looks after the family homes on Fifth avenue in New York and in Santa Monica, Cal.

Idle fingers that do no work—
Mold clay, turn soil.
Idle minds that do not think—
Dream dreams, speak forgiveness.
Idle arms that carry no burden—
Produce no labor, offer no love. . . .

It ends, "Oh! the futility of idleness."

The volume contains 100 poems on many subjects, including "Hands," "The Bois in Paris," "Silences," her "Twilight Garden" in Santa Monica and "Armistice Day." Several are reflections on her travels in Europe, where the family goes every year.

One verse is from the theater. Describing Mei Lan Fang, the Chinese actor, Mrs. Lasky writes:

As a ming prince
He waves his undulating flower-form
Through the movements of life's drama.

The book's title is from a verse inspired by a tropical garden at Palm Beach.

Mrs. Lasky's paintings were exhibited in several cities last year and will be shown again in New York in April. Her poems are dedicated to her husband, whom she met when he had a seven-piano act in vaudeville. She then was Bessie Gaines of Boston and was studying to become a concert pianist.

The Laskys' eldest son, Jesse Lasky, Jr., also is the author of a book of verse, "The Heart of a Boy," written several years ago.

HIGHBROWS "SEE" COLOR BY SOUNDS

Chromoaesthesia Said by Scientist to Be Sign of Advanced Mentality

BOSTON, Dec. 15. (AP)—If you "see red" when some one makes the sound of "S," you have "colored hearing," a sign of development.

Evidence of unexpectedly widespread colored hearing was made public today at Boston University, where Dr. Howard Kingsley, professor of psychology, reported it probably is as common as color blindness. Its scientific name is chromoaesthesia.

"S" is not the only letter associated with color hearing, nor red the only color that "S" suggests. Any sound may produce a sensation of seeing red or of any other color in the rainbow.

An interesting point is that for the same person the same sound produces the same color, although it may mean a different color to some one else.

"Chromoaesthesia is not a freakish condition or a defect," he said. "As a matter of fact it is a condition of high development and the person who finds himself in the described condition has something in addition to the normal person. Knowledge of this condition is not new to science."

GERMANS BLOCK PACT ON SUGAR

International Conference at Brussels Fails

Curtailment of Production Agreement Sought

Other Nations Vote to Stand on Quota Basis

BRUSSELS (Belgium) Dec. 15. (AP)—The International Sugar Conference disbanded today without reaching an agreement. The rock upon which it split was refusal of the German delegation to recede from its demands regarding its export quota.

All the interested nations except Germany believed an agreement at this conference the only possible way to save the world's sugar industry from the ills of overproduction.

The conference which broke up today was the result of a week's work in which the American-Cuban delegation joined forces with the Japanese, Polish, Hungarian, Czecho-Slovakian and Belgian interests in an effort to convince the German delegation radical reduction of her exports for the next five years is imperative.

The other nations agreed to abide by the reductions, which they said they would make effective until January 15, hoping meanwhile Thomas L. Chadbourne would be able to induce the Germans to change their minds.

EINSTEIN URGES WAR FOR PEACE

Famed Scientist Advocates Universal Pacifism

Two Plans Outlined for Military Resistance

Speaking before the New Historical Society at the Ritz Carlton Hotel last night, he said.

In our political situation it is the duty of man to commit crime in the name of his State or his country. It seems to me it is more his duty to free mankind of this sort of thing.

"There are two ways in which this can be done. The first, which has already been practiced in many countries, is to refuse military duty in time of war. If only 2 per cent of the men liable for war service were to refuse, there would not be enough jails in the world to take care of them.

SECOND METHOD

The second method, he said, lies in formation of a "war resistance fund" with pacifists from all nations contributing. The money would be used to defend imprisoned objectors and to strengthen the feeling against armed conflict the world over.

"A real initiative in one or both directions," he concluded, "would bring results. But you must show courage and you must show patience, otherwise you will remain just pacifists."

His remarks were translated from the German by Mrs. Rosika Schwimmer. He was preceded on the program by Miss Helen Keller, the blind author.

Prof. Einstein and his party sailed tonight on the liner Belgenland for Havana and the Pacific Coast, by way of the Panama Canal.

OFF FOR CALIFORNIA

The scientist spent most of the day motoring in the country with Mrs. Einstein and friends. They returned after dark to the liner Belgenland, on which the physicist arrived from Germany Thursday and has made his home here and which started late tonight for California, where Dr. Einstein will visit the California Institute of Technology and the Mt. Wilson Observatory to rest, study and perhaps to lecture.

Just before the ship departed, some one made the last call:

"Ask the professor," said the voice, "which came first, the egg or the chicken. I'll call back in two hours to find out."

Twenty-four high school students who said they had theories of their own which the Berlin physicist would be glad to investigate, were among 465 other telephone callers.

FORTY MEN RESCUE DOG

Crew Digs and Blasts Way Into Cave to Save Pet Trapped for Four Days

MOUNT PLEASANT (Iowa) Dec. 15. (AP)—Bingo, a fox terrier, was rescued today from a cave that had been his home for four and a half days.

Weak from loss of blood and ravenous for food, Bingo was lifted from the pit into which he had dropped by his master, Lawrence Mills, and carried from the underground chamber, which had been made accessible by dynamite.

Bingo chased a raccon into the cave last Wednesday and dropped into a pit out of which he could not climb. The "coon," taking advantage of the situation, gave Bingo a lesson in underworld fighting and then scampered out of the pit.

Mills waiting at the entrance for Bingo to come out heard his whines and started to investigate. He could not get into the cave far enough to lift the dog from the pit. Two score men worked almost continuously until last night to enlarge the entrance, but a wall of limestone barred the way.

A blast of dynamite cleared this obstruction, but Bingo "high tailed" for a burrow leading from the floor of the pit when the blast echoed through the chamber. He refused to leave his burrow when Mills came to the top of the pit.

This morning he became hungry. Hesitant at first, the dog finally overcame his fears and he limped into the pit within reach of his master's rescuing hand.

SHEPARD AT DEATH TRIAL GAINS POINT

Government Witnesses Testify for Defense in Wife-Poisoning Case

KANSAS CITY (Kan.) Dec. 15. (AP)—Some of the prosecution's own witnesses were turned to the defense of Maj. Charles A. Shepard in his trial for the asserted poison murder of his wife today and testified it was possible Mrs. Shepard died from medicine prescribed by another army medical officer.

When court adjourned for the day the records contained testimony that in Mrs. Shepard's fatal illness at Fort Riley, Kan., in June, 1929, a solution of bichloride of mercury (the poison which the government contends caused death) was used as a mouth wash at the direction of Maj. M. A. Rose, a dentist.

Maj. C. R. Callendar, an army pathologist, contributed the statement Mrs. Shepard could have absorbed enough of the mercury from the mouth wash to cause death.

It was further testified it was possible Mrs. Shepard may have swallowed some of the mouth wash through carelessness, and it was intimated there was a possibility she may have used the medicine to commit suicide.

Both Maj. Rose and Maj. Callendar were placed on the stand by the defense, although subpoenaed as prosecution witnesses. The prosecution did not call either of the officers.

Opening up its medical testimony, the defense immediately began to blast away at the circumstantial case presented by the government, which asserts Shepard poisoned his wife so he would be free to wed Miss Grace Brandon, young stenographer of San Antonio, Tex.

NYE CALLS NEW DAVIS FUND QUIZ

Senate Investigator Now Says Campaign Expenses More Than $1,000,000

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15. (AP)—Expenditures of "well over $1,000,000" in behalf of the Davis-Brown primary and the Davis Senatorial election campaigns in Pennsylvania, were said by Chairman Nye of the State Campaign Funds Committee today to have been disclosed by additional reports from committee investigators.

"And that isn't the end at all," the North Dakotan added, in announcing further hearings will be held here this week on the Pennsylvania campaign.

Samuel Vauclain of Philadelphia, treasurer of the State Davis-Brown campaign committee, will be one of the witnesses.

Nye would not say whether a move will be made to unseat Senator Davis, who was administered the oath over Nye's protest.

Should Golfers Wear Socks?

Do you think men shouldn't wear golf hose??? Perhaps you've never seen a Scotchman prancing bare-kneed down the street in "kilties." You'd be convinced if you did! Golfers MUST wear socks! And yet . . . when golf socks are washed only once, and they shrink up like a man asking for a raise, it makes a fellow think.

But here's the solution! . . .

Hozform is the one thing that will keep your hose from shrinking . . . keep them in the finest condition always. They are made in all standard sizes, of sturdy steel that will not warp or bend. Slip the wet hose on them after washing. Hose will dry in a fraction of the usual time, and come off the Hozform looking like new . . . soft, fluffy, perfectly fitted to the foot, ankle and leg.

They are made in two types: Regulars, of steel rod plated with a patented rustproof coating. And the Hozforms of Stainless Steel.

Ideal Christmas Gifts

Hozforms are the perfect gift for the golfer or any one that wears knickers. Give HIM a pair and he'll remember you every time he puts on his hose. Hozforms for every member of the family, come in all sizes (men's regular and golf hose, women's sport and silk hose, children's and infants' hosiery, priced from $1.50 to $4.50. Obtainable at the better department and shoe stores, men's wear, and sporting goods shops. Stainless Steel Hozforms present a handsome silvery appearance and are packed in beautiful gift boxes. Ask for them by the copyrighted name, "Hozform." Accept no substitutes.

"If I had known at 25 what I discovered after 40"

"GUARD health most carefully between 25 and 40," urges the medical profession.

Age 40 is the average turning point in health. Over half of men and women past this age discover they are afflicted with a prevalent ailment...kidney breakdown. Unfortunately, there are no warning symptoms.

Kidneys, through constant passing off of 75% of poisonous waste from the system, are overworked. Congestion occurs, throwing back into the system poisons which should be eliminated. This is the forerunner of more serious ills.

How to Protect Health Before and After 40

Begin now to protect health against the years past 40. Use one of the most effective preventives that medical science knows. Drink 6 glasses of Puritas Water daily.

Puritas flushes kidneys, dilutes poisonous waste and carries it away. Ordinary water fails, in large measure, in these results, because of minerals it contains. These deposit in kidneys, adding further to congestion. But Puritas, through scientific distillation, is both mineral-free, impurity-free; drinking water in its purest form.

Thus Puritas leaves no mineral content to add further to congestion. Puritas protects the normal functioning of kidneys in the most efficient way.

For health protection, before and after 40, order Puritas today. Phone WEstmore 0381 for immediate delivery to your home, anywhere in Southern California. A Puritas iceless cooler furnished free.

RILEY SUMS UP STATE'S COST

Government Expenses for Year $119,599,302

Analysis of Items Accounts for Heavy Gains

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 15. (AP)—The cost of State government for the year ending June 30, 1930, was reported by Controller Riley today as totaling $119,599,302.07, an increase of $8,947,951.82 over 1929, $28,723,518.02 more than the 1928 total and $32,001,545.82 over the 1927 cost.

Riley said the $8,947,951.82 increase during the past year was largely due to the following functions: Administrative increase, $1,474,583; educational increase, $3,747,748, of which $850,908.56 is due to increased fixed charges for elementary and high school apportionments to counties, and the balance, $3,896,940.42, due to increased State costs of administration and support of teacher colleges.

COMPARATIVE TOTALS

For comparative purposes Riley gave the following figures representing the cost of State government for the past three years: 1927 totaled $87,597,756.25; 1928 totaled $89,866,767.05, and 1929 totaled $110,651,350.25.

INCREASED ITEMS

The Controller said that in analyzing the increase of $32,001,545.82 over the 1927 period, highway construction and maintenance account for $13,315,592.94, apportionment to counties for highways, $3,343,816.52; apportionment to counties for elementary and high schools, $3,525,239, with the remaining $11,816,805.02 increase representing greater costs of all other State government functions during the four-year period.

California prisons, the study of crime, apprehension of criminals and enforcement of narcotic laws cost the State $2,074,844.32 during the fiscal year ended June 30, as compared with $1,764,181 spent for these purposes during the preceding fiscal year.

RESTRICTION ON FILIPINOS HELD INSULT

Exclusion Protested by New Englander, Defended by Senator Johnson

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15. (AP)—Arguments for and against applying the Reed emergency two-year immigration exclusion resolution to Filipinos were heard today by the Senate Immigration Committee. A corresponding House committee has virtually agreed to report a similar resolution.

Senator Bingham, Republican, Connecticut, termed the Filipino restriction "extremely unfortunate." He said it would be regarded by the Filipinos as an "insult."

Senator Johnson, Republican, California, said it "was not a question of offense to our wards, but one of self-defense in a great economic problem."

RELATIVES CLAUSE IN BILL PROTESTED

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15. (AP)—The California Joint Immigration Committee protested today against provisions of the House Immigration Committee bill which would permit relatives of persons from Western Hemisphere countries living in the United States to enter the country without restriction.

The protest was aimed primarily at Mexican immigration and pointed out there are approximately 2,000,000 Mexicans in the United States, all of whom have relatives in Mexico.

The Senate added $1,190,380 for pay increases to government employees; $750,000 for a new northern transcontinental air-mail route; $345,000, for extending the international air mail and $35,000 for a Coast Guard station on Green Bay, Wisconsin.

Gunmen at Wedding of Capone Girl

CHICAGO, Dec. 15. (AP)—The net was out for gangland gunmen at the wedding of Mafalda Capone yesterday.

Detectives disengaged five men with bulging pockets from the shadows of St. Mary's Church. They tossed them all in jail, and today brought them forth to be booked.

Four of the men were held. The fifth was freed with apologies.

He was a Department of Justice agent, on hand to learn what he could about the whereabouts of Mafalda's brother, Alphonse.

American Loses Louvain Battle on Inscription

BRUSSELS, Dec. 15. (AP)—The Court of Appeals today decided against Whitney Warren, American architect, in the now-famous Louvain Library suit, by pronouncing in favor of Louvain University, which stood out for removal of Warren's inscription on the library facade.

The inscription, reading "Destroyed by Teutonic fury, restored by American generosity," was objected to by the university as tended to perpetuate the hatreds of the World War. Warren refused to withdraw it and the lower courts sustained him. Now he must pay the costs of both actions.

The inscription was placed on the building, then removed and a new balustrade erected where it had been. Today's decision apparently disposes of the issue.

Governor-elect Hopes to Cut Expenditures

Revival of Mining Among His Ambitions

Message to Legislature Being Prepared

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15. (AP)—State finances, possible revision of California's taxes and plans for the material advancement of the State will occupy prominent spots in Governor-elect Rolph's inaugural message, he revealed tonight. Preparation of the message with consideration of further appointments is occupying most of his time.

In his taxation proposals, the Governor-elect indicated, he will express his desire to revive the California mining industry through amelioration of the tax burden on mining interests.

State expenditures," he said, "like those for cities and counties, have become unduly burdensome and we must find a solution for the taxation problems of California. Before my term has expired I hope, with the aid of others, to find a way to cut down our expenditures."

Paring down the costs, however, will not be allowed to interfere with Rolph's plans for "humanizing of State government," which will also be discussed in his inaugural address.

"I have been studying the growth of the State's expenses during the last twenty years," Rolph said. "As a business man I realize the mounting costs of government should be ended, if possible."

Young Brown, a former student of Purdue University, is believed to have perished in the ruins of the home, but no trace of his body has been found.

Harry F. Atwood's Funeral Will Be Tomorrow

Chicagoan Fostered Study of Constitution

Oratorical Contests Due to His Early Efforts

BY JOHN P. GALLAGHER
"Times" Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—Harry F. Atwood, known as an authority on the United States Constitution, will be buried in Mt. Greenwood Cemetery here following funeral services to be conducted in Joseph Bond Chapel at the University of Chicago Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Atwood died suddenly last Friday night at the Plaisance Hotel, where he made his home. He was 61 years of age.

Mr. Atwood was president of the Constitution Educational Association and was one of the first sponsors of the study of the Constitution of the United States in schools and at home. Prior to September 17, 1923, he had spent months traveling throughout the country urging the beginnings of meetings and special exercises in observance of the anniversary of America's basic law.

His work bore fruit especially in Southern California. In fact it eventually exceeded even his most roseate hopes. That year governors of most of the States issued proclamations calling on the people to celebrate the historic event of September 17, 1787. Clubs and civic bodies, schools and patriotic organizations joined in the celebration, and in many schools an hour was set aside every day for a week for study and understanding of the Constitution.

These meetings and exercises have been held regularly ever since. They were soon, however, to give rise to another intermediary—the National Oratorical Contest—an educational idea of a more intensive character and broader scope with the same purpose in view that Mr. Atwood campaigned for long and arduously—a fuller and clearer understanding of the Constitution of the United States.

Mr. Atwood saw the Oratorical Contest, fostered by the Los Angeles Times, grow from a purely local Southern California high school contest, to the point where not only students of hundreds of high schools in the United States participated, but college students as well under the auspices of influential newspapers of the Middle West, East and South. Then he saw it develop into an International Oratorical Contest with students of high schools and colleges in Mexico, Canada, Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy participating in an exchange of ideas of international basic law with a view to laying a foundation for better world government and for an intimate understanding of the ideas and ideals of civilized nations of the earth.

Mr. Atwood, a graduate of the University of Chicago, served as an assistant United States District Attorney here from 1908 until 1911. He was a veteran of the Spanish-American War. Besides his widow, Mrs. Maud Atwood, he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Eugene Francis.

ANGELENO ARRESTED AS DRUG SUSPECT

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15. (AP)—Albert Ornstein, 25 years of age, of Los Angeles, was held by Federal narcotics agents here today after they arrested him aboard a southbound train and found $500 worth of narcotics in his suit case.

WORTH FORTUNE

MRS. SIDNEY GRAHAM declares new Sargon has been worth a fortune to her.

"I believe I was about the first person in California to try Sargon. I sent to Warrensburg, Mo., for a treatment before it was put on sale here and I wouldn't take a fortune for what it did for me. Everything I ate disagreed with me and I hardly got any nourishment from my food. I was also worried with constipation, dizzy spells and headaches. Sometimes when I'd go to town and try to do a little shopping I'd get so weak and tired I'd have to stop and rest, almost every block.

"Sargon and Sargon Pills helped me from the first and if there's anything wrong with me now I don't know what it is. It's a perfect joy to feel as well and strong as I do now and I never intend to be without this splendid treatment."—Mrs. Graham lives at 1925 Grace Ave., Los Angeles.

TRIO INDICTED FOR BOMBING

A. L. Hodges, A. D. Patton and G. M. Hunter Named

Grand Jury Accuses Them in Imperial Explosion

Ariston Lampkey Killed and Other Filipinos Hurt

EL CENTRO, Dec. 15.—Indictments accusing A. L. Hodges, Anthony D. Patton and G. M. Hunter, three young American workers, of being responsible for the bombing of a Filipino rooming-house and the killing of Ariston Lampkey in Imperial on the 9th inst., were returned by the Imperial county grand jury at the close of a special session at 3:30 p.m. today.

Hodges and Patton already are under arrest and a bench warrant was issued for Hunter, who is reported to have been missing since the night of the outrage.

More than forty witnesses were called before the jury during its investigation, according to Dist.-Atty. Elmer Heald.

While the evidence has not been made public, it was reported at the court this afternoon that a confession by Patton gave definite information connecting himself and the other two defendants with the attack on the Filipinos.

Hodges, according to the testimony, was identified as the purchaser of dynamite and other materials used in constructing the home-made bomb which was tossed through a window of the rooming-house on the night of the explosion. Three other Filipinos injured at the time are reported to be recovering.

Next Thirty Days Critical Period for Citrus Fruit

REDLANDS, Dec. 15.—This is the critical period of the whole year for the orange growers. From about the middle of December until the last of January the danger of loss from fruit in cold weather is great. As a result the growers are staying at home and tending strictly to business, keeping a weather eye on the thermometer and careful that their orchard heaters are well filled with oil, that the reserve tanks have plenty in them, and that the crew which will help to light the heaters is ready for work.

There are scores of high school and university students who are rather anxious to see Jack Frost come around for they have jobs only when he comes. Some nights they get called out and it is not necessary to light a single heater. Then is when the boys rejoice for they get a $5 bill and lose only a few hours of sleep. But the nights when it does get cold they work hard for their money. Sometimes they are busy from early evening until in the morning, in the dark and with it cold enough to nip fingers and toes, stumbling through the groves seeing that the heaters do not go out and expose the fruit to the icy fingers of Jack Frost.

MONROVIA ASKS FOR YULE TREE FUNDS

MONROVIA, Dec. 15.—That some 2500 children of Monrovia might be made happy on Christmas Eve, directors of the municipal Christmas tree have started their annual campaign for funds, it was announced by C. M. Commins, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, today. The funds will be used in the purchase of toys and candy, which will be distributed among the children at the municipal Christmas tree in Library Park, on Christmas Eve. V. R. Bush, chairman of the tree committee this year, stated today that the fund now totals $400, with $600 more to be collected, as the quota has been set at $1000. The main business streets of Monrovia represent two long lines of lighted Christmas trees and decorators will begin their work immediately on the large deodora in Library Park, which, since a young tree of only a few feet in height, has served as the municipal Christmas tree. It is now some twenty-odd feet high.

YOUTHFUL SUSPECTS JAILED BY POLICE

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Dec. 15. Three Long Beach youths, 18 years of age or under, were apprehended last night by Officer Parker as they were attempting, according to officers, to carry away plunder they had stolen to their car, also assertedly stolen. Police assert the youths had broken the large glass window in the door at Al's Confectionery Store, reached through and turned the knob from the inside, and carried off several dollars in small change, a large number of cartons of cigarettes, and boxes of Christmas candy. The asserted thieves attempted to break into the Alpha Beta store across the street, but were seen by the officers. The leader of the gang was caught on the job, police say, and the other two youths captured in Long Beach later in the day. They are lodged in the City Jail.

AUTO RACE ENDS FATALLY

Tex Udell Crowther, Ventura Youth, Dies, and His Chum, Jack Kitley, Incurs Wrenched Back

VENTURA, Dec. 15.—Tex Udell Crowther, 20-year-old Standard Oil Company employee and recently a member of the junior college football squad, was killed early Sunday when the roadster in which he was riding out Main street with Jack Kitley, a school chum, overturned on the State highway 100 yards east of the city limits, near Telegraph Road. Kitley, 20, is in the Big Sisters' Hospital with a wrenched back.

Crowther, who suffered a broken neck when the heavy machine spun off the road into a ditch and over on its back, died soon after he was taken to Big Sisters' Hospital.

Widely varying accounts of the fatal crash were received, but an investigation by Deputy Sheriff Grant Fraser indicated that Kitley was racing another car out Main street to the Italian village, a roadside cafe.

As the youth piloted the big roadster past a machine near Telegraph Road, the deputy sheriff reported, he swerved to the right to avoid a car coming at him from the opposite direction. Blinded by the lights of this automobile, he plunged into the ditch between the road and a cypress hedge bordering the George Power ranch.

Hearing the crash, the two youths in the car which Kitley and Crowther were said to have been racing, turned back, extricated their injured friends from the wreckage and rushed them to the hospital. The rescuers were Jose Pasch and Milo Thomas, according to Deputy Fraser's report.

Barton Road to Be Built by Federal Funds

REDLANDS, Dec. 15.—A. E. Isham, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, has just received word from Congressman Swing that the United States government has decided to build the new Barton Road highway into Big Bear Valley at a cost of $300,000. The survey for the high-gear road was recently completed.

The chief of the Bureau of Public Roads has advised the Congressman that his office has started the design and finished plans of the project and "expects to be ready to let a contract at the earliest possible moment when weather conditions permit construction."

The Congressman announced that the decision of the bureau "means the completion of the road in first-class shape."

During the summer recess Swing made a careful study of the proposed road, which would add a new link in the Crest highway. He returned to Washington and urged the Bureau of Public Roads to undertake immediate construction.

The road will provide a new route into Barton Flats and will enter Bear Valley in the Baldwin Lake region. A mountain country that is now practically isolated will be opened by the new road, including scenic sections of the upper Santa Ana Canyon.

A small portion of the route has been graded by county prison camp crews. Under the new plan it will not be necessary for either the county or the State to contribute to the construction.

Public Hearing Will Be Given to Lieut. Coit Today

SANTA BARBARA, Dec. 15.—Public hearing into charges of asserted misconduct, placed against Police Lieutenant H. S. Coit, will be held tomorrow at 8 a.m., President Tom Clark of the Police Commission announced today.

Lieut. Coit was suspended from the force last week upon request of President Clark, who charged the officer with conduct unbecoming an officer.

Last week Clark received numerous threats for his action, but with a majority of the commission favoring pressing charges, steps to remove Coit will be continued today.

The officer has retained attorneys to fight his case.

ENSENADA HOTEL TO STAY OPEN IN WINTER

ENSENADA, Dec. 15.—Reports that the new Playa de Ensenada Hotel would operate on a seasonal plan and close for the midwinter months are vigorously denied here by Charles Bedell Hervey, managing director of the resort hostelry. Hervey announces that the hotel has many reservations for large parties from the East starting immediately after the Christmas holidays. Hervey also stated that elaborate preparations were being made in Ensenada for Christmas and New Year's celebrations. R. B. Schutten, assistant general passenger agent of the Pacific Steamship Company, allocated an additional steamer to carry the crowds for New Year's Eve, the Dorothy Alexander to share honors with the Admiral Rogers in carrying the merrymakers to Mexico from Los Angeles and San Diego.

BOARD MUST PAY FOR WATER MAINS ERROR

OWENSMOUTH, Dec. 15.—According to a report received here from the Finance Committee of the Los Angeles City Council, the Board of Public Works must dig up $17,608 which the City Attorney rules was illegally expended from funds in the improvement of Devonshire avenue, between Zelzah avenue and Santa Susana avenue.

Work recently was completed. In handling the paving of the four-mile stretch of highway the board included the placing of water mains. Most of the road runs through a sparsely settled agricultural area. The City Attorney contends the placing of the water mains was not authorized, virtually was done in error and, therefore, the Board of Public Works must pay for the work, and not the residents in the municipal improvement district which was organized only for the widening and paving of the road.

Persimmon Crop of Bryn Mawr Sent to East

BRYN MAWR, Dec. 15.—Practically all the persimmon crop of this section has been handled. It has been an excellent crop, not as heavy as some years and has not brought as good prices, but considering the times, the growers are very well satisfied. The Curtis ranch here and the two or three large ranches in the Grand Terrace district have sold practically all their fruit at very fair prices.

A considerable amount of it was shipped in boxes to the East, the fruit being such that it can be shipped and arrive still firm, and sold before it softens and is ready for use. The demand for the fruit is increasing each year because of the manner in which it lends itself to decoration and to dressing up large baskets of fruit. It is said that the eastern caterers use more California persimmons, oranges and grapes in their big fruit baskets than anything now, although the Concord grapes taken from cold storage are still used to some extent.

"Meanest Man" Asserted Trying Yule Tree Theft

HERMOSA BEACH, Dec. 15.—The meanest man is not generally supposed to be quite so mean during the Christmas season, but local police found one last night, whom they say was working quite hard at being himself in spite of the pervading spirit of peace and good will.

The Merchants' Association and Chamber of Commerce have provided a number of small Christmas trees beautifully lighted for the enjoyment of the public.

Last night, Walter D. Williams, 23 years of age, of 916 Locust avenue, Pasadena, who is visiting friends here, is asserted by police to have attempted to make away with one of the trees, avoiding detection for several blocks by setting tree and tub against the curb each time he was observed. He was arrested by Sergt. John Foote and released on $25 cash bail.

Matilija Ranch Owner-Pioneer Dies in Ventura

VENTURA, Dec. 15.—Fred H. Sheldon, well-known rancher and pioneer of the Matilija district, died last night at Big Sisters' Hospital from a liver ailment, following several months' illness.

Sheldon was a pioneer agriculturalist of Ventura county, moving to his present ranch in the Ojai district in January, 1887. He was born in Decatur, Mich., April 26, 1862. He came to Ventura county in 1877 and was for a number of years in the blacksmithing business, before going into ranching.

He married Lillian Pope of Michigan in 1900, and two children, Fred H. Jr., and Kenneth, were born of this union. Sheldon was a Mason and an Elk.

Funeral services will be conducted here Wednesday morning.

SCHOOL TO BE BUILT ON STUDIO GROUNDS

BURBANK, Dec. 15.—A building permit was issued here to Warner Brothers-First National Picture Corporation for the erection of a three-room frame school building to cost $1800. Mr. and Mrs. M. V. Fisher

REDONDO BEACH, Dec. 15.—Honoring Mr. and Mrs. M. V. Fisher, residents of this place for more than forty years, who will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary tomorrow evening, members of the local Masonic lodge and Carnation Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, are joining in an elaborate reception at the Masonic Temple here.

The Fishers, affectionately known in the community as "Pop" and "Mother" Fisher, have been prominently identified with the lodges for many years, and on the occasion of this event will have with them, in addition to fellow-lodge members and friends, many members of their own family and two persons who witnessed their marriage fifty years ago. The latter are Frank Foster, now living in Downey, and Bonnie Strong, whose home is in Hollywood.

Of the six children born to the couple five live in Southern California and will be here for the ceremony tomorrow night. They are Mrs. W. A. McArthur of San Bernardino; Mrs. C. A. Dunham, Beverly Hills; Mrs. F. C. Chase of San Diego; Mrs. Alice Savage of this place, and L. W. Fisher of Los Angeles. The eldest, T. A. Fisher, is a radio operator for the United States government, in charge of the government radio station at Wailuku, Honolulu, and cannot be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Fisher were married in Elkart, Ind., December 16, 1880, coming to Redondo Beach about ten years later, where Mr. Fisher entered the hardware business. Of late years he has been caretaker at the Redondo City Hall and is one of the most popular of the city's official family. As custodian of the only weather station in this section for many years, he became widely known for his care and accommodating manner in furnishing weather information to newspapers and press associations and many of his newspaper friends will be present at the reception.

Avoidance of quarrels and bickering is given as the recipe for the Fishers' long life of happy companionship.

District Attorney's Office, Sheriff's Men, Co-operate

SANTA ANA, Dec. 15.—A double-distilled alcohol plant capable of making 500 gallons of sugar alcohol daily, together with 50,000 gallons of mash and other equipment of a big distillery, was confiscated in a raid conducted by the District Attorney's office and the Sheriff's office at Buena Park today.

The capture of the plant marks the largest catch by county officers in the past several months.

Dist.-Atty.-elect Sam Collins and Robert Sandon of the District Attorney's office and F. W. Howard, chief criminal deputy sheriff, together with Deputies F. L. Humiston and Harry Carter and Chief of Police James Pearson of Fullerton, were the officers who made the raid.

According to Howard, the stills, two 250-gallon affairs, together with eight vats containing mash, were found in an old barn on the same property where a raid several months ago by deputy sheriffs netted a smaller still.

Two of the vats were large enough to hold 15,000 gallons of mash, while the others were smaller.

The barn is located on Hansen Road just north of the Orangethorpe Road.

Two in Danger When Curtain Weight Falls

PASADENA, Dec. 15.—When a 400-pound stage curtain weight crashed from a height of twenty feet in the Pasadena Junior College auditorium late yesterday, A. M. Wedemeyer, stagecraft instructor, pushed Robert Dawson, 15-year-old student, out of the way, undoubtedly saving the boy's life, it was learned today. Both instructor and pupil incurred minor injuries in the strange accident.

Wedemeyer saw the hook which supports the weight slip, and, with a warning shout, pushed the youth aside so that the weight merely brushed his ankle instead of striking his head. The teacher's hands were "burned" when he tried to stay the fall of the weight by holding the curtain rope.

Young Dawson is a son of R. E. Dawson, president and manager of the Great Western Finance Company.

GOOD-WILL TOURISTS HOME

Orange, San Diego and Los Angeles Counties Party Returns From Train Trip to Mexico

SANTA ANA, Dec. 15.—The 152 Orange county residents who made up the personnel of the Orange County Associated Chambers of Commerce good-will tour to Mexico, had returned today. In Mexico City, where the party stopped four days, they were guests at a reception given in the Presidential castle, Chapultepec, by President Ortiz Rubio. The party, which included a number of persons from San Diego, Los Angeles, Long Beach and Pasadena, was given receptions at various places along the route.

The tour was under the direction of a committee headed by George A. Raymer, secretary of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce. Raymer declared that the interest of the entire party was directed to the sincere effort of the Mexican government to educate the people through a nation-wide public school system through which, it is believed, the future development of the wealthy country may be safely attained.

The Orange county delegation also was impressed with the tremendous natural resources of the country which they visited. Several spots that were visited which are famous for sightseeing, included the city of Puebla, founded 400 years ago, and the Port of Mazatlan.

Thirty-seven additional tourists from San Diego and Los Angeles joined the group when the train arrived at the latter city.

The special, pulled by two locomotives, was said to have been the largest ever to depart from the Southland for Mexico.

LANGER BACK IN SAN DIEGO

Inspector at Large of State Motor Patrol Takes Over Former Post as County Unit Head

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 15.—Starting tomorrow, Capt. Otto Langer again will head the San Diego detachment of the State motor patrol. Langer gave up the post a year ago when he was appointed inspector at large for the State patrol and he is returning to San Diego at his own request.

For long Langer has made his home here. His duties as inspector-at-large required him to travel the State highways over most of the area south of San Francisco and he seldom had an opportunity to be at home. C. V. Nielsen, one of the twenty-five State highway patrolmen assigned to duty in San Diego county, has been acting captain in Langer's absence.

News of Ships and Sailings at Pacific Ports

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15. (AP)—Capt. A. H. Westerberg, of the freighter West Iris, which arrived here Saturday, today told of playing tag with South American revolutions.

The West Iris, Capt. Westerberg said, put into Buenos Aires four days after Argentina had fallen into the hands of revolutionists, at San Francisco Del Sur, Capt. Westerberg turned his ship into a refuge and transported stranded Americans and Europeans to Bamios.

At Paranacua, he said, the crew and himself decorated themselves with red handkerchiefs, the symbol of the revolution, and succeeded in entering the port. Capt. Westerberg reported he missed the Chilean revolt.

Fred Camber, chief clerk for the Cunard Line, principal to his position today, after having been seriously ill for five months.

Camber underwent an operation. He is well known on the Pacific Coast.

PORTLAND, Dec. 15.—Repairs to the steamer Admiral Evans, damaged Sunday when she backed into a dock at Kalama, were started here today.

The principal damage was to her rail and stanchions aft, and repairs are going on while the ship is loading. She was not damaged below the waterline, J. Fay Moore, agent for the Admiral Line, said the Evans would be ready to sail on schedule tomorrow afternoon.

CZARISTS LIBEL REDS, SAYS ONE

Tales of Soviet Propaganda False, House Hears

Russian Emigres Trying to Destroy Relations

Whalen Documents Declared Enemies' Forgeries

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15. (AP)—In a vigorous attack on anti-Russian propaganda of Czarist emigres, Boris E. Skvirsky of the soviet foreign office today told the House Communist investigating committee there is "no such thing as propaganda against the United States" by his government.

"The Russian emigre groups seem to have definitely included the United States in the scope of their vicious activities and adventures against the soviet union," Skvirsky said, adding their object is "to build war psychology and destroy American-soviet trade."

DUTIES DISCLOSED

Skvirsky is director of the soviet union information bureau. He said it serves as a clearinghouse for information on Russia for the American government and business men and publishes a monthly summary of economic and other useful information called the Soviet Union Review.

Skvirsky said he discussed the anti-soviet activities in this country "with great reluctance."

He added he had tried to make for a better understanding and it was a great "satisfaction" to have contributed to making Russia the sixth best foreign customer of the United States.

Replying under questioning by Representative Bachmann, Republican, West Virginia, that the American Communist party was connected with the Russian party, Skvirsky steadfastly refused to say what was the program of American Communists.

The witness told of getting visas for American Senators, Representatives and in one case a diplomat. He denied the implications in the documents laid before the committee by former Police Commissioner Whalen of New York City and termed them forgeries. The documents purport to disclose plans for carrying on a Communist agitation in this country.

WITNESS MUTE

Secretary Stimson refused to permit State Department officials to testify in public hearings before the committee.

A. Dana Hodgdon, chief of the visa division of the department, made this statement when he appeared in reply to a subpoena:

"The Secretary has instructed me to say that I am not at liberty to testify in open session, since such testimony, if published, would be contrary to public interest."

Barrage Provides Thrill as Shooting Gallery in Wyoming Burns

ROCK SPRINGS (Wyo.) Dec. 15. (AP)—Firemen rushing to fight a blaze in a one-story frame structure were greeted by a barrage of shots. Spectators, too, were kept at bay by wild-flying bullets. Nearly 4000 rounds of ammunition were discharged in the melee that ensued.

The fire was in a building occupied by C. H. Cox and his shooting gallery. Eleven ducks and seventeen turkeys which he was offering as prizes added their shrill screeches to the confusion.

Watson Defends President in Senate Debate

Caraway Says Million Are in Destitution

CO-OPERATION URGED

In the debate in the Senate Watson urged that Senators of both parties and all factions lay aside politics until sensible relief measures have been passed. Such co-operation, he reminded, would only be returning the assistance Republicans in Congress gave President Wilson in the prosecution of his war measures.

Taking up the President's recommendations for $150,000,000 to speed Federal construction projects throughout the country, and $25,000,000 for rehabilitating farmers in the drought areas, Senator Watson said that it is the Executive's duty to propose legislation and no one questions the right of Congress to reject or make changes. However, Watson appealed to his colleagues to stand with Mr. Hoover in opposition to a charity dole such as is represented, he declared, in the drought-aid bill which the Senate passed last week providing for loans to farmers for food and clothing. This issue was fought out in the House today, with the administration forces meeting temporary defeat.

Calling for "fewer words and more action," in the economic situation, Watson declared he was unwilling to believe that the pledge of the seven titular leaders of the Democratic party to co-operate fully with the administration in relief measures had fallen through because a few Democratic and insurgent Senators had made obstructionist speeches. He said he expected the pledge not to filibuster against appropriation bills would be carried out. Both Senate and House, he asserted, were entirely within their rights in altering the drought relief and employment relief measures.

DEBATE HEATED

"But," Watson said, "it is the President's duty to take the leadership and recommend legislation. We can reject or amend or do what we will, but the President's right to propose legislation remains the same."

The debate was more heated than any heard in the Senate so far this session. The Democratic and Republican bolters were in a bad mood, although observers failed to see what they were so excited about in view of the fact they had done as they pleased about raising the drought relief appropriation and are about to do as they please with the employment construction fund, without any kick from the White House, and with Watson speaking for the administration to say it was all right.

The row got under way with a brief but furious controversy over the action of the Senate conferees on the employment bill in meeting with the House spokesmen before they had been formally appointed and acceding to the House demands that the upper body withdraw certain amendments in the $118,000,000 bill. As the result of the protests the Senators in committee announced they would recede from their action and go back into the conference in perfectly formal authorized fashion. There was some excited talk of attempting to censure them for what they had done which was merely to speed up matters in the interest of bringing about final enactment of the relief legislation.

LA FOLLETTE CHALLENGE

The showdown on the resolution of Senator La Follette, declaring the Senate in favor of adequate relief for human suffering over the considerations of the wealthy income-taxpayers failed to materialize.

After debate on unemployment had consumed most of the time available for discussion of the resolution, Senator La Follette asked for its postponement.

Senator Watson declared in his speech that President Hoover had been in close and constant touch with the economic situation over the country, and had the information upon which to base sound relief measures. He explained the President's position that charity should be left to agencies outside the government. This brought a reply from Senator La Follette, who read telegrams from labor union leaders in forty-two of the larger cities, including Los Angeles, to challenge the statement that local organizations were in a position to deal adequately with conditions. He read a wire from Los Angeles stating that from 70,000 to 75,000 men were out of work there, with no tab on the idle women.

UNEMPLOYMENT

The telegram indicated a total of 1,920,000 men out of employment in the cities heard from. Most of the messages insisted there was great suffering and many said that local relief measures were inadequate to take care of those suffering from lack of food, clothing, fuel and shelter. La Follette charged that the administration has attempted to "play down" the real seriousness of conditions.

"The President," said Senator Watson, "had it directly from the lips of John Barton Payne, president of the Red Cross, just as I have had from his lips more than once, that his organization throughout the United States is amply provided with funds to take care of personal suffering which might result from the drought."

Senator Robinson, the Democratic floor leader, interrupted to say that the Federal-State agency originally set up by the President to ascertain the amount required for drought relief has recommended an appropriation of $60,000,000.

Watson replied that President Hoover had accepted the Budget Bureau's figure of $35,000,000, with the assumption that Congress had the right to change it.

DEFENDS PRESIDENT

The Republican leader then turned on those who have been assailing the President. "I do not assume," he declared, "that anybody has the right to abuse the President because he limited his recommendation to $35,000,000, and yet, unfortunately, language has been indulged in here toward the President as if he were a culprit because he limited the appropriations to a certain amount and the Senate committee saw fit to increase it."

"I dislike very much to obtrude this observation," interjected McNary of Oregon, Agricultural Committee chairman, "but it is not fair to say that the Senate committee increased the appropriation to $60,000,000. The joint resolution which I introduced was sent to me by the Department of Agriculture two weeks before action was taken. It called for $60,000,000 and I had reason to believe that the President knew what his right hand was doing."

Senator Borah, Idaho, appealed for less wrangling and more action.

"For God's sake let's get something done to help feed the people who are hungry," he shouted.

MILLION DESTITUTE

Senator Caraway, Democrat, Arkansas, joined with La Follette in challenging Senator Watson's speech. Caraway insisted more than 1,000,000 persons in fifteen States are destitute and said the Red Cross could not help them in many instances.

When Watson expressed confidence in the ability of President Hoover to find out the actual conditions and insist upon meeting them, La Follette recalled Mr. Hoover last March predicted conditions would be improved within sixty days. He said he cited this to show the President was not "an infallible guide" on the problem.

Asked by Senator Hastings, Republican, Delaware, what specific remedy he proposed, La Follette again urged the inquiry he proposed and added he favored the bill of Senator Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts, proposing a direct appropriation of $100,000,000 to share with cities and States the cost of relief work.

PRESIDENT DEFENDED IN RADIO SPEECH

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15. (AP)—Kind words for President Hoover were spoken tonight by Senator Jones, Republican, Washington, in a radio address outlining the Congressional situation on drought and unemployment relief proposals.

Jones, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, warned against heavy expenditures and opposed the $30,000,000 item in the Senate drought relief bill for food and clothing for drought sufferers. He said this was "a departure in relief measures by the national government."

Referring to President Hoover, he said the Chief Executive is "no less a humanitarian in the President's chair than he was as a private citizen."

"He is as innocent of deceit, of what is called 'bunk' and of deception as a new-born babe," Jones said.

Without referring directly to the recent statement by President Hoover that some members of Congress were "playing politics at the expense of human misery," Jones recalled that it is said bills have been introduced in Congress which propose expenditures that would aggregate $4,500,000,000.

Jones said he doubted the industries of this country could stand an additional tax burden of two or three billion dollars a year.

HOTCHKISS NAMED ON EMERGENCY COMMITTEE

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15.—Dr. Willard Eugene Hotchkiss, dean of the graduate school of business of Stanford University since 1925, and an outstanding industrial economist, today was appointed by President Hoover as field representative in the western area for the President's emergency committee for employment.

RELIEF URGED BY WORKERS' DELEGATES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15. (AP)—A delegation of workers' representatives, Socialists and industrial reformers appeared before Congressional leaders today to demand immediate relief legislation.

Headed by Norman Thomas, Socialist, they asked appropriation of $500,000,000 to match relief funds provided by localities of $100,000,000 for State and unemployment relief, and the speeding of public works construction to the limit.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS OPEN LABOR BUREAUS

NEW HAVEN (Ct.) Dec. 15. (AP)—The Supreme Council of the Knights of Columbus here announced today full-time bureaus for finding jobs for the unemployed have been opened in twenty-two cities. Bureaus will be located in New York and several other eastern and midwestern cities and in Denver, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland and Seattle.

Mellon Opposes New Bonus Plan

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15. (AP)—Secretary Mellon is opposed to the proposal of Representative Fish, Republican, New York, that the government pay World War veterans 25 per cent of the cash value of their adjusted compensation certificates as an unemployment relief measure. Fish made public today a letter from Mellon which said:

"It is a mistake to assume the reserve of approximately $750,000,000 is available for distribution along the lines suggested."

The Secretary added the balance would have to be provided either by borrowing or increased taxes.

Bankers Given Prison Terms

CINCINNATI, Dec. 15. (AP)—Frank J. Dorger and Clarence A. Dorger, convicted of misusing funds of the Cosmopolitan Bank and Trust Company, of which they formerly were officers, late today were sentenced to ten years each in the penitentiary and fined $5000 each. The Cosmopolitan Bank and Trust Company failed last June for $2,000,000.

THOUSANDS GET FREE SOUP

Kitchen Established in New York by E. F. Hutton; Exchange Discusses Unemployment

NEW YORK, Dec. 15. (AP)—Free lunch for the unemployed, men, women and children, and no questions asked. That's the policy in the soup kitchen established in the heart of old "Hell's Kitchen," by Edward F. Hutton, banker, sportsman and social welfare leader.

Hutton's diner is in Bethany Congregational Church and he has given the Salvation Army free rein in its operation. More than 3400 were fed there today, several also received food in baskets.

The undertaking is apart from Hutton's other benefactions in order that the $50,000 he has subscribed to alleviate distress may do its work immediately.

A sign on the church reads "Food free to all in need without distinction as to race, color or creed."

Unemployment drew the attention of the entire membership of the Wall-street stock exchange today.

The membership assembled after the closing of business and entered into a thorough discussion of the situation in New York and surrounding areas, but took no definite steps to correct any existing conditions.

Pleas for greater contributions to unemployment funds and greater attention to conditions where thousands of families are in need throughout the East and entire nation were made by leading members.

Among the speakers were John W. Prentiss, chairman of the stock exchange subcommittee on unemployment; Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co., and Mrs. August Belmont.

BILLINGS TELLS OF MOONEY RIFT

Plans for Separate Batile in Courts Announced

Bomber Says He Will Go to Federal Supreme Court

Wickersham Committee Also May Receive Appeal

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—Plans to have the United States Supreme Court and the Federal Wickersham law enforcement committee consider his plea for a pardon were announced by Warren K. Billings, San Francisco Preparedness Day dynamiter, when interviewed by newspaper men at Folsom Prison regarding his break with Thomas Mooney, partner in crime.

Billings freely admitted that he has severed all relations with Mooney, declaring that henceforth he will conduct his fight for freedom through his own independent defense committee. For fourteen years the two have jointly conducted their fight for pardons through the Mooney-Billings Defense Committee, with headquarters in San Francisco.

PLANS EXPLAINED

"From now on," said Billings, "I am going to make my own fight for freedom, free and independent of Mooney. I have had no voice in the affairs and conduct of the Mooney-Billings committee. Mooney has directed the policy of the committee and has turned down my suggestions.

"I believe it is to my interest to organize a committee that will present my side of the case. To this end I have authorized my cousin, Madeline Wieland of San Francisco, to proceed with the organization of the Billings committee."

Billings said he hopes the committee will be made up of two representatives of the San Francisco Central Labor Council, two representatives of the American Civil Liberties Union of New York and a fifth member to be picked by the other four, preferably Miss Wieland, who will be his spokesman.

WONT ASK PAROLE

The prisoner said he is not discouraged over the second refusal of the State Supreme Court to recommend to Gov. Young that he be pardoned, and he was emphatic in declaring he will not ask for a parole.

"If I asked for a parole," said Billings, "it might be construed as an admission of guilt. I hope to have my case laid before the United States Supreme Court and the Wickersham law enforcement committee through the proposed Billings Defense Committee."

Billings believes he can get his case before the Supreme Court by a habeas corpus proceeding first instituted in the State courts. He expects the State court will deny the petition, whereupon he will seek relief in the Supreme Court in Washington.

In referring to the friction with Mooney that eventually caused him to break with the San Quentin convict, Billings told how he had objected strenuously to a proposal by Mooney to circularize all the voters of California during the last gubernatorial campaign.

PLAN TOO COSTLY

"Such a plan," said Billings, "would have cost $100,000 and I do not think we should ask the laboring people, who have put up so much money to battle for our cause, to pay for such an expensive proposition."

Before he decided definitely to organize his own committee, Billings said he sent a set of proposals to Mooney relative to the future conduct of the joint committee. He declared Mooney turned down cold his suggestions.

Billings also said he has learned since the last decision of the State Supreme Court on his pardon application that Edwin McKenzie, San Francisco attorney, was not his lawyer, as he had supposed, but entered the hearing as a friend of the court.

BILLINGS'S ATTORNEY SEES SLIM HOPES

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—Attorney McKenzie said here tonight he is still acting in Warren K. Billings's behalf.

"Personally, it is my opinion, that he has no further recourse in the courts," he said. "The court of public opinion is his only resort. His cause is not a habeas corpus matter and I do not think a writ would even be entertained. Neither is there any Federal or constitutional matter involved to give it a footing in the United States Supreme Court."

Auto Privilege Irks Legislator

SAN JOSE, Dec. 15. (AP) — The practice of issuing distinctively colored automobile license plates to members of the State Legislature is all wrong, declares State Senator Jones, and he will introduce a bill at the next session of the Legislature prohibiting the practice.

"The sole purpose of these distinctive plates is to get special consideration from traffic officers," Senator Jones said. "Members of the Legislature have no right to violate speed laws or other regulations. If they are permitted to get by with this they will next be expecting to have the $3 license fee waived."

RADIO DIAL BICKERINGS END IN DIVORCE SUIT

RENO, Dec. 15. (AP)—The musical education and likes of Carolyn Borders Wilkins were the opposite of those of her husband, John H. Wilkins, Jr., of Washington, D. C., and when she wanted to hear grand opera or classical selections over the radio Wilkins turned off the dial, saying he had a headache, Mrs. Wilkins said in her divorce complaint filed here today. Yet only a few minutes previous to turning off the radio, she said, her husband had no sign of a headache when jam airs, blues and Amos 'n' Andy were on the air.

There was constant bickering, she said, so she was granted the divorce. They married in Kansas City, Mo., October 12, 1927.

BOULDER DAM BID DATE SET

Offers on $109,800,000 Job to Be Opened March 4

Largest Peace-Time Project in History of Nation

Cement to Be Used Will Run to 5,500,000 Barrels

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—Officials at the Interior Department today tentatively set March 4 as the date for opening bids on the construction of Boulder Dam, its power plant and reservoir.

It is not a coincidence that the proposed date is the same as that upon which the Seventy-first Congress adjourns sine die. There are pending in both branches several bills attempting to fix the wage scale, provide for the employment only of local labor and imposing other restrictions upon the contractor who builds the dam, and administration officials want to give every assurance possible that these measures will not pass. This can be told for a certainty on March 4, so far as the present Congress is concerned.

WILBUR GETS PLANS

R. F. Walter, chief construction engineer on the Colorado River development, and Walker R. Young, next in charge of the project, arrived today with the specifications and detailed plans for the dam as approved at Denver recently by the Silbert commission and submitted them to Secretary Wilbur. Dr. Wilbur is expected to approve the plans within a few days and concur in the date for opening bids, whereupon copies of the specifications will be issued immediately to prospective bidders and final arrangements made for advertising for bids as the law requires.

The estimated cost of constructing the dam, power house and reservoir is $109,800,000, making it the greatest peace-time construction contract in the history of the country. Because of the magnitude of the undertaking, it is believed only four or five of the largest contracting and engineering organizations will enter the bidding.

MAGNITUDE OF JOB

Work in preparation for the construction of the dam proper will begin at Las Vegas before March 4, for contracts for the highway and railroad from Boulder City and the modern town to be built for employees are to be awarded next month. The highway construction bids will be opened January 7 and the railroad bids January 12 at Las Vegas. Dr. Elwood Mead, Commissioner of Reclamation, estimated that about 1000 workers will be employed on the road and railway by March 1, next. The cost of these two connecting links is put at $2,000,000.

Just as an idea of the enormity of the dam, the Bureau of Reclamation points out that since its organization, approximately 4,500,000 barrels of cement have been used in dam construction for all projects, but the Boulder Canyon project dam will require nearly 5,500,000 barrels.

TY COBB HAS FOWL MEAL AFTER WILD GOOSE CHASE

AUGUSTA (Ga.) Dec. 15. (AP) Ty Cobb had a wild goose today that was sent southward two years ago by his friend, Jack Miner, at Kingsville, Ont.

The goose, however, was not sent to Cobb. It was simply turned loose with a leg-band on which was inscribed the details of its release and a biblican quotation, "Be not afraid; only believe."

The goose was shot near here by a party of hunters, including Jack Rountree, McAlpine Rucker and Charles Pilcher. The nimrods, learning of the friendship between Cobb and Miner, presented the bird to the famous Augustan.

Magistrate's House Wrecked by Dynamite Blast

Two Plants at Schoolfield Resume Operations

DANVILLE (Va.) Dec. 15. (AP)—Police maintained roving patrols in the outer sections of Schoolfield tonight to supplement the more centrally located military patrols as a guard against further dynamiting of the dwellings of nonunion textile workers.

Explosives early today partly wrecked the home of Magistrate Fitts, police justice at Schoolfield, who has tried a number of cases since the strike began.

Last night a filling station with dwelling rooms attached was dynamited, but the charge did little damage and no one was hurt.

Saturday night the home of R. L. Edwards, a nonunion mill worker, was damaged slightly by a bomb believed to have been of dynamite.

No disorder or gathering of crowds attended the opening of the gates of the Riverside and Dan River mills this morning.

INDUSTRY NEAR NORMAL STATUS

Edison Utility Issues Survey on Commercial Output

Electric Power Consumption Shows Small Decline

California Activity Betters Estimate for Nation

Consumption of electric energy for industrial operations on the lines of the Southern California Edison Company, Ltd., for the first ten months this year has been running at 90 per cent of the past five-year average, R. H. Ballard, president, announced yesterday. A recent report issued by a nationally known statistical organization stated that industrial conditions throughout the country are 77 per cent of normal.

The records of the Edison Company are based on a kilowatt-hour per horsepower consumption over its entire system and show the use of electric energy in relation to installed capacity of industries.

NORMAL YEAR SURPASSED

Industrial new business contracted for during the twelve months ended October 31, last, amounted to 87,790 horsepower. This compares with 94,332 horsepower of industrial power taken on during the record-breaking year ending October 31, 1929, and with the total of 62,232 horsepower taken on during the twelve months ending October 31, 1928. The total for the year ending October 31, 1930, is 6 per cent less than that for the previous year and approximately 40 per cent better than that for the year ending October 31, 1928, a normal year.

"While it is not easy for one living on the Pacific Coast to predict the business outlook for 1931 for the country as a whole, Mr. Ballard said, "so far as California is concerned there is no question that there will be an early return to normal conditions. The splendid record which the industries under our lines have been making throughout 1930 promises extremely well for the coming year.

UPTURN PREDICTED

"Looking forward to 1931, this company has approved a construction budget of $28,000,000 to be used largely for the extension or distribution facilities to care for new business, which we estimate will amount to additional customer connected load of 350,000 horsepower. The company's directors approved of an additional $6,000,000 above normal in this budget to help out the employment situation. This is somewhat in the nature of present buying of future business.

"It is my opinion that the surprising volume of holiday shopping will immediately be reflected in empty shelves both in retail and wholesale establishments; that this in turn will stimulate manufacturing and improve earnings in general."

Santa Barbara Education Bond Issue Floated

Bankamerica Co., heading a syndicate including American Securities Company and Weeden & Co., was the successful bidder yesterday for $300,000 Santa Barbara High School district bonds and $117,000 Santa Barbara school district bonds and the sole bidder for $100,000 Santa Maria school district bonds.

The Santa Barbara high school district issue was awarded for a premium of $8108 and the school district for a premium of $4718. Several other syndicates participated in the bidding. A premium of $2978 was bid in on the Santa Maria issue.

All of the bonds carry a 5 per cent rate and mature serially from 1931 to 1955. They will be retailed on a basis to yield from 3.50 to 4.65 per cent, it was reported.

Copper Buying Runs Light at Softer Prices

NEW YORK, Dec. 15. (AP)—Copper was nominally quoted in the domestic market today at 10 1-4 cents a pound delivered to the end of March, a concession of one-quarter of a cent from last week's figure of 10½ cents.

Trade circles reported buying was small and some metal was available from smelters at 9 3-4 cents. Producers remained out of the market.

New High Earnings

1930 earnings for United States Electric Light Co. & Power Shares are setting a new high record—25% in excess of 1927. However at current levels, investors may purchase this cross-section utility investment on basis of 1927 public utility prices.

New Investment Trust to Make Bow Today

Nation-wide distribution is to be made today of a new fixed investment trust by E. A. Pierce & Co., member of the New York Stock Exchange, and two new series of Leaders of Industry Shares, also an investment trust of the fixed type, by General Shares Corporation.

Fundamental Trust Shares is the name of the E. A. Pierce & Co. issue final details of which were announced yesterday. Its portfolio contains forty leading American enterprises comprising twenty-three industrials, ten utilities, four railroads and three oil companies. The shares are being issued in two series, one of the cumulative type and the other of the distributive type, the former priced at $7.25 and the latter at $7.875 per share.

Leaders of Industry Shares consists of thirty-three corporations comprising eighteen industrials, five rails, six public utilities and four oils. One of the two new series offers maximum return on the investment while the other permits accumulation of capital.

United American Mine Plans New Capital Set-up

Stockholders of United American Mining Company have been called to a special meeting January 15, next to vote on a proposal to increase the company's authorized capital, to raise the share par value, to exchange ten old shares for one new, and to pool 75 per cent of the stock for six months, the Los Angeles Curb Exchange was advised yesterday.

It is proposed to increase the authorized capital from $400,000 consisting of 4,000,000 shares of 10 cents par value to $1,000,000 consisting of 1,000,000 shares of $1 par value. The meeting will be held at Oatman, Ariz.

If the plan is approved the corporation will have about 630,000 shares in the treasury and 370,000 outstanding. The pooling of 75 per cent of this outstanding stock for a period of six months is to aid a refinancing program, it was stated.

Extra Declared by Trust Group

Extra dividends were declared yesterday by Guardian Detroit Union Group, Travelers Insurance Company, Ltd., and Incorporated Investors. All were in addition to regular quarterly payments also voted by directors of the various institutions.

Guardian Detroit declared a special of 30 cents a share with the regular quarterly of 50 cents. The company paid a similar extra in the last previous quarter. Travelers Insurance voted an extra of $2 in addition to the regular quarterly of $4 a share and Incorporated Investors, an investment trust, declared a special of 10 cents a share as well as the regular quarterly of 25 cents a share.

Security Loans in Bank Area Up

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—Security loans of reporting member banks of the Twelfth Federal Reserve District as of the 12th inst. were announced by the Federal Reserve Bank today at $436,000,000, representing an increase for the week of $7,000,000. The loans a year ago totaled $423,000,000.

The gain in loans on securities was sufficient to overcome the withdrawal of funds from government bonds by the bank and to lift the total of loans and investments combined to $2,001,000,000, which is a gain of $5,000,000 for the week end $4,000,000 higher than a year ago.

STOCK THEORY PUT TO TEST

Transamerica Syndicate Will Show Value of Large Armies of Stockholders; First Response Heavy

BY EARLE E. CROWE

Transamerica's action in asking the financial support of its host of stockholders in stabilizing market prices is the first real test of one of the theories behind wide distribution of shares among large numbers of people.

Sponsors of popular ownership have contended the small investor will promptly rally to the support of the corporation when the investment is threatened. They have believed the loyalty and faith of the customer-partner will send him to the ballot box when hostile legislation impends, or impel him to draw upon his resources to support the corporation when the investment itself is under attack.

Transamerica is making its appeal on the latter basis. Declaring to stockholders there is no real reason for the decline in market prices and believing the stock is selling out of line with true worth, the holders are asked to contribute to a syndicate to stabilize the market price. Indirectly, professional short sellers are charged with part of the responsibility for the decline.

CHECKS POUR IN

Complete results on the first day's response to this suggestion were not available yesterday, but it was reported here the contributions poured into the Los Angeles and San Francisco offices at a surprising rate. It was also understood that none of the syndicate's money was used in yesterday's market. The 3-point recovery in the price was attributed solely to the news of the syndicate formation, probably short covering chiefly.

It was also understood here that the tentative figure of $20,000,000 as the syndicate's capital was already assured before the announcement went out. At the rate contributions came in yesterday the opinion was expressed unofficially that the total might run two or three times the original figure.

What the response will actually total, however, is yet a matter of conjecture. The first reaction was favorable, but nobody can tell which way public sentiment will swing from day to day. Certainly the unqualified success of the plan will be a powerful argument for popular ownership of American corporations.

MARKET SKEPTICAL

In professional stock market circles it can be said in advance that the reaction is unfavorable. The professional speculator's appetite is whetted by news of artificial support for a stock. His experience teaches that these pools seldom make any headway against organized selling. The professional also remembers spectacular collapses of many similar pools in stock market history.

The Transamerica project is, nevertheless, the largest of its kind yet launched and its management is intrusted to the hands of men thoroughly familiar with stock-market operation. A syndicate with $20,000,000 to $50,000,000 at its command should have the power to write some interesting history in the movement of security prices.

New Salt River Valley Utility Liens on Mart

Public offering of a new issue of $1,200,000 Salt River Valley Water Users' Association 6 per cent refunding bonds due 1956 is being made by the Security-First National Company and Pacific Company, according to an announcement yesterday. The bonds are priced at 98½ to yield over 6.10 per cent.

The association's holdings embracing about 240,000 acres of highly developed agricultural lands surrounding Phoenix, Ariz., is reported to be the largest producer of hydro-electric power in Arizona with a total installed generating capacity of 106,000 horsepower. Net power revenues for the year ended September 30, last, were equal to over 1 3-4 times the maximum annual interest charges on the association's total outstanding funded indebtedness, adjusted to give effect to the present financing.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Among the new issues offered today were $3,750,000 West Texas Utilities Company first mortgage 5 per cent bonds, series A, due October 1, 1957, at 99 3-4 and interest, by Halsey Stuart & Co., Inc., and A. B. Leach & Co., Inc., syndicate, and $6,000,000 Virginia Public Service Company first mortgage and refunding twenty-year 5 per cent bonds, series B, due December 1, 1950, at 90 and interest, by Halsey Stuart & Co., Inc., and E. H. Rollins and Sons and H. M. Byllesby & Co., Inc., syndicates.

HERSHEY CHOCOLATE

This corporation is one of the leading candy manufacturers of the country, all of its products being marketed under the brand name "Hershey." Milk chocolate and almond candy bars, chocolate syrups, coating chocolate, breakfast cocoa and kindred lines are made at the company's up-to-date plant in Hershey, Pa., situated in the heart of a dairying country and especially equipped for efficient handling of a candy manufacturing business. Distribution is effected chiefly through jobbers, wholesalers and chain stores all over the United States.

A continued high level of profits in an unfavorable business year is reflected in the nine months' showing of $6.80 per share as compared with $6.75 in the corresponding period of 1929. Adequate reserves are being maintained to offset any possible inventory losses from lower raw cocoa prices this year.

Net of Metro-Goldwyn for Year Up $19.69 a Share on Preferred

NEW YORK, Dec. 15 (AP)—Metro-Goldwyn Pictures Corporation reported for the fiscal year ended August 31 net profit of $9,924,369, against $6,818,918 in the preceding fiscal year. Net for the year ended August 31 was equal to $60 a share on the 7 per cent preferred stock, against $40.31 a share in the preceding fiscal year. The common stock is owned by Loew's, Inc.

The profit-and-loss surplus of the corporation on August 31 amounted to $4,989,554, against $20,382,590 a year previously. The reduction was due largely to declaration of a dividend of $25,000,000 on the common stock, all owned by Loew's.

The dividend was explained as a book-keeping transaction designed to adjust the surpluses of the two companies, as heretofore dividends declared by Loew's have been charged against Loew's surplus, although a large portion of Loew's earnings have been derived from Metro, depleting Loew's surplus without reducing the Metro surplus.

The dividend is included by Metro in its separate balance sheet of August 31, last, under the item "accounts payable to Loew's, $27,000,000."

Huge Rhodesia Copper Mining Project on Way

NEW YORK, Dec. 15. (Exclusive) Potentially the biggest development in the history of the copper industry is taking place in Rhodesia, where eventually 1,000,000,000 tons of copper ore with a copper content ranging 3.3 per cent to 7.5 per cent is expected to be mined, according to H. S. Munroe, consulting engineer of the Rhodesian Anglo-American Company. He stated that production in a large way would not be under way for several years, although small production should start in the latter part of 1931, reaching a total of 200,000 tons in 1933 and increasing to 400,000 tons in 1936.

In this connection, Mr. Munroe said that Rhodesia will not flood the market with copper, but increase as market conditions warrant. His estimates on production for the area, he explained, would be attained only under proper market conditions. The fact that one entity, the Rhodesian-Congo border concessions, comprising a merger of three important copper interests there, will probably always control at least one-half the production of Rhodesia, made possible the orderly development of these huge copper deposits, he said.

Interest Paid in Advance by Building-Loan

Pacific States Savings and Loan Company has mailed to its more than 6000 savings customers checks aggregating about $225,000, representing prepaid interest which for the most part would not normally fall due until January 15, Robert S. Odell, president, announced yesterday.

"It has long been customary for Pacific States Savings, each year to prepay its January income checks just at Christmas," Mr. Odell said. "This year, because of depressed conditions, the date was advanced to the 15th inst., with the thought that these checks would prove particularly acceptable for holiday shopping.

"Pacific States Savings is concluding what has been the most prosperous year in its history. Never has the institution experienced so pronounced a gain in resources or so splendid an earnings record. We are pleased to be enabled to extend this income check prepayment as a contribution toward what perhaps will be a somewhat merrier Christmas for those who are receiving the checks."

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 15. (AP)—Further decline of 22 to 27 points, which carried March cotton off to 9.86 today, under further liquidation, combined with southern and foreign selling, was followed by rallies on trade buying and covering.

The new low prices appeared to be bringing in an increased demand and buying of late months by brokers sometimes credited with operating for the cooperative interests, led to rumors that stabilizing operations were being undertaken in cotton. Prices recovered their early losses, with active months selling about 9 to 14 points net higher during the middle of the afternoon.

NEW COPPER DUTY SPONSOR

Magazine Writer's Views Held to Support Plea for Imposition of American Tax

BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Every American interested in copper might well profit by reading an article "The Dilemma of Copper" in the current issue of the Magazine of Wall Street. It presents the case up to date, and is in line with the facts which have been given in this column during the last eight or nine months, dealing with that subject.

But there are one or two points which the writer, Mr. Frank C. Armstrong, fails to mention. The world's copper consumption for 1930 will not exceed 2,000,000,000 pounds. At that figure, which is generous, and the developed annual capacities of the world's copper mines taken into consideration, and with more than 1,200,000,000 pounds of copper stocks on hand, it will take twelve years before consumption—figuring annual consumption increasing at the rate of 6 per cent (also a generous estimate) can possibly overtake the present definitely known supply of copper.

These figures do not take account of the great quantities of cheap copper, which the new low-cost mines of Northern Rhodesia expect to bring on the market. Every foreign producer of cheap copper is looking toward the copper market within the United States.

Let that market be reserved for American mines, and the copper situation within the United States will clear up rapidly.

If George Otis Smith is confirmed by the United States Senate as chairman of the reorganized Federal Power Commission, he will occupy one of the most strategic positions in the Federal service for the final disposition of Muscle Shoals will largely rest with Mr. Smith and his fellow-members of the commission.

Mr. Smith was born in Maine, and after graduating from Colby College, with Phi Beta Kappa honors, he engaged in geological work for four years in Michigan, Utah and Washington.

For ten years after 1896, he became associated with the geological division of the Department of the Interior. In 1909, he was appointed director of the United States Geological Survey, which position he has filled since then.

At the present time, he is a trustee of Colby College and the University of Chicago, and a member of a number of scientific societies. He is the author of many works on geology and is well known in all parts of the United States for his addresses on the economics of minerals and power resources.

Mr. Smith has received honorary degrees from Colby, Johns Hopkins and the Case School of Applied Science.

In recent years he has been very active in connection with oil production and the proration developments in the various States.

MERGER OF TRUCK UNIT RUMOR OUT

Moreland and Fageol in Discussion of Proposal for Consolidation

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—Negotiations are believed tonight to have reached an advanced stage for the merging of Fageol Motors of Oakland and the Moreland Truck Company of Burbank. It is believed a Seattle truck company also will become a member of the proposed consolidation.

C. W. Creighton, secretary of the Moreland company, is in Oakland presumably discussing with Fageol officials details of the proposed deal. L. H. Hill, president of the Fageol company, refused all comment, neither denying nor affirming the report, and thus strengthening belief the deal is near consummation.

If the three companies consolidate, one of the largest truck and coach manufacturing concerns in the country will be created.

Fageol and Moreland, both well established in the truck business of the West, do comparatively the same volume of business. Fageol sales in 1929 totaled $3,971,853, while those of Moreland reached $3,685,382. The Oakland company, with total assets of $4,937,336, has net working capital of $1,658,431. Moreland has total assets of $3,142,807, and net working capital of $1,368,686.

Walt L. Moreland, vice-president of the Moreland Truck Company, when asked about the reported deal with Fageol Motors Company, yesterday stated that he could not say anything about the proposal at this time. He added there has been some conversation between the companies, but that there is nothing certain as yet.

Firestone Tire Profits Turn Up

AKRON (O.) Dec. 15. (AP)—H. S. Firestone, Sr., reported profits for November of this year were $650,000 compared to $33,000 in November of last year, at the annual meeting of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company stockholders today.

He said he has recommended to the directors they declare the regular dividend of 25 cents a share on common stock. The board is expected to take this action late today. Firestone pointed out the wide discrepancy between November's profits this year against those of a year ago was caused by automobile manufacturers this year ordering their year's requirements in that month while last year the usual automobile orders had not been received.

South Penn Out of Crude Mart

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 15. — South Penn Oil Company has discontinued the purchase of Somerset crude oil in lines of the Cumberland Pipe Line Company and in Wayne district. This action is taken as a result of the lack of demand for this crude at present.

FRANKLIN (Pa.) Dec. 15.—Bessemer Pipe Line Company has discontinued paying a 25-cent premium on runs of Pennsylvania-grade crude oil. Crew Levick Company adopted a similar course.

NEW YORK BOND PRICES

NEW YORK, Dec. 15. (AP)—United States government obligations and the loans of New York traction companies rallied briskly in the bond market today, in the most active session in two months.

Domestic corporate obligations were irregularly lower with losses somewhat smaller than last week.

Holdings developed in South American issues where the dips in some instances carried government issues below the level touched on the decline several months ago, when financial liquidation was influenced by revolutions and other political disturbances. The market was attributed to the nervousness among American investors, influenced by the Spanish political situation and the attention called to the economic picture in Bolivia by the arrival here of a commission seeking to adjust interest payments on $60,000,000 in loans.

Bolivian governments dropped 1 to 3 points, all to new lows for the year. The 8s, outstand, the sharpest decline, closing at 27, off 3.

Liberty 3½s duplicated its year's high and every bond in the group advanced with Treasury issues showing the largest gains. Treasury 4s rose 14-32nds.

Declines of 1 to 2 points were sprinkled through the list of corporate domestic issues, and established many at new lows for the year. The decline was sufficiently marked to set a new 1930 minimum in the average for thirty bonds.

The closing price is omitted when unlike as the low, and both low and close when same as the high.

Bullish Tone Rules Trading on Grain Mart

CHICAGO, Dec. 15. (AP)—Australian and Argentine reports of adverse crop conditions, together with 1,821,000 bushels United States wheat visible supply decrease, tended to lift wheat today. Corn acted oversold, and rose sharply at the last, responsive to brisk demand from previous speculative sellers spurred on by wintry weather and prospective curtailment of receipts.

Wheat closed irregular, from a shade net decline to 1¼c gain; corn 1⅛@1¼c up, oats ⅝@1⅝c advance and provisions from a 2c setback to a rise of 10c.

The amount of wheat on ocean passage showed 1,753,000 bushels decrease compared with a week ago was likewise favorable to higher prices, as also was an estimate that export business in Canadian wheat totaled 1,000,000 bushels.

The Chicago July delivery of wheat, however, underwent a transient downward sag to a new low-price record since 1909.

Corn rose despite 2,987,000 bushels increase in the visible supply this week, a much larger increase than either a week or a year ago. Oats followed corn.

Provisions responsive to upturns of hogs and grain, were higher.

LOS ANGELES MARKET

CATTLE—The rather moderate receipts for the week's opening session were increased by nearly 500 head that arrived late last week and were carried over. Trade was fairly active, but not as snappy as last week. Prices were largely steady with a few sales considered around 25c lower on steers. Intermountain territory furnished the big end of the supply with a number of loads of California, Arizona and New Mexico cattle offered.

Two loads of 1062 to 1315-pound steers topped at 9.30, with a few loads of medium to good 885 to 1160-pound steers at 8.75@9.25. A few loads of desirable steers brought 8.40@8.65, including Arizonas, while a part load of fed Mexican steers sold at 8.25. Other Imperial and Arizona Mexican type steers cashed at 7.25@7.85, with plainer Mexicans down to 6.75. A load of yearling Utah steers went to a feeder buyer at 8.50.

A few small lots of medium to good heifers brought 6.75@7.50 with odd lots down to 6.00 and below. A few head of outstanding heavy cows reached 6.75 with bulk of the better grades selling at 6.00@6.50. Most common to medium cows turned at 4.75@5.90 with low cutters and cutters going at 2.60@4.50. Good bulls brought 5.75@6.50, with medium kinds to 4.50.

CALVES—Prices looked fully steady on the native vealers and bulk of southwestern calves. Odd head of native vealers sold at 13.00@13.00 with most in-between grades at 9.00@12.00. A few lightweight calves brought 9.25 with bulk of the southwestern ins with weight selling at 7.75@8.00. Undesirable vealers and plain weighty calves sold down to 6.00.

HOGS—Although receipts were plentiful and trade was slow to get under way owing to lower early bids, business finally materialized on a steady basis. Eight loads of 160 to 202-pound eastern and Utah butchers topped at 9.25 with seven loads of heavy steerages up to 213 pounds going at 8.90@9.10. A part load of plain 168-pound weights sold down to 8.75. A few small lots of California and local fed hogs sold up to 9.00. Packing sows brought 7.50@7.75 with weighty stags at 6.00.

SHEEP—Bulk of offerings were hardly suitable for killers and were still in first hands after 9 o'clock. Two decks of fairly good 86-pound Utah lambs brought 7.50, with choice lighter weight lambs quoted around 8.00. Medium to choice ewes are quoted at 2.00@4.00.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

Bank Holding Company Features Stock Trading on Spirited Rally; List Ends Unsettled

Transamerica with a turnover of more than 30,000 shares overshadowed all other operations on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange yesterday as the week's trading was resumed. Announcement of the formation of a large pool to support the issue had the effect of forcing shorts to cover and attracting a substantial buying interest which ran the stock up 3 points to 13¼. Final sales were at 12¾ and the day's low near the opening was 10⅝.

The action of Transamerica had a brightening effect on the entire market and served partially to attract strong support after prices had weakened in the first hour. While a few more new low marks were chalked on the board the recessions were fractional and in many cases regained on an ensuing rally. At the close the market presented an irregular picture of mixed gains and losses mostly of minor dimensions.

Union Oil, after hitting 20 7-8 rallied to end at 21 5-8, up 5-8 net and Union Associates closed at 20 3-4, up 3-4 net after having sold as low as 20. Standard Oil of California gained 1-4 to 43 5-8 and Bolsa Chica, feature of Saturday's session, ran up 1 3-8 points to 13 7-8. Other oils eased fractionally. Richfield hitting a new bottom at 5 1-8 and Hancock the same at 8½. Shell also marked a new low at 7 1-8, down 3-8, and Rio Grande sold down to a new minimum at 6 1-4, but recovered to end at 6½.

Security-First National Bank lost 2 points to a new bottom at 96 and California Bank held to the minimum at 83. Pacific Finance again dropped to 13 3-4, but rallied to end at 14 1-4, off 3-4 net. Pacific Mutual Life fell off another 1¼ points to 56. Goodyear Tire and Rubber preferred sank 5 points to 75. Douglas Aircraft reacted 1 3-4 to 12 and Western Air Express hit 10 and ended at 10 1-8, off 3-8 net. Fractional improvement was shown by Claude Neon, Byron Jackson and Pacific Gas. Edison was down 1-4 net at 43¼ after a brisk turnover.

Drilling Ahead

The Richfield Oil Company's Belridge No. 1 in the north Belridge district is drilling below 5807 feet and there is a strong possibility that a production test will be made soon. At Lost Hills, the Universal Consolidated Oil Company's No. 49 is expected to drill out tomorrow for a water shut-off test.

On Sec. 35, 27-20 in the north Belridge district, the Belridge Oil Company is preparing to offset the Associated Oil Company's Howard No. 4 in the northwest corner of the section.

Leases Acreage

Stevens Brothers, independent operators, leased thirty-three acres owned by the Bolsa Tile Company near the tile factory just beyond the old portion of the Huntington Beach oil field and are building derrick.

A. J. Bellport Oil Company recently acquired Jim Maeling lease on Seventeenth street between Orange and Olive avenues and is rigging up a project to spud within a week. Near the intersection of Seventeenth street and Delaware avenue, the Superior Oil Company is understood to have bought ten acres just south of the old field.

Preparing to Drill

The Huntington Beach Signal Oil Company is preparing to spud in a project located near the intersection of Fourteenth street and Ocean avenue and another test at the corner of Twentieth street and Ocean avenue, the former within six blocks of the Superior Oil Company's Fee No. 1 in the shoreline area of the Huntington Beach oil field. The company is expected to make a deep test.

Landing Casing

Heavy gas pressure yesterday slowed up the landing of a string of nine-inch casing in the Bolsa Chica Oil Corporation's Tideland Permit No. 191-1 two miles southeast of the Elwood oil field. The project circulated to permit the casing to be run successfully with bottom of the hole at about 4050 feet. While no oil sand is reported to have been cored, there is an oil cut that is considered important.

Project Watched

Considerable speculation on whether the Shell Oil Company will eventually tap top of the Temblor zone in its Williams No. 1, a deep test at Semi-Tropic Ridge, is heard from field scouts who have been watching progress of this deep test.

Oil showings were encountered within the past week in Shell's Williams No. 1, and when a core was attempted it was lost. It is believed that something of importance may be learned within a few days. Although bottom of Williams No. 1 is slightly below 8600 feet, it is said that the Temblor is considerably deeper. Shell controls much acreage at Semi-Tropic Ridge, while Lincoln Drilling and other major companies hold adjoining properties.

BODY OF ACTRESS TO BE CREMATED

Diane Ellis

Diane Ellis, Hollywood motion-picture actress who died unexpectedly while on her honeymoon in Madras, India, will be cremated there and her ashes taken to England, according to word received yesterday by her parents from their son-in-law, Stephen C. Millett, wealthy Englishman of New York and London.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ellis of 655 Heliotrope Drive, had not heard yesterday what caused the death of their daughter. Only last Wednesday, they said, they had received a cablegram from her that she was getting along all right. Full details of Miss Ellis's death are not expected from Millett for several days, they said.

Miss Ellis married Millett two months ago and was on a honeymoon with him through Spain, Egypt and India. She was well known in Hollywood, a graduate of the Fairfax High School, playing with Paramount and Pathe. She was 21 years of age.

COURSE IN RATE FIGHT PONDERED

Gas Company to Decide on Further Steps Within Next Few Days

Additional action of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation in its fight against a reduction of gas and electric rates will be determined within the next few days, according to an announcement yesterday by Addison B. Day, president.

A petition asking a rehearing before the State Railroad Commission on an order reducing gas rates of the corporation was denied without comment by the commission yesterday. At the same time another order of the commission was made permanent, reducing the corporation's electric rates.

The orders reduce rates to the corporation's customers by $1,350,000, and will become effective January 1, 1931, unless it is decided to take the matter into the courts.

Film Director's Funeral Today

Funeral services for F. Richard Jones, motion-picture director and former executive of the Hal Roach studios, will be conducted today at 10:30 a.m., from the Gates, Crane & Earl mortuary, 1734 North Highland avenue.

Jones, who once was associated with Mack Sennett and directed Gloria Swanson, Mabel Normand and others in old-time comedies, died suddenly Sunday at the Queen of Angels Hospital from a tubercular ailment. He leaves his widow, the former Irene Lentz, fashion designer, and a daughter, Dickey Carroll, 15 years of age.

NAVY'S EAGLES TO PERCH HERE

San Pedro-San Diego Bases Officially Named

Thousand-Plane Air Fleet Nears Completion

Aircraft Will Move With Ships, Orders Say

The major strength of the Navy's 1000-plane air fleet—now nearing completion—will be based in the San Pedro-San Diego area under a new naval air operating policy just promulgated to the naval service.

The new plan, evolved jointly by Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations; Rear-Admiral Joseph M. Reeves, commander carrier divisions and aircraft, United States Fleet, and Rear-Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics, will become effective April 1, next, while the battle fleet is en route home from Panama to Los Angeles Harbor.

MORE MOBILITY

Greater mobility of all naval aircraft to develop their possibilities as a high-seas force with the United States Fleet, is announced as the major object of the new plan. Greater tactical efficiency and maximum co-ordination of effort of air forces in fleet operations also is expected.

Explaining that under the new plan the Navy will concentrate its air efforts in operating both planes and lighter-than-air craft directly with the fleet, the statement of new policy names in order of importance "certain strategic areas where the fleet or part of it operates constantly." These are named in order:

San Pedro-San Diego area, Canal Zone area, Hawaiian Islands area, Chesapeake Bay area, Long Island-Narragansett Bay area, Asiatic area. Six secondary areas are named in the following order: Caribbean area, Gulf of Main-Cape Cod area, Key West-Gulf of Mexico area, San Francisco area, Puget Sound area, Alaska area.

COAST TO ARMY

Echoes of the recent controversy between the Army and Navy over air patrol of the coastal areas in war are noted in the statement, wherein this important phase of coast defense is apparently left to the army, viz.:

"These bases are a part of the fleet and the contents thereof are subject to removal instantly at command from the fleet. They are not intended for, and will not be allowed to be diverted from their fleet objectives, for any reasons of coast defense, except the most urgent."

Two details of the operating policy explain briefly the general plan:

POLICY STATED

"General policy. All aircraft assigned to tactical units will be mobile in order to operate with the fleet. Mobility will be achieved by the use of carriers and tenders. A minimum number of fully equipped fleet air stations will be provided for the support and repair of aircraft.

"Operations. The primary purpose in naval aircraft operations is the development of the offensive power of the fleet and of advanced base expeditionary forces. Mobility of aircraft is essential to this purpose."

Jury Will Try Case of Hursh and Associates

United States District Judge James yesterday ordered the case of Alexander Hursh, former head of Romola, Inc., and twenty-nine other defendants to be tried before a jury. The trial date was set for March 3. Argument on a motion for a bill of particulars will be heard January 2.

It is charged by the government that the defendants misrepresented the values of lands in Maricopa county, Arizona, and near Riverside.

IMPROVEMENTS ORDERED

The ordinance for the improvement of streets in the Courtney avenue and Courtney Terrace district and the ordinance of intention for the improvement of Federal avenue between Louisiana avenue and Exposition Boulevard were adopted yesterday by the City Council.

LOS FELIZ "ZONING" BEATEN

Council Turns Down, 8 to 7, Ben Frank's Plea for "Spot" Area in Which to Build Markets

By the margin of a single vote Los Feliz Boulevard was saved from the encroachment of business buildings when the City Council yesterday voted, 8 to 7, to deny the application of Ben Frank for a spot-zone market at Los Feliz Boulevard and Lowry Road.

Those voting to protect the boulevard included Burns, Cooke, Jacobson, Lewis, Martin, Randall, Williams and President Sanborn.

Bartel, Davis, Henning, Holland, Ingram, McAllister and Webster voted for the spot zone.

Chairman Webster and Holland, members of the City Planning Committee, signed a majority report urging the granting of the spot zone. Councilman Randall submitted a minority report opposing the zone. It was this latter report which was adopted.

The Frank application is an old project, having been denied repeatedly in former years. The last time the Council turned it down the vote was 12 to 1.

The proceedings started with Randall reading a letter from Rupert Hughes, the author, which wittily protested against the continual agitation for the rezoning of the boulevard. Hughes suggested that the Council permit the rezoners to move to the Mohave Desert, there to rezone "to their hearts' content." Hughes referred to himself as a "Disabled Veteran of the Los Feliz Rezoning War."

Fire Chief Scott, City Health Officer Parrish, former Director-Manager Whitnall of the City Planning Commission; Mrs. Evelyn Peterson, S. W. McKay, H. P. Amstutz, Elwood De Garmo, Guy W. Finney and Roland R. Woolley addressed the Council as residents of the area protesting against the zoning. Supt. Shearer of the Park Department, presented the protest of that department.

Ben Frank pleaded that he be permitted to do something with his property, which has been a heavy expense to him in taxes and assessments, his only return being $30 per month from a signboard. His proposed building, he said, will be attractive and not a detriment to the community. He was supported

SUSPENSION OF OFFICERS APPROVED

Chief Steckel Upheld by Police Board in Three Disciplinary Actions

Suspension by Chief of Police Steckel of one officer without pay for fifteen days and two others pending a hearing before a board of inquiry comprised of police executives, for conduct unbecoming members of the police department, was approved by the Police Commission at a special session yesterday.

Sergt. Sidney Sweetnam is fined fifteen days' pay on the charge that he refused to sign a traffic violation citation issued to him by a county motorcycle officer at Brighton street, caused a disturbance, refused to accompany the officer to the County Jail, went to the University division station and caused another disturbance.

Officer E. S. Rose was suspended on the charge that he left his shotgun lying in the seat of a police car for thirty-five minutes while on a "stake-out" the night of the 10th inst. and that he had been imbibing intoxicating liquors while absent from the car.

Officer H. H. Richardson was suspended on the charge that he drove a car while intoxicated on the 11th inst. at 3 a.m., that he engaged in a row with Rufus Carpenter, night watchman at the Uplifters' Club, fired off his pistol and endangered the life of the watchman.

Promise of New Building Seen in Broadway Deal

Probability of the erection of a limit-height building at the northwest corner of Broadway and Second street is seen by realty men in the purchase of the corner by N. L. Fruhling, San Francisco investor, reported yesterday by Coldwell, Cornwall & Banker, brokers. The sale price is given as $250,000.

The property fronts sixty feet on Broadway and fifty-five feet on Second street and is occupied by a six-story building known as the Charles H. Frost Building, erected a number of years ago. Due to this fact realty men believe the new owner contemplates a new limit-height structure rather than an attempt to modernize the present building.

Letter-Opening Charge Aired

Accused of having opened a letter addressed to A. Crampton containing two tickets to the Notre Dame-University of Southern California football game, Fred T. Walker of Alhambra yesterday was held to answer to the Federal grand jury. Bail was fixed at $1000.

MALIBU HOMES FIRE SWEPT

Fifteen Residences of Film Colony Burn in Blaze With Reported Losses of $254,500

Preliminary investigation of fire which early yesterday swept through fifteen of 106 beach homes of the motion-picture colony at Malibu Beach, causing estimated damage of $254,500, attributed the cause to crossed electric wires blown from the side of a garage, according to announcement from the fire department officials of Santa Monica. Actors and actresses alike, garbed in scanty night attire, braved the cold night to assist in putting out the fire and to keep it from spreading.

A change in the wind prevented destruction of the entire colony. The fire broke out about 2 a.m. and was not extinguished until shortly after 5 o'clock. Firemen from Santa Monica, Malibu Beach and Las Flores Canyon responded.

FIRE DESCRIBED

Rapidity with which the flames spread before the high wind following explosion of liquid gas in storage used for cooking was described by Misses Dorothy and Margaret Feron of 901 Sixth street, Santa Monica, who were sleeping in their beach home just five buildings away from the blast.

"Several weeks ago," they said, "we rented the home of Robert Houston, which was five houses away from the start of the flames."

The wind was blowing hard and making considerable noise, but both girls were awakened by a terrific explosion.

"As I looked through a window I saw a great flash of light," said Dorothy, "and by the time I reached the back door of the house, flames were shooting to a great height from the explosion, which had occurred in house No. 50, owned by Mrs. Elizabeth J. Graham.

"We rushed to the garage and got the two cars out and on to the highway, and by the time we were able to get back to the house three of the houses were in flames. It was not more than fifteen minutes from the time of the explosion until the flames spread through the intervening homes and we were able to save only the clothing we had on."

ESCAPE FROM DEATH

A narrow escape from death for two firemen was described by Assistant Fire Chief Hardman of Santa Monica, in telling of an attempt by home owners to use dynamite in stopping the flames.

"Some members of the colony," said Hardman, "believing that the entire row of homes was doomed, obtained a box of dynamite from the Rindge ranch and were preparing to demolish one of the houses in the path of the flames.

"They had just prepared their blast when I noticed the maneuver. Two firemen were on the roof of the house they were planning to demolish, and I immediately halted the blasting," Hardman said.

Homes owned by the following were burned to the ground with the damage as estimated:

ESTIMATED LOSSES

Bernar Toplitsky, insurance and real estate man and brother of Joe Toplitsky, $25,000; George De Sylva, song writer, $100,000, the heaviest loss; Ben Hendricks, Jr., actor, $11,000; Louise Fazenda, actress, and her husband, Hal Wallis, studio ex-

DAM SITES SURVEYS TO START SOON

Geological Exploration to Begin in Ten Days on San Gabriel Projects

Within the next ten days geological exploration work on site No. 2 and site No. 3, where it is proposed to build two of the three dams planned for San Gabriel Canyon, to take the place of the abandoned high-dam project, will begin under the direction of E. C. Eaton, chief engineer of the county flood-control district.

This was indicated today when Eaton appeared before the Board of Supervisors and asked for an appropriation of $20,000 for the work. The request was granted providing that the engineer file, not only his plan for the work but estimates as well. This will be done within the next few days, he said.

The money for the survey will be appropriated from tax money and not from any of the $21,000,000 balance of the $25,000,000 bond issue voted for flood-control work in San Gabriel Canyon.

At the present time explorations are being made at site No. 1 in the canyon, the first of the three dams proposed. This work is being done by contractors. That at the other two sites will be done by the county itself.

ASSESSMENTS CONFIRMED

Assessments for the improvement of La Cienega Boulevard between Cadillac avenue and Washington Boulevard were confirmed yesterday by the City Council. Protests were denied against the improvement of Ascot avenue from Fifty-third to Fifty-fifth streets, and for the improvement of streets in the Eureka Drive and Brill Drive district. Consideration of protests against the opening of Venice Boulevard between Overland avenue and Walgrove avenue was continued until January 5, next.

TREES HELD BOTH CAUSE AND EFFECT OF RAINFALL

Pointing to Nebraska, in which State the rainfall has doubled within the last fifty years because of extensive tree planting, as an example for other States to follow, Warner L. Marah, landscape architect of San Diego, in an address at the City Club yesterday declared that not only posterity, but also the present generation in California will suffer unless a program of reforestation is started to offset timberland losses due to man's carelessness and extravagance.

Advocating a series of check dams in our mountains as a means of flood prevention and water conservation, Mr. Marah said that it would be wise to make these small dams permanent by planting trees to uphold them, mentioning especially trees of economic value, such as the carob, honey locust and fruit-bearing trees. With the reforestation program, the speaker said, should also go a more strict enforcement of fire-prevention laws.

Calling attention to the fact that the average annual rainfall on a ten by thirty-two-mile strip of country in the Palomar Mountains, San Diego county, is fifty-nine inches, Mr. Marah said that this enormous precipitation, which is not accompanied by floods in the canyons, is due almost entirely to the beautiful virgin forest of that section. According to Mr. Marah, science has proved that seven-ninths of the rain that falls on the earth comes from the transpiration of plant life and only two-ninths from the oceans and other bodies of water.

COUNTY COURT PLAN EVOLVED

Bill Would Abolish Present Justice Tribunals

Judicial Council and Bar Approve Change

Provides for Twenty-two Judges at $7500

Abolishment of all justice courts in Los Angeles county and the establishment of a county-wide court will be sought in a bill to be introduced in the next Legislature, according to an announcement made yesterday by Chief Justice Waste of the California Supreme Court.

In announcing the proposed change Justice Waste said the State Judicial Council already has approved the measure and that it will be known as the County Court Act.

As approved at present and in the form that it will be introduced when the Legislature convenes the act would apply to Los Angeles county only, but with insertions could be extended to include any county in the State which desired it, Justice Waste said.

COUNTY COURT

Police courts created in charter cities would not be affected by the act, but it contemplates the abolition of all justice courts. In their place there would be established a county-wide court known as the County Court. This court would have jurisdication equivalent in every respect to the jurisdiction of Municipal Courts.

Under the plan, according to the chief justice, all the courts of Los Angeles county would have a common level of jurisdiction, eliminating existing confusion.

Division into judicial districts of the proposed County Court district with a a court maintained in each is proposed in the act. Business in each district would be conducted as a separate entity so that the characteristics of the present justice courts would be preserved in many respects.

TWENTY-TWO JUDGES

The bill would establish County Courts in counties having more than 900,000 population. The act would provide for twenty-two judges, each receiving $7500 annually, and vacancies would be filled by appointment of the Supervisors until an election could be held. Judges would serve six-year terms.

Justice Waste said it is his understanding that the California State Bar Association also has approved the proposed act.

By inserting the number of districts and judges required by other countries the bill could easily be made applicable to any county desiring to avail itself of this class of court, Justice Waste pointed out.

Blaze Alarms Minnie Barton Home Inmates

Inmates of the Minnie Barton Home for girls and indigent women at 2118 Kennedy street, were thrown into a mild panic yesterday by fire which started in a shed in the rear and threatened destruction of the institution before veering off in another direction and damaging four residences in the vicinity. One woman, Emma Greenwald, 74 years of age, suffered a heart attack during the blaze, but was revived by firemen.

The blaze was caused by lighted matches with which several boys were playing in the shed. Oil-soaked waste and other highly inflammable materials fed the flames and they spread to the near-by residences before firemen checked them. The homes damaged are those of R. H. White, 2115 Adair street, G. T. Moaris, next door, M. Kahn, 617 East Twenty-second street, and B. Clocker, 619 East Twenty-first street. Total loss is estimated at less than $10,000.

CLUB TO HEAR LLOYD'S MAN

Official host will be E. C. Anderson, advertising manager of the Citizens' National Trust and Savings Bank of Los Angeles.

TAX-RELIEF BILL PROPOSED

Measure to Be Offered Legislature Would Postpone Levy-Paying Time for Unemployed

A bill designed to relieve home owners who are unemployed from the burden of taxes and assessments for a period of three years will be presented to the next Legislature by a committee of representative citizens appointed yesterday by Supervisor Shaw, chairman of the county-wide committee on unemployment.

Those who have been chosen to serve on the legislative committee of the main committee and who will present the new bill at Sacramento are: Dr. Frank F. Barham, publisher; J. W. Buzzell, labor union official; J. M. Friedlander, former State Corporation Commissioner, and Wright Hubbard, county commander of the American Legion.

The first meeting of the committee to discuss the measure is called for today at 2 p.m. in the office of Supervisor Shaw at the Hall of Records.

The plan was evolved by former Corporation Commissioner Friedlander. The measure provides that the Governor would be empowered in times of economic stress and financial depression to notify boards of supervisors to appoint an equity tax commission. The membership of the commission would contain not less than five and not more than seventeen members. The body would act until such a time that the Governor announced an emergency no longer existed.

The bill further provides that the commission would have authority in cases where property owners are unable to pay their taxes and assessments to extend the time for payment for a period not to exceed three years. The added time would be given without penalties or interest.

In describing his plan, Friedlander declared that after making a complete survey of decisions in the Supreme Court of the State it is his belief that an act of the Legislature might be adopted providing the extension of time in the payment of taxes to equity home owners who are unemployed, at least for three years. Such legislation, he believes, could be passed by the Legislature as a measure of urgency.

The Lancer

by Harry A. Carr

ALTHOUGH absolutely annihilated by the dictums of Mr. Sinclair Lewis, the other authors of America have the consolation of good company.

About a year ago, Mr. Lewis also relegated God to a back seat.

You will remember how he stood up in a Kansas City pulpit and challenged God to strike him dead—a test of strength between the Supreme Ruler of the Universe and the author of "Main Street."

But Deity—in His limitless wisdom—rules that the humble flea, the cockroach, the boll weevil and other afflictions are necessary for the world; so Mr. Lewis continued to live.

ALL ALONE

In a way it must be gratifying to know that you are the only human being—alive or dead—on the earth, in the waters under the earth or in the glorious heavens above—who really amounts to anything. Yet, on the other hand, it must be kind of lonesome.

"STUFFY DOMESTICITY"

Meanwhile from Reno comes a faint squeak from the discarded spouse wondering why this Supreme Immortal doesn't kick through with the family alimony.

SYMPATHY FOR A THIEF

As usual, the sob sisters are moaning with tender sympathy for Thief Bessemyer. It may be that some newspapers are sincere in having for their readers so contemptuous an opinion that they think we like all this sympathy for this maudlin, cheap melodrama; but the writer who attempts to fan up sympathy for this wretch is legitimately an object of suspicion.

STUPID—OR WHAT?

Gov. Young's only possible defense for his Building and Loan Commissioner is that the gent can neither add nor substract and is a proper candidate for the B-5 class in arithmetic.

THE VETERAN

You can be sure that there were no World War veterans among the fools who threw snakes into the German theater where "All Quiet on the Western Front" was showing.

The finest work being done in behalf of world peace comes from veterans who fought the most frightful conflict in history; and are prepared to make the sacrifice again if necessary.

The shooting gangsters of crime were babies during the World War. The most potent effort and the most effective bulwark of society is the war veteran.

Meanwhile—if this picture is ruled out of Germany—Germany will be the loser. There is no possible doubt that it stands as the finest work of art ever produced in the whole history of motion pictures. Thus far, it is the supreme achievement.

Of course, should Sinclair Lewis ever take a notion to write, direct and play all the parts in a motion picture some day . . . .

The Hollywood Grove of Druids last night tendered a reception to Charles Ceridono, Noble Grand Arch, and C. D. Sheriff's Deputies Fight Running Gun Battle With Long Beach Extortion Gang

PLOTTER SHOT BUT ESCAPES

Attempt to Collect $10,000 From Banker Fails

Trail of Blood Left After Officers Fight Pair

Deputies Set Trap in Field Near Long Beach

At least one member of a trio of extortionists was wounded by deputy sheriffs in a running gun battle, fought last night in dark fields near Orange avenue and Bixby Road, North Long Beach.

The battle in which six deputies and two members of the Compton police force traded shots with the criminals climaxed an attempt to capture the man who wrote three death-threat letters to Harry Reed, manager of the Compton National Bank, Compton, demanding $10,000. Aided by darkness the trio escaped, but one left a trail of blood. A general search was ordered by Capt. Stensland, head of the Sheriff's burglary and robbery squad, and all roads leading from the section where the fight took place were picketed by officers.

In their flight the trio abandoned an automobile registered to A. H. Delaney of 831 Appleton street, Long Beach and deputies were dispatched to check up on the owner.

Reed received the first threatening letter on the 6th inst. It directed him to place $10,000 in bills in a satchel, wrapped in a burlap sack, in some brush at the base of the eleventh telephone pole on Orange avenue, north of Bixby Road. Police Chief West of Compton and Capt. Stensland were notified of the letter by Reed and they had him leave a letter at the pole, stating that he did not have the money. A guard was placed some distance away in the field, but the extortionists succeeded in getting the letter and escaping.

DEPUTIES OPEN FIRE

They wrote a second letter and reduced the sum to what looked like in the scrawled letter as $14 and Reed planted this amount at the appointed spot last Saturday night. Fog made it possible for this to be taken, despite a heavy guard placed at the spot.

The third letter was received last night by Reed and made plain $1400 was the amount wanted. The deputies tied a string to the bag and when the trio drove up and grabbed the sack the deputies opened fire from their hiding place a short distance away.

Mrs. Reed's life was threatened in the letters and Reed was the object of the written assertion that "I don't want you killed for my part because I want to cut your eyes out and your ears off and your fingers and let you live to remember this letter."

From statements in the letters the writer gave as his motive a desire to recoup losses suffered by his mother in financial dealings.

Lennox Next in Line to Join Los Angeles

A report on the physical condition of the unincorporated community of Lennox, now ambitious to become a part of Los Angeles, will be submitted next Monday to the City Planning Committee, which yesterday heard Lennox residents appeal for the privilege of circulating an annexation petition.

The committee directed Efficiency Director Knox to get up the report upon population, assessed valuation, public improvements and condition of streets.

The Board of Water and Power Commissioners has approved the annexation as Lennox can provide its own supply. The territory is near Hawthorne, contains four square miles, supports about 9000 people and carries assessed valuation of approximately $5,000,000.

Should the City Council look with favor upon the annexation an election will be called.

SALVATION ARMY MAN TO VISIT HERE

Commissioner W. H. Ormes, in command of the Chinese Salvation Army, will arrive in Los Angeles this morning en route to China from the meeting of the commissioners in London. The commissioner will be met and shown over the work of the Salvation Army in the city by Brig. James C. Bell, commanding officer of the Los Angeles and south coast division. The various departments will be visited, ending with vesper services at the Evangeline Hotel for young women tonight.

Gathering Hears Speech on World League

for we who are trying to lead the thought of this great land of ours must have the capacity for new truths.

"Tolerance for the radical, the young, the strange—while you hold steady. Heaven save us from the conservative young! What we need is radical youth and conservative age.

"A set of great ethical convictions.

"A willingness for sacrifice."

An outstanding event of the day was the lecture in the afternoon at Polytechnic High School Auditorium by Pierre De Lanux, director of the Paris Information Office of the League of Nations, on "The Outlook for Disarmament." This was given as part of the program of the World Friendship section.

Very little has been done, either by the League of Nations or any other agency, directly toward the realization of a world disarmament program, M. De Lanux admitted, but he asserted that this is because the world has not been ready for a substantial reduction of armaments.

"Not only governments were not ready," he said, "but the people themselves. The people in all the principal countries were ready to disarm their neighbors but not themselves.

"The real friends of the League, therefore, instead of wasting their strength and the League's credit in trying to achieve the impossible, concentrated all their efforts on all political and juridical matters within reach. Since 1925 we have witness the success of the Locarno policy, of the treaty for the renunciation of war, the signing of the clause for compulsory arbitration of the World Court by many nations, and numerous other things of that sort. Now as a consequence of these substantial results the time has come to apply the same force of public opinion that made these victories possible to a new object—disarmament.

"People of our various nations have improved at least in one respect. They begin to realise that we are all in the same boat in regard to disarmament. We used to believe, in each country, that our armaments were, of course, defensive, but that everyone else was arming for aggression, that only among our own people were sincere friends of peace to be found, but that all foreigners were potential aggressors. These notions still prevail with many people, but on the whole we understand the other fellow's position much better than we did, say, six years ago. That is a good preliminary to common action."

The program of the health unit at Patriotic Hall was featured in the morning by an address on "Nutrition and Health" by Dr. Harry H. Wilson and in the afternoon by a talk on "The Romance of Modern Medicine" by Dr. William Duffield.

PRESENT DIET DECRIED

Dr. Wilson decried the diet of present-day America as one on which no people in history ever tried to live before. Its chief faults he described as an overindulgence in sweets, white bread, cereals and potatoes and insufficient consumption of milk, leafy vegetables and fruits. He asserted evidence has accumulated which pins on this type of diet the responsibility for the high incidence of malnutrition among children of preschool ages, the faulty bone growth, bad teeth and faulty posture.

The visual education section of the institute was treated to an exhibition of a series of educational talking pictures yesterday morning at Metropolitan High School auditorium. The pictures were produced by Electrical Research Products, Inc., a subsidiary of Western Electric Company. Introductory talks were made by Charles Roach, director of the local school system's visual education division, and D. M. Ward, an official of the producing company.

Today's institute program will open with a general session at Philharmonic Auditorium, at which Dr. Frank Bohn of New York will deliver an address on "The Great American Adventure," and another general session at Trinity Auditorium at which Lorado Taft, noted sculptor, will talk on "Beauty in American Life."

POET TO LECTURE

Dr. Boris E. Morkovin of the University of Southern California and Dr. E. A. Ross of the University of Wisconsin will deliver the second lecture in the series each is giving on topics pertaining to social science, the former speaking at Polytechnic High auditorium and Dr. Ross at the Belasco Theater. Dr. A. Franklin Shull of the University of Michigan will continue his series at Manual Arts High School on biological problems.

Vachel Lindsay, famous poet, will lecture at 2 p.m. at the Figueroa Playhouse, his topic being "The Golden Whales of California." The health-unit program will be featured by an address on "Obesity and Some Points in Its Management," by Dr. Joseph A. Pollia at 9:30 a.m. and a general discussion will follow.

The physical-education section will gather at Belmont High School to listen to a talk by Sam Barry U.S.C. basketball and baseball coach, on "Conditioning and Training of Athletes."

Deputy sheriffs last night started an investigation to determine the cause of the blast. The plant was not damaged by fire.

ROSE PARADE HEAD NAMED

Maj.-Gen. Farnsworth, U.S.A., Retired, Accepts Post of Grand Marshal of Tournament

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Dec. 15.—From the ranks of Uncle Sam's great military men has been selected a famous grizzled warrior to be grand marshal of the 1931 Tournament of Roses parade.

He is Maj.-Gen. Charles Stewart Farnsworth, U.S.A., retired, who at one time was chief of the entire infantry in the army and who participated in virtually every major engagement in the World War, including the drive at San Mihiel and the fighting in the Argonne.

MAJ GEN. FARNSWORTH

Since 1925, when he retired, Maj. Gen. Farnsworth has not occupied himself actively with the affairs of fighting. And on New Year's Day, when the great pageant swings into column and thousands line the sidewalks and streets of this city as spectators, the veteran exponent of war will be the highest ranking officer of the most colorful episode of peace Southern California has to offer.

SELECTION ANNOUNCED

The selection of Gen. Farnsworth was made late today by C. Hal Reynolds, president of the Tournament of Roses Association, and by the directors of that organization.

The distinguished army officer has been living with his family at 430 La Flores Drive, Altadena, since his retirement. Few men in American military forces have seen more varied service. He had part in Pershing's punitive expedition into Mexico in 1916, and shared in the Spanish-American War.

His service in the World War was as commander of the Thirty-seventh Division. He was made a major-general in 1918. Two years later he became chief of infantry. He was graduated from West Point in the class of 1887 and won attention early in his career by his record as commander of Fort Gibbon, Alaska.

OTHER OFFICIALS

The position of grand marshal for which he has been selected was held last year by Governor-elect Rolph. Next in command to Maj.-Gen. Farnsworth will be Capt. J. W. McCall, chief of staff of the parade, and next to him, Capt. Robert McCurdy, who will be parade adjutant.

Gen. Farnsworth's selection as grand marshal was announced soon after the ceremony of crowning Mary Lou Waddell as queen of the 1931 Tournament of Roses. More than 2000 of Queen Mary Lou's devoted subjects witnessed the elaborate ceremonial in the open air amphitheater in Brookside Park this afternoon. Medieval costumes were worn by 100 participants in the coronation.

COSTUMES STIR MIRTH

A ripple of unseemly mirth ran through the audience when C. Hal Reynolds, jovial Tournament of Roses Association president, who enacted the role of the Archbishop of Canterbury, approached the throne with a face as long as his brilliant green robes. Also attired in what their friends insisted upon calling "royal kimonas" were three tournament directors in the role of the queen's wise men. When they changed to their business suits, these were recognized as C. W. Norris, local telephone manager; Cyril Bennett, architect, and Charles Cobb, local Santa Fe official.

Her Majesty was resplendent in a peach satin court dress, red velvet court train, ermine shoulder cape and high silver collar. The handmaidens, wearing court gowns, were Fannie Arnold, Florence Dunkerley, Myrta Olmstead, Myrna Wilson, Alice Ashley and Mabel Carberry.

Jeanne Knowling's "Waltz of the Flowers" was characterized as an outstanding program feature. Overcome by the prolonged applause which followed her graceful effort, Miss Knowling burst into tears, but when Queen Mary descended from her throne to comfort and praise her the dancing girl's smiles returned.

Directed by Henri Van Praag, the prize-winning band of the local fire department played the processionals. The 2000 favored subjects permitted to witness the coronation

LINDBERGH DUE AFTER NEW YEAR

Colonel Coming Here to Take Delivery on Speed Wing for Monoplane

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh plans to spend Christmas holidays in the East and will not arrive here until shortly after January 1, next, to take delivery on the speed wing for his and Mrs. Lindbergh's fast Sirius monoplane, he stated in a telegram received yesterday at the Lockheed Aircraft Company by Carl B. Squier, general manager.

"As soon after the first of the year as possible," Carl said the flying colonel informed him.

The trans-Atlantic pilot previously had planned to fly here this week, but the wire from Princeton, N. J., where the Lindberghs reside on a country estate, revealed his change of plans. It was not indicated in the telegram whether Mrs. Lindbergh plans to accompany her famous husband.

The colonel informed Squier that the new 605-horsepower Wright Cyclone engine he has had installed on his monoplane increased its take-off, climbing and speed performance, but stated he has not had a chance to clock the ship over a measured course to determine its top speed.

The new wing, built in the Lockheed Burbank plant on the colonel's orders, allows the landing gear and wheels to fold into it, cutting down air resistance and increasing the ship's speed twenty-five miles an hour.

With the combination of the new motor and wing the colonel's plane is expected to attain 225 miles an hour in level flight.

He plans to take the newly fitted craft on a tour of South America shortly after the wing is installed here.

ARLISS SOON TO START ON NEW FILM

Noted Thespian to Play Chief Role in Story by Booth Tarkington

George Arliss arrived in Hollywood yesterday to start work on his next picture, a Booth Tarkington story in which the star will play a laboring man. Mrs. Arliss accompanied him.

Three important awards have been given Mr. Arliss since he left America four months ago for a vacation in England. These include the gold medal for diction on stage and screen awarded by the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, the award of the Motion Picture Academy of Arts and Sciences for the finest individual performance in a picture by an actor, due to his work in "Disraeli," and the Photoplay medal for the best picture of 1929, for the same performance.

Mr. and Mrs. Arliss spent their vacation at their country home in England. Mr. Arliss has no intention of returning to the stage at present, although he found conditions in the theatrical business in both England and New York much improved. Work on the new picture will start in January at Warner Brothers.

FARNUM HUNT IN CITY FAILS

Missing Theatrical Agent Believed in Desert

Friends Here Haven't Seen Him Since Year Ago

Search Will Be Redoubled in Death Valley

Search for Ralph G. Farnum, 40 years of age, New York theatrical agent, failing to disclose any evidence that he had been here recently, police yesterday expressed the belief that he is still somewhere on the desert in or near Death Valley.

Local authorities were requested by Sheriff Goper of Death Valley Junction Sunday to search for Farnum here when one of his pack train burros was found wandering near Furnace Creek.

NOT SEEN BY FRIENDS

"Half a dozen close friends of Farnum declared today that they had not seen or heard from him since he was here a year ago," declared Captain of Detectives Allen of the missing persons detail. "We are reasonably sure that he is not here, as his acquaintances stated he always communicated with them when in this part of the country."

"IN SEARCH OF HEALTH

Without coming all the way to the Coast Farnum, according to Sheriff Goper, obtained a burro pack train and went into Death Valley from Death Valley Junction for the benefit of his health.

While local police declared they believed the theatrical manager has, perhaps, met up with Death Valley Scotty and may be staying at his place, Sheriff Goper wired he will make a thorough search of the desert until Farnum is found or the circumstance of the wandering burro is solved.

An airplane searching party may be organized today, it was stated by Leo Morrison, who said he is a close friend of Farnum's. Morrison declared he expects to charter a plane here, fly to Baker's landingfield, near where Farnum disappeared, and skim low over the valley trails in an attempt to locate his friend.

Prof. Einstein's Arrival Shown by Newsreel

What Prof. Albert Einstein and his wife encountered in New York last week on their arrival there from Berlin, en route to Pasadena, is shown in the current issue of the Times-Universal Newsreel now showing in Southern California theaters. The film reveals the expounder of relativity being besieged aboard the Belgenland by interviewers and photographers armed with questions and cameras. Graham McNamee, talking reporter, describes the arrival.

Another event depicted is the arrival of Ruth Nichols, society aviatrix, at Valley Stream, N. Y., following the record-breaking flight from Los Angeles by way of Wichita in 13 hours 23 minutes.

The schedule may be obtained by phoning Newsreel Book at REpublic 3171 and inquiring about Newsreel No. 100.

"SPOT" ZONING PLAN BEATEN

by M. Norins, P. C. Ingram and M. B. Korman, owners of near-by property.

There was practically no discussion of the zoning among members of the Council, they being well acquainted with the facts as advanced often before.

The City Planning Commission next Monday afternoon will conduct a further hearing on the application of J. H. Lashbrook to enlarge his present service station at Los Feliz Boulevard and Nella Vista Drive.

Air-Crash Rumor Starts Search

Deputy sheriffs of the Newhall substation yesterday undertook a search of Pine Canyon near Bandbergs on the Ridge Route on the strength of reports that a plane was seen to fall in that vicinity about 9:30 p.m. Sunday. The report was communicated to the main office by dispatchers of the Bureau of Power and Light. They said unidentified motorists told them of the plunge.

The deputies believe it possible for a falling star to have been mistaken for a lighted airplane, pointing out that many of them have been seen over the Ridge Route during the past few nights.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH HARRISON VERDICT

A Coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of accidental death in an inquest into the fatal airplane plunge last Thursday of Joseph Leslie Harrison, 38 years of age, of 3661 South Grand avenue. Harrison suffered fatal injuries when his plane went into a tailspin at an altitude of 3500 feet over Mines Field while he was undergoing a Department of Commerce test for a limited commercial pilot's license. He died the following day in Centinella Hospital, Inglewood.

Nurse Holds Radium 'Cure' Ruined Hopes

Radium emanations ended her hopes of motherhood, Miss Estelle Nicholson, a Glendale nurse, asserts in her suit for $187,500 damages, which yesterday resumed hearings before Superior Judge Tappaan after a continuance granted six months ago. Miss Nicholson named Dr. Robert D. Emery, osteopath, as defendant. The latter was on the stand all day yesterday and subjected to interrogation on medical and pathological matters.

According to Miss Nicholson's testimony, she went to Dr. Emery for treatment for a slight cough, and the defendant, after failing to discover anything wrong with her lungs or throat, administered a radium treatment. This, Miss Nicholson asserts, caused a physical breakdown, accompanied by graying of her hair and sterilization. Dr. Emery denies the treatments were responsible for the condition set out in her complaint.

According to Art A. Jones, manager of the Hal G. Ferguson real estate firm, which handles the Malibu leases, most of the owners have signified their intention of rebuilding.

Jones received a report from the department investigation that the fire broke out in a garage owned by Mrs. Graham, apparently when crossed wires torn loose by the wind.

PATENT PAVING RULING ISSUED

Petitions Must Specify Type Desired

Supervisors Give Orders Following Dispute

County Aid Voted for Road at Pomona

Hereafter when property owners petition the Board of Supervisors for paving improvements, or county aid for such projects, it must be specifically stated in their petition whether patent paving is desired. The posted notice of intention placed in the district where the improvement is to be made must also state whether patent paving is wanted.

Such was the order of the board yesterday when a request came before it for $30,000 county aid to help defray the expense of paving a stretch of Sunset Boulevard in West Hollywood. The petition called for patent paving at an estimated cost of $206,550. In a discussion that followed in the morning among members of the board it was asserted that the figures of engineers in the County Road Department on open specifications would not exceed $188,329, a saving of $18,221.

PATENT PAVING SIGNED FOR

"I believe if there ever was a time, now is the time to make money go as far as possible," said Supervisor Shaw. "Why is it, when we get something as good in paving through open specifications, should we donate something to some one with a few patents."

The matter was then laid over until the afternoon for the purpose of hearing from signers of the petition as to whether they fully understood it was patent paving they signed for.

Representatives of the property owners who had circulated the petition appeared before the board and asserted that the signers had fully understood it was patent paving they signed for. On this showing Supervisor Mahaffey moved the appropriation be made. It was carried by four votes, Supervisor Shaw voting "no."

COUNTY AID VOTED

The board also yesterday voted county aid amounting to $121,000 for the improvement of Pomona Boulevard in San Gabriel from Almansor street to Ivar avenue, with patent paving. Supervisor Shaw cast the only dissenting vote. The total cost of the improvement is estimated at $221,289. The open specification figure was $190,947. Had the improvement been made with open specifications the county's appropriation would have been $103,000.

Following the passage of the appropriations, it was on the motion of Supervisor Shaw that the board made the rule that in the future all petitions for paving should designate whether patent paving is wanted by the petitioners.

A program for the restoration of California Missions will be presented by Harry Carr.

Dr. Fiske Will Be Tried Again Next February

Retrial of Dr. William C. Fiske, once tried for murder, was set for February 3, next, by Superior Judge Wood yesterday.

The jury which heard Dr. Fiske's first trial was discharged Saturday when it failed to reach a verdict, standing eight to four for conviction.

Dr. Fiske is charged with causing the death of Miss Vera Nelson September 20, last, as a result of an illegal operation.

Two Japanese Held in Murder

Frank Nakano and Umokiki Tanaka, Japanese produce merchants charged with the murder of Luz Mata, wealthy Mexican rancher from Thermal, yesterday were ordered to appear in Superior Court for plea the 18th inst. The order by Superior Judge Wood followed their arraignment.

Officers accuse the two of beating Mata to death with the intention of robbing him of $1400.

DOUG SAYS HE'LL NOT HOBNOB WITH KINGS

Reports that Douglas Fairbanks is to be the guest of the Emperor of Japan, the King of Siam and several potentates of India during his tour of the Orient were denied by the actor yesterday. He said he has no knowledge as to the source of the rumors. Fairbanks sailed aboard the steamer Belgenland on the 4th inst. from San Francisco to obtain story material for his next picture.

EX-POLICEMAN GOES TO TRIAL

Former Officer Said to Have Given "Protection"

Asserted Payer of Money to Appear for People

Charged with five counts of bribery, Macy O. Bernard, formerly a Culver City policeman, yesterday went to trial before a jury in Superior Judge Craig's court. He is charged specifically with asking and receiving bribes of Harry A. Howard in return for promises of police "protection" in violations of the prohibition law.

Howard has been called as a chief witness for the people. He asserts that he paid $500 monthly for protection for a still and $100 a month for protection of a restaurant where liquor was sold. According to the prosecution, the still blew up in 1928, fatally injuring one Jimmie Duane. The prosecution seeks to prove that Bernard received four bribes of $100 each from Howard between April 21, 1928 and September 29, 1928, and one of $250 on October 20, 1928.

Dep. Dist.-Atty. Kearney is prosecuting the case, and Attorneys James T. Hogan and Clare Woolwine represent the defendant. Among the witnesses subpoenaed are W. P. Hendry, Police Chief of Culver City, City Clerk Paul H. Jarrett, Police Judge A. A. Randall, and Justice of the Peace Lester R. Hardy. The trial is expected to occupy several days.

GIRL VICTIM OF BANDITS AIDS STATE

Brothers Held for Trial After Witnesses Describe November Street Hold-up

Jack and Edward Hall, brothers, were caught in the act of holding up a girl and two boy companions, witnesses declared in Municipal Judge Ballard's court yesterday.

MISS KATHLEEN HOFFMAN

Miss Kathleen Hoffman, 16 years of age, of 243 East One Hundred and Tenth street, told the court that he, with Edward Traeger and Edward Brandt, was forced into the curb at Main and One Hundred and Ninth street on the night of November 29, last. "They pointed guns at us and told us to 'stick 'em up.' None of us had any money and just as they finished searching us the police car came."

The police car contained Officers Harold Berg and Floyd Davis, who arrested Edward Hall, other witnesses said. Jack Hall leaped into Traeger's roadster and escaped, but was arrested next day on information given by his brother, according to Dep. Dist.-Atty. Moses.

Hazel Ashby, 27, of 513 Hawaiian avenue, Wilmington, identified the two men as those who held her up on Avalon Boulevard near Florence avenue, earlier the same night. They obtained $2.35, she said.

Judge Ballard ordered them held on two robbery charges each under $3000 bail.

Gottlieb Iberg Taken by Death

Gottlieb J. Iberg, pioneer Middle Western merchant and a resident of Los Angeles for the last twenty years, died yesterday at his home, 1050 West Twentieth street, after one week's illness of influenza. He was 74 years of age and a native of Highland, Ill. He came to Los Angeles in 1910, after disposing of his business interests in several sections of Minnesota and North Dakota.

GOTTLIEB J. IBERG

Until a few years ago he kept mildly active in real estate trading here. Besides his widow, Mrs. Emily B. Iberg, he leaves one daughter, Mrs. Della Jack, and three sons, George T. Iberg of Rochester, Minn., Irwin C. Iberg of Clearwater, and J. Wesley Iberg of Los Angeles. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Chain Letter Helps Safety

An international movement in the interest of public safety is under way in the form of a chain letter, it was revealed in a communication received by The Times yesterday. The letter reminds each addressee of the slogan: "Cross Crossings Cautiously" and requests that he pass the word along to nine of his friends. In this way it is hoped the recommendation may eventually girdle the globe three times.

The chain, it is stated, was started by a railroad official. Included among those who have received and forwarded the slogan are Senator Hatfin, George Bernard Shaw, Arthur Train, Ambassador Dawes, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, Dorothy Dix, Ramsay MacDonald, Aristide Briand, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and John Barrymore.

MRS. GOODRICH SOUGHT

F. S. Goodrich of Oroville has requested The Times to announce he is endeavoring to locate his former wife, Mrs. Jessie A. Goodrich, and their 9-year-old daughter, Katherine, who are believed to be in Los Angeles. The United States Veterans' Bureau, he explains, has some money for the child.

Today's Bible Text

Worthy is the Lamb that was slain to receive power, and riches, and wisdom, and strength, and honour, and glory, and blessing.—Rev. v:12.

HEALTH NOTE
Dividend rate of big taxicab company in New York falls off to less than half. Walking seems to be a healthy exercise when the pocketbook is low.

ESPECIALLY THE LOOP
Eighteen thousand men have been put to work "scrubbing up Chicago for the exposition in 1933." That should be a continuous task up to the opening day.

SHINY
Some one has decreed either in Hollywood or Paris that shiny cloth is to be the vogue this winter. The tailors and modistes evidently are bent on having clothes that fit—even the times.

ANOTHER CORNER TURNED
Business is said to have turned another corner. And yet, perhaps, turning too many corners is what is the matter with business. Sticking to the straight-away for a while might help.

REFUGE
A new bird refuge is to be established down on the Salton Sea in the Imperial Valley. If the hunting casualties keep up, it would seem that a refuge for men would be more in keeping with conditions.

DOLLAR DOWN
The new dollar liner President Hoover, costing $8,000,000, was launched at Newport News on December 9th. Mrs. Hoover broke a bottle of water taken from the high seas on the prow at the christening. Here's a big Dollar in circulation.

RELATIVITY
Einstein says that Hitler "is living on the empty stomach of Germany," and predicts the end of his sway when that stomach is filled. Perhaps if Germany would substitute national co-operation for Hitlerism the filling would progress as rapidly as it is doing in this country.

FEW SENIOR STARS
Only four seniors of Hollywood High School expect to enter upon film careers. Law, aviation and science claim most of the ambitions of the youth, according to a survey made by the Kiwanis Club. Lindbergh and Einstein still seem to be ascendant in the Hollywood heavens.

ARRESTING CONSULS
The discovery of Justice of the Peace Zaring of Belvedere township that he had overstepped his authority in attempting to punish for contempt a Mexican consular official would much better have been made before he committed the latter to the custody of a deputy sheriff more accustomed to handling tramps than accredited agents of a friendly foreign government. No doubt the incident will be ended with explanations from the State Department at Washington, but it should never have arisen.

In a decentralized government such as that of the United States, it is difficult or impossible to control minor elective officials, which is all the more reason why such officials should inform themselves fully of the requirements of international courtesy and exercise a self-control which makes other control unnecessary. Officers and officials cannot be too careful in dealing with the official representatives of a foreign country and where they are in doubt as to his status should take no chances of giving needless offense.

If Justice Zaring felt that the consular officer was exceeding his prerogatives, he should have taken the matter up through the proper channels. When he attempted to deal with the situation directly he put himself entirely in the wrong.

Unfortunately incidents of this sort become magnified and produce international ill-feeling, which cannot wholly be abated by expressions of regret and apologies. While consuls do not have diplomatic status and are not technically immune from arrest, they should not be placed in custody except for serious crime, and when they are looking after the interest of their nationals should be accorded wide latitude, since such activity is of a quasi-diplomatic nature.

THE PUBLIC DEBT
One of the liveliest controversies in Congress is likely to grow out of variously sponsored proposals for postponement of payments on the public debt. Only one of these was taken notice of by President Hoover in his budget message, when he objected to tampering with the sinking fund, and said he favored its continuance at the statutory rate of about $440,000,000 a year. But there are others, including one wild proposal that there be a $4,000,000,000 bond issue to pay off the soldiers' adjusted compensation certificates, commonly known as bonus certificates, on the theory that the veterans would put a lot of the money into immediate circulation.

It may be interesting in view of these various plans to inquire into the status of the public debt. At the close of the fiscal year, 1930, on June 30, last, it stood at $16,185,308,299, having been decreased during the year by approximately $745,000,000 and from its high point in 1919 by approximately $10,533,000,000. Of this reduction some $2,799,000,000 was furnished by the sinking fund, approximately $3,500,000,000 from Treasury surpluses, and the rest from foreign debt payments and the like.

For the fiscal year 1931, there will be no public debt payment from surplus, as there will be no surplus—instead, there will be a deficit of $180,000,000 or thereabouts. The sinking fund appropriation for the current year is $392,152,200 and this will be all the principal reduction accomplished, since foreign government payments will go toward a reduction of the surplus. The sinking fund budgeted for 1932, however, amounts to $409,410,600.

These are not, of course, the only payments on the public debt, merely the principal. Interest for the current year amounts to $603,000,000 and for 1932 is budgeted at $581,000,000. Thus a little less than $1,000,000,000 a year of the government's income goes to public debt payments, even in the leanest years. There is, of course, no escaping payment of interest, but conceivably Congress might decree postponement of reductions of principal.

In Secretary Mellon's annual report a surplus of $30,000,000 for 1932 is estimated. He figures the income tax will yield $2,260,000,000, or $70,000,000 more than this year; customs receipts will approximate $612,000,000, or $110,000,000 more than this year; and other receipts will amount to $623,000,000, or $53,000,000 more than this year. The 1932 surplus may very well be wiped out, of course, if Congress exceeds the appropriations recommended by the President; Secretary Mellon's estimate is based upon the budget.

The largest Treasury surplus was that of 1927, amounting to $635,000,000.

How much the United States will receive in foreign debt payments in future years remains a question. Payments last year amounted to about $236,000,000, bringing the total received since the debt settlements well above $2,391,000,000, principal and interest. About $246,000,000 is due this fiscal year.

If Germany, for example, should declare or receive a moratorium on Young plan payments, as might readily happen should the present economic depression in Europe continue, payments from some of the governments to this country might halt. Great Britain remains our best-paying debtor and has handed over by far the lion's share of the money so far received. Renewed agitation for reduction or forgiveness of these European obligations is likely in the near future unless world business conditions better.

There is no doubt that all Europe has its nose to the grindstone paying for the folly of 1914. Of debtors, England is the hardest hit economically, her post-war recovery having indoubtedly been hampered by the effort required to put the pound sterling back to par. Had England stabilized her currency at a discount, as nearly every other nation involved in the war did, the operation would have brought about some loss of credit, but might have given her an apparently more prosperous look. It will take a long historical view to weigh properly the results of the fiscal policy of Great Britain in this decade. If she can survive the results, she will be able to borrow in any future emergency at better rates and on better terms than any nation in Europe, but she seems to have nearly killed herself in the process, and may yet have to beg an indulgence of some sort. By about 1950, economists may be able to say whether first-class credit is worth purchasing at such a price.

The point for the United States to consider is, however, that future contributions to public debt reduction from Europe are far from being a certainty and that a possibility that American taxpayers will have to shoulder the whole burden, willy-nilly, is nearer now than it seemed a couple of years ago. If this is the case, any present tampering with the sinking fund might be a later occasion for regret, for the faster the debt is paid off the less will its burden be.

STABILITY IN SPAIN
Again the Spanish government appears to have nipped an incipient revolt and prevented serious developments. That two revolt leaders could be sent before a firing squad, followed by no more effect than the stealing of a couple of airplanes and using them to drop propaganda, indicates a good deal of inherent stability and quiet but substantial support for the Spanish government by the bulk of the population.

If the agitation shows unrest and internal pressure, its lack of result shows also that the boiler of the Spanish ship of state is sound. The outward manifestations may be no more than letting off steam through the safety valve. The policy of Premier, or Dictator, Berenguer, seems to be that of the iron hand in the velvet glove, a policy extremely successful when applied by a master, but requiring masterly manipulation. Small men attempting to make use of it invariably make mistakes in one direction or the other, applying now the iron and now the velvet to the wrong situations.

One must be chary of predicting the ultimate outcome of Spanish affairs, which have been in a troubled state for a decade or more, and which seem to be getting neither worse nor better. It would be too easy to exaggerate either the importance of the so-called revolutionary movement, or the success of the Premier in dealing with it, without more knowledge than a long-distance or a cursory survey permits. But from present indications, King Alfonso seems likely to hang on to his crown, and most outsiders hope he will. A revolution in Spain might easily touch off another European war, for one thing, and for another the King has displayed many admirable qualities and has much ability as well as amiability.

THE GRAND JURY
Disposition of the judges of Superior Court to do away with the continuous grand jury during 1931 seems, on the whole, likely to result in benefit. It will at least be an interesting experiment. Grand juries have assumed a somewhat exaggerated importance during the last few years and the disposition they have at times evinced to attempt to take over the local government is a dangerous tendency.

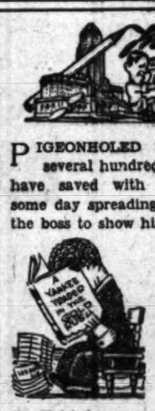
Superior Judge Schauer points out that other California counties get along without grand juries, even for extradition cases, and calls attention to the finding of numerous indictments without legal evidence, resulting in costly proceedings and the acquittal of defendants or dismissal of charges. The grand jury, necessarily composed of laymen, is unquestionably inferior to a good committing magistrate in judging whether or not a crime has been committed and whether there is substantial legal reason for believing that an accused defendant has committed it.

The principal advantage of the grand jury system, that of being able to keep its proceedings secret, has been more theoretical than actual. Secrecy is supposed to be a protection to innocent defendants, since, if it is maintained, the general public does not know that charges, which may be based in malice or spite, or even in honest mistake, have even been investigated; and the mere investigation of charges does tend to be hurtful to a man's reputation if it becomes known. But recent grand juries have not maintained secrecy, on the one hand, and on the other have voted many indictments which would not hold water, thus bringing about the very condition sought to be avoided, the placing of an unjust stigma.

At the same time it should be remembered that without a grand jury the corruption of the District Attorney's offices during the Keyes regime could not have been uncovered.

When real need for a grand jury develops, one can readily be summoned, and since such a special investigating body will serve for a short time and be confined to a specific investigation, it should be possible to obtain for it men of better caliber than now can be found when they must devote a full year to service.

The LEE SIDE O'LA
By Lee Shippey



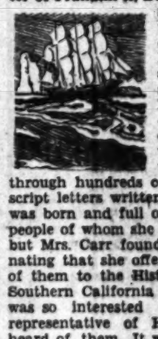
PIGEONHOLED in our desk are several hundred letters which we have saved with the naive idea of some day spreading them out before the boss to show him what an invaluable chap we are—a thing he never might suspect otherwise. But most of the letters we get go into the w. b. as soon as they are read and even those we treasure never again see the light, because each day brings its new lot of letters and in this busy life there is little time for looking backward.

So when we read a book like "A Yankee Trader in the Gold Rush"—or, rather, when we read that book, for there isn't any other quite like it—we marvel at both the letter writers and the letter preservers who can make such a volume possible. Lord Chesterfield's letters to his son must have been written, we suspect, with a view to publication, but Franklin A. Buck, the Yankee trader, whose letters to his sister, Mary Sewall Bradley, create such revealing pictures of California's gold-rush days as to make the book one of the most important historical documents of the decade, was merely writing letters as natural, frank and intimate as Pepy's diary. He wrote his parents, too, but either he wrote them much less interesting letters or they did not realize what they were getting, for it was the sister who preserved the letters and handed them down to her descendants.

And it is an interesting fact that the publication of this particular "book of the year" was the result of the reading of some of the letters before the Historical Society here in Los Angeles.

Authors, Read This and Be Jealous

Mrs. Mary Sewall Buck Carr, daughter of Franklin A. Buck, is the possessor of these letters. Before they came to her they had been stuck away in her aunt's attic back East. It isn't every Los Angeles club woman who would find time to study her way through hundreds of faded manuscript letters written long before she was born and full of references to a people of whom she had never heard, but Mrs. Carr found them so fascinating that she offered to read some of them to the Historical Society of Southern California and that society was so interested that the western representative of Houghton Mifflin heard of them. It was one of those rare cases in which the publishers sought the manuscript. The letters were compiled and slightly edited by Katherine A. White of Los Angeles into a continuous narrative which is as true a reflection of its times as Pepy's diary is of his. The excitement in New York, which was so great that all the adventurous young men who were not nailed down were starting for California, even though they resigned good jobs or sold all their possessions or risked great dangers to do so; the trip around the Horn in a fragile sailing bark, which got blown 1500 miles out of its course, the arrival in San Francisco and the life of the West at that time are revealed as only an eyewitness living the life could reveal them.



Plowing Contests for Graduates

Besides the published letters, Mrs. Carr's aunt treasured earlier ones from her brother, who agreed when he went away to college to write his sister regularly. One of these describes the commencement exercises at Phillips Academy and gives a quaint picture of what was expected of young gentlemen of culture and spirit in those days. One of the features of commencement week was a plowing contest. Try that on your collegiate son and see how it works.

Just for Contrast

Carol is an 8-year-old Hollywood miss who never took up letter writing seriously till a couple of years ago. Then all her letters were to relatives for whom she held great affection, so she began each one "I love you." Last summer, while in Carmel, she dropped a post card to her 9-year-old cousin, who attends one of those classy private schools in Hollywood. She received no answer, so when she returned to Hollywood recently and met the young gentleman she asked:

"Didn't you get my post card?"

He looked a little uncomfortable.

"Oh, yes," he said.

"Didn't you like it?"

"Well, yes, I liked it all right. But you shouldn't have written a post card that was so—er—well, personal. You started it out 'I love you.' When you write things like that, Carol, you really ought to put them in an envelope."

Joshua Little Says

It's because they're so strikingly original that most people like Amos and Andy. Except for Mrs. Malaprop and the few thousand characters other fictionists have created in imitation of her since Richard Brinsley Sheridan introduced her about 130 years ago, we've never had anything like that before.

I've always admired Judge Yankwich. But when he gave a woman a divorce just because her husband slapped her for making a dumb play at bridge he set a precedent which menaces all that's left of our social structure.

Radicals who vehemently demand the "right of free speech" against the American government are cordially invited to go over to Russia and try the same thing there.

PREFERENCE
By James J. Montague

I have recently read the assertion
I forget, for the moment, its source,
That if men would chop wood it would do them more good
Than chasing a pill 'round a course.
In my time I have followed both pastimes—
Hit the oak and the so thumping whacks—
And I give you my word that this wood-chopping bird
Never handled a club or an ax.

The sound of the woodcutter's labors
Is music for others to hear,
But I never have met with a person as yet
Who has found it a pleasing career.
The Pilgrims, when poor, wielded axes,
But when they owned houses and lands
They were prone to relax, and the strong trusty ax
Was swung by their underpaid hands.

When you've played eighteen holes on a golf course,
You can rest in your place in the sun,
But the man who hacks trees never has any ease,
That job one can never get done.
Though to garner indifferent wages
Or by hope of more muscle impelled,
When the wood has been stored in the shed by the cord
There are aways more trees to be felled.

Great men have chopped wood for amusement,
Denuding the tree-shaded glen
To make themselves fit, but one has to admit
That there were no golf courses then.
Hacking logs for the adipose Fiji
May perhaps be regarded a boon,
But when I feel a lurking desire for working,
Please give me my driver and spoon.

REPRESENTATIVE GOVERNMENT

BY FRED HOGUE

Freedom of discussion is a right established and protected by democratic institutions. But, when the collective voice of the majority has been expressed at the polls, that decision must be final. The minority has neither the right nor the privilege to violate laws which it regards as unjust, inexpedient or inequitable.

There is a belligerent minority in the country who believe the prohibition amendment to the American Constitution is a violation of the right of the individual. They have a right, guaranteed by democratic institutions, to agitate for the modification or repeal of that amendment. But they have neither the legal nor the moral right to violate that law or any other law on the statute books.

Strict enforcement of the law is an absolute essential to lawful government.

In government, as in sports, there must be some tribunal whose decisions shall be final. Imagine the confusion of a baseball or a football game without an umpire! On a close play, the umpire may be in doubt; but he cannot evade a decision. He may be in error; but the decision stands and the game goes on.

Bullets may be more powerful than ballots. In corrupt democracies, as in South America, it may be cheaper to buy gunpowder than to buy votes. But when, as in our own country, the majority can shoot as well as vote, the decision of the majority must be final.

The majority proved in the Civil War that it considered a unified government under the Constitution worth fighting for. The minority was not convinced; but it was suppressed. To me, the tragedy of existence on this planet is that faith in an idea or a principle does not prove its integrity. The minority may be sincere in its belief that it is right; but the majority is equally sincere; and when two beliefs clash, who is to decide?

Under an autocratic form of government might becomes right. But what has might to do with merit? There is a distinction between military discipline and mental and moral discipline. Is the man who carries a sword the superior of the man who drives a plow?

For centuries the world has been seeking the perfect state; but the search has been as fruitless as that for the end of the rainbow, or for perpetual motion.

We know that there is force enough in the movement of the tides to supply motive power for the population of a hundred earths; but we do not know how to harness that power and apply it to the public service. There is enough wasted effort in a state to supply all human needs; but we have not yet learned how to apply that effort to a useful purpose.

The perfect state exists only in the minds of men; and in no two minds does it take the same form. The perfect state would give to its nationals liberty, justice, prosperity, order and peace. There would be no poverty and no crime. This is the generally accepted ideal; but, as soon as one begins the discussion of the kind of government necessary to bring about the perfect state, right then the confusion begins.

The records of history attest that whenever a fanatical minority sets forth to establish the perfect state through legislation it ends by slaying all those who refuse to accept its dogmas, and the quest ends with a general massacre, followed by a military dictatorship.

The heads of states the loudest praised and longest remembered are those who have made the greatest military conquests, have shed the most blood. Under democratic institutions the majority turns to the successful warrior to head the government in a time of peace.

If there had been no Civil War there would have been no President Grant. If Roosevelt had not led his regiment up San Juan Hill, there would have been no Roosevelt in the White House. Wellington, the man of the sword, won his laurels on the bloody field of Waterloo. But when a grateful people chose him for Prime Minister of England his popularity soon faded.

Converting a sword into a scepter has seldom brought peace and prosperity to a people. Laws written with the point of a dagger are not likely to preserve liberty or to confer a higher degree of prosperity.

I can discover no evidence that there is more merit in a machine gun than in a constitution as a form of government.

Neither is there present prospect that the perfect state will be established through a government of the majority. The majority will be sometimes right, and sometimes wrong. It is as untamed, as independent as the waves of the sea. But the majority standard is the only standard of selection that enlightened and liberty-loving men will endure.

In all government there must be those who command and those who obey. In all government there must be a power to deprive of their liberties those who willfully disobey the written laws. In our own country the liberty of every individual is at the mercy of the state. He must obey laws that he may regard as tyrannical. There is a mutual surrender of personal liberty whenever communities organize under governmental forms.

Personal welfare may at times be sacrificed to the public welfare. Under representative government the people have the right and privilege to choose those who shall govern them. They have the right and the privilege to take part in making the laws which they must obey. The chains that one years, all must wear. The hand that turns the lathe or drives the plow may become the hand that writes the signature to documents of state.

Unless there has been some radical change in human nature, which is not at all likely, the life of the peoples under this new crop of dictators will be no more tolerable than under the democratic institutions that have been abandoned.

A peace that is imposed with machine guns cannot fail to resemble the peace that is maintained in penal institutions. Dictators are not servants, but masters of the people; and where there are masters there must be slaves.

Peoples who willingly turn to dictators, as the Italians have done, make a confession of failure in their attempt to govern themselves. They confess inability to make good use of the institutions which guarantee liberty and order. The best that can be said of them is that they are returning to a state of tutelage for a generation; hoping that sometime they will be sufficiently enlightened and possessed of sufficient common sense to govern themselves.

Those peoples who have still preserved their democratic institutions have a right to regard themselves as superior peoples. They have attained their majority. They are no longer under the tutelage of self-appointed masters. Each man in the state can continue to regard himself as the equal of every other. Representative government will be all the dearer to them because it is a privilege now denied to so many peoples who have made a public confession of their inferiority.

In a country where the morons are in a majority, where the brain power is not equal to the man power, democratic institutions will always function badly. The people will render their industry impotent by the shackles in the form of laws that they place about it. There will be a multiplicity of laws, and the confusion of laws will be like unto that of a confusion of tongues. In such a state a strong military government will be necessary, if the people are to avoid mass misery.

But in a state where brain power holds equal rank with man power, where education is universal, where there are moral laws observed still more rigorously than state laws, where the people know the meaning of peace and equality of opportunity and privilege—in such a state there is no place for Fascism.

These people who willingly accept dictators, who go into voluntary servitude, somehow remind me of a man who would fasten a ball and chain to his own leg, in order that he would not run away.

Democratic institutions have their weaknesses, but with all their faults, the peoples living in the countries so governed have at the present time amassed more wealth collectively and per capita, enjoy a higher standard of living, than those living under any other form of government.

It All Depends Again

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Your editorial on "The Manning-Lindsey Row" is one of the most timely editorials we have ever read. You have without any extra remarks diagnosed that man's ridiculous and harmful teachings. To be sure he objected to being introduced before that great audience as a disbarred judge of the Juvenile Court. He wishes to go on with his diabolical scheme to enmesh greater numbers of the people. More young folks have become discouraged and bewildered with life from that man's teachings than any other cause that I know. Lindsey shouts, "Look at the unhappy marriages." Yes, but why pause there? Such things have always been. There are many more happy marriages under the dome of heaven. I might laugh at Lindsey's teachings were they not such a serious matter. House Replicas on Hats

If you wish to be among the smartest dressers in London your hat brooch must contain a tiny replica of your home, in gold, platinum, or precious stones. One very wealthy woman has ordered three from her jeweler. One is a replica of her country cottage, with "lights" in the windows, the second a one-inch model of her car with mascot complete, and the third is a picture, also one inch long, of her Cairn terrier, in platinum with jeweled eyes and ivory teeth.

THE INGRATE

Again the wintertime arrives, the bitter winds are blowing, and I see voters and their wives on dreary errands going. They go, appealing for the vote, and can't be had for asking, and can hear their dismal note as on my cushions basking. They go for handouts here and there, to keep their bones from freezing; they're telling through the air that snow, in all this weather. And I have one thing I need, there's plenty of it around me; and like a pig if may feed, no wolves of want bound me. I'm in no street called Easy; I'm not one of those who have no work, with luck is always cheery. And yet I'm full of discontent; all pleasure has defaulted; I'm not drawing 5 per cent on what I have sailed. I did not earn as much this year as in the year preceding; which thanks to conditions doubt and fear, and makes my bosom bleeding. I have to pay a higher tax, although my income's smaller; I feel my indignation wax, I'm not a hero to the collar. A loan I made has turned out bad, the borrower is busted; I fear he'll never send, and I am sore disgusted. While I review my many woes, the wind is screeching, and now and then through the square the snow flakes jobs beseech-ing. But now and then I seem to wake, my heart is of sorrow leaving; I find the trouble is a fake of which I'm my grieving.

THE INGRATE

Again the wintertime arrives, the bitter winds are blowing, and I see voters and their wives on dreary errands going. They go, appealing for the jobs that can't be had for asting, and I can hear their dismal sobs, while on my cushions basking. They go for handouts here and there, to keep their bones together; they're toiling through the drifting snow, in all this bitter weather. And I have everything I need, there's plenty all around me; and like a monarch I may feed, no wolves of famine bound me. I have a roof above my head, a downy bed to sleep in; all kinds of plain and fancy bread, a handkerchief to weep in. If I do not have to join the throng, for ill-paid jobs imploring, and through the snowing, and through the snowdrifts toil along, while wintry blasts are roaring, I have been favored by the gods. I'm in the street called Easy; I'm not like those who have no wads, whose luck is always cheesey. And yet I'm full of discontent, all pleasure has defaulted; I'm only drawing 5 per cent on money I have salted. I did not earn as much this year as in the year preceding; which thought occasions doubt and fear, and leaves my bosom bleeding. I have to pay a higher tax, although my income's smaller; I feel my indignation wax, I'm hot beneath the collar. A loan I made has turned out bad, the borrower is busted; I fear he'll never pay a cent, and I am sore disgusted. While I review my faked-up woes, the soul within me screeching, sad mev are toiling through the snows, for ill-paid jobs beseeching. But now and then I seem to wake, my dream of sorrow leaving; I know the trouble is a fake o'er which I am grieving.

'PETER PAN' GET-TOGETHER HELD

Several Generations of Actors Congregate

Claxie Loftus presents to Marion Clayton, as Peter Pan, a set of pipes which she used in role years ago; standing between them is Lionel Belmore; in the right foreground is Donald Stuart, while standing behind him is George Kirby.

A REUNION of principals and directors who have contributed to the success of "Peter Pan," Sir James Barrie's celebrated stage fantasy, on two continents in the course of more than a quarter of a century, was held yesterday afternoon in the foyer of the Music Box Theater in Hollywood.

Claxie Loftus, the mimic, who succeeded Nina Boucicault in the title role of the Barrie play in London in 1905, was present as guest of honor. She greeted several old associates, including Lionel Belmore, who directed a revival of the play in Washington, D. C., in 1911, and George Kirby, inventor of the flying effects introduced in the play, whom she had not seen since London days.

Donald Stuart, who has played every masculine role in "Peter Pan" and helped direct the production at its annual Christmas revivals in London for the past twenty-three years, brought forward Marion Clayton, present Peter Pan, to introduce her to Miss Loftus. Miss Clayton is appearing in the Civic Repertory Company's production.

Others present included Reggie Sheffield, who played Michael in the London production of 1912; Henriette Goodwin, with Belmore in Washington; Maya Riviere, seen in the Eva LeGallienne revival in New York, and Mickey McBann, who played slightly in the Betty Bronson picturization of the play.

All were guests of the Civic Repertory organization last night at the opening of "Peter Pan."

THOSE WHO LIVE IN NEED WILL BE FED

Salvation Army to Give Christmas Dinners to More Than 7500 Poor

Between 7500 and 10,000 men, women and children will be given good, substantial Christmas dinners by the Salvation Army this year. These families are carefully chosen, with the co-operation of all agencies doing similar work, to prevent duplication.

"We receive some of the most pitiful letters every day," Adjt. Nettie Brown, officer in charge of the relief work at the headquarters, stated. "One letter came from a mother whose husband has not had work for many months. There are fifteen in the family. This is but a sample of the hundreds of letters we have been receiving."

One of the most interesting activities of this department is that of caring for the families of prisoners at San Quentin and Folsom. The names and addresses of these families are sent by the Salvation Army officer who visits the penitentiaries.

Picking Jury Delays Horton Murder Trial

Trial of Lloyd Dye and Gordon Gauss, charged with the "Wild West" murder of Wade Albert Horton, 68-year-old Mint Canyon rancher, was delayed in Superior Judge Fricke's court yesterday while prosecution and defense attorneys continued the questioning of prospective jurors.

Dye and Gauss are charged with going to the Horton ranch in Mint Canyon on May 18, last, believing that Wade Horton and his brother George, 92, had a large sum of money hidden in their home. During the attempted robbery, officers assert, Wade Horton was killed and Dye was shot twice.

The youths were traced by the tire prints of their car and two bullet scars which officers state Dye bears on his body.

COUNTY GRANTS FITTS MORE AID

Additional Deputy and Secret Investigator Allowed

San Bernardino Prosecutor May Get First Job

Controversy With Auditor Brought to End

Dist.-Atty. Fitts was given authority of the Board of Supervisors yesterday to employ an additional deputy at $400 a month and another secret investigator at $8 a day. The District Attorney intimated that Dist.-Atty. George Johnson of San Bernardino county will be his new deputy, as he ranks second on the county's civil service eligible list.

While before the board Fitts also settled a controversy between his office and County Auditor Payne relative to where the records of undercover operatives of the District Attorney's office should be kept.

During his time in office the records of these operatives have been kept by him as a sort of "confidential" record, the same as records of secret service men in the employ of the United States government are kept. Payne, however, insisted they should be kept the same as other employees, in his office.

The District Attorney explained to the board that it is of the utmost importance that the names of the men working undercover should be kept secret, not only for their own protection but also to further the work they are doing.

"If every one knows who these men are the purpose of their work is defeated," Fitts declared. "They would probably all be killed, too."

In asking for additional help the District Attorney pointed out the large increase in the business of his office since his election to it. During the last week, he said, the complaint department of his office heard 944 complaints. During the month of July the department handled 195 felony trials wherein verdicts were returned. The ratio of convictions, he declared, has increased from 53 per cent to 75.

UNION LABOR PAPER CITES POLICE HEAD

"Government by injunction," attacked as such by labor unions for many years, was invoked in favor of the Los Angeles Citizen, a union newspaper, yesterday when Chief Steckel, Detective Lieutenant Hynes, and two members of the "Red squad" were cited in Superior Judge Gates's court to show cause why they should not be held in contempt for violating a temporary injunction issued by Superior Judge Doran on the 11th inst., against arresting newsboys for selling the Citizen on downtown streets.

Judge Gates postponed the case until today, because congested conditions in local courts did not afford an opportunity to try the case yesterday.

The suit was filed by Harvey E. Garman, who asserted the police interfered with the sales of the newspaper, said to be a publication of general circulation, admissible to the mails as second-class mail matter.

What declared itself to be an "extra" of the weekly paper contained in "box car" type on the front page, a notice that a certain downtown theater was unfair to union labor. Newsboys were arrested with the "extra" in front of the theater.

City Attorney Johnson filed an answer to the contempt citation, asserting that the "extra" in question was published with the idea of evading the California antipicketing law, and that sale of the non-regular edition in question, with its specially designed headlines, constituted in effect, picketing of the theater.

Burglar Opens Gift Packages and Loses Gems

A burglar's curiosity caused him to spend so much time unwrapping a pile of Christmas presents he found in the home of Mrs. C. B. Donnelley, 1850 Outpost avenue, that he overlooked a quantity of valuable jewelry, and barely made his escape when members of the family returned home last night. There were more than fifty packages in the pile and most of them contained trinkets or toys, that Mrs. Donnelley had prepared for numerous children of her acquaintance.

According to Mrs. Donnelley she spent almost two days wrapping the presents. The burglar found the packages heaped in a closet and carefully unwrapped each one. Nothing else was disturbed in the house.

LICENSE SUSPENDED

The Tucker Motor Company's license to sell second hand cars at 2320 West Washington street, was suspended for one week beginning today by the Police Commission yesterday on complaint of Owen Crompton of 9626 South Harvard Boulevard, that one of the firm's salesmen sold him a 1925 model car as a 1927 model.

PASTOR'S WIFE DIVORCES HIM AS BIBLE LOTHARIO

Rev. Esek W. Kenyon, former pastor of a downtown church, was divorced by Mrs. Alice Whitney Kenyon in Superior Judge Mahon's court yesterday on testimony that he disregarded one of the Ten Commandments and coveted his neighbor's wife.

Mrs. Kenyon testified that the coveting occurred through the window of her husband's study, taking the form of honeyed words to Mrs. Evelyn June Nittenger, who lived next door. Mrs. Nittenger also testified, saying Kenyon told her his wife didn't care for him. He also quoted Scripture to effect his purpose to force his attentions on her, she said.

Miss Vivian W. Linn, secretary of the preacher, also complained of his biblical courtship, refreshing the court's mind with the old adage that the Father of Evil has been known to quote Scripture to further his wicked designs.

Kenyon left his home just after he was dismissed from his pastorate on account of Mrs. Kenyon's divorce suit, she said.

Endurance Hop May Be Tried Again Today

Following last Sunday's twenty-two-minute flight in an attempt to set a new world's air-endurance record, Jimmy Angel and his crew of five men yesterday were testing at Grand Central Air Terminal their trimotored monoplane and hoped to get into the air again today.

The ship came down after its first short flight, supposedly to let out a stowaway, Miss Billie Brown, professional parachute jumper. One of the flight directors later admitted he knew Miss Brown was aboard and that it had been planned to have her "bail out" with a parachute as a side stunt.

The center motor of the ship heated up, however, and the ship with its heavy load was forced to land before the stowaway could jump. The balky motor was adjusted yesterday and reports from the flight hangar indicated Angel and his crew will go aloft this afternoon.

More Foreign Actors Arrive

The largest contingent of foreign players, directors and writers, nine in all, ever to arrive at Los Angeles at one time, reached here yesterday. This group swelled the roster of foreigners at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios to more than sixty.

SUSPECTS DECLARED TO ADMIT BEAN THEFT

Confessing, according to deputy sheriffs, that they robbed the warehouse of a milling company at Lompoc last Thursday of six tons of beans valued at more than $700, Blanchard Hayes, 20 years of age, and Francis Smiley, 19, yesterday were given into custody of Santa Barbara officers by the Sheriff's office here. The pair was arrested by Capt. Brooks and Deputy Sheriff Slough of the farm-theft detail at 1143 Mission Road after the officers reported they recovered the beans in a truck.

In his asserted confession, Hayes said he committed the theft to obtain money to enable him to marry a nurse at the General Hospital.

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

FOOD THAT IS FOOD

Experience has shown that no civilized country is able to keep its food wholesome without developing laws controlling the purity of food. The trick of making foods seem better than they are is as old as marketing itself. In Athens and Rome, for example, special investigators were used to watch the selling of wine to prevent wine from being adulterated with coloring and flavoring agents. As early as 1203 a proclamation was issued in England called the "assizy and tumbrel" to compel bakers, butchers and brewers to be honest with the public. This was the first law in England to take note of food adulteration.

The man who stands at the head of the modern movement for pure food is Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, who said, "I have always stood for food that is food." In speaking of the fight for pure foods he stated, "This is a struggle for human rights as much as the Revolutionary or Civil War; a battle for the privilege of going free of robbery and with a guarantee of health."

On the 9th of April, 1883, Dr. Wiley started his work as chief of the Division of Chemistry in the United States Department of Agriculture. He turned his attention at once to the subject of food without adulteration. Although he had no popular following at the time, he believed it of the greatest importance to protect the health of a human being buying food. Dr. Wiley organized a study of food adulteration and aroused public opinion through magazines and newspapers to this grave problem.

Senator Paddock of Nebraska succeeded in getting a bill past the Senate but it was thrown out of the House of Representatives. The interests which were behind the government to keep foods as they were concentrated on preventing the passage of any pure food laws. Some of the Representatives sent to Washington insisted that if the pure foods laws were passed it would mean the downfall of the entire American industry.

At that time foods could be adulterated and their purity lessened by having cheaper substances added and the public had no protection against poisonous substances being used in foods to preserve or color them. A third evil was that brands were not required to state accurately what the food or drug really was, neither was the weight nor quantity required to be given. Many of the food manufacturers who were willing to provide pure food and honest weight were forced to the wall by those dealers who could undersell them by adulterating.

Finally, under the leadership of Dr. Wiley the Federal Foods and Drug Act was signed by the President on the 30th of June, 1906. According to this Food and Drug Act, a food is adulterated when: "First, if any substance has been mixed or packed with it, so as to reduce, or lower, or injuriously affect its quality, or strength; second, if any substance has been substituted wholly or in part for the article; third, if any valuable constituent of the article has been wholly or in part abstracted; fourth, if it be mixed, colored, powdered, coated or strained in a manner whereby damage or inferiority is concealed; fifth, if it contains any added deleterious ingredient which may render it injurious to health . . . when such products are ready for consumption; sixth, if it consists in whole or in part of a filthy, decomposed or putrid animal or vegetable substance, or if it is the product of a diseased animal or one that has died otherwise than by slaughter."

Man Out of Job Ends Own Life

Lack of employment caused W. E. Main, 50 years of age, to end his life yesterday in his home at 142 West Jefferson street by shooting himself with a pistol, according to Police Officer Crum.

Main, Crum said, was a stationary engineer. In several notes to relatives and friends he stated that he had made a fruitless search for work and was too despondent to live longer.

A Bedtime Story

STUMPY SEES A WORLD OF WHITE

There's magic in the falling snow;
It makes a world we do not know.
—Jerry Muskrat.

Stumpy, the three-legged son of Jerry Muskrat, had grown accustomed to the Smiling Pool with a roof on it. You know it was frozen over so it really did have a roof of ice. He liked it. At first he had thought he never would or could like it, but he soon found that it was rather nice after all. To begin with there was no such thing as unpleasant weather. No matter how rough Brother North Wind might howl and bluster over the Green Meadows down there in the Smiling Pool all was peaceful and quiet. No matter how storms might rage above there was no change down there. Yes, it was very nice, Stumpy had to admit it.

He never will forget the first snow he ever saw. It happened that one morning not long after the Smiling Pool was frozen over Stumpy went out as usual for his breakfast. He was sure that he was no earlier than usual, yet when he came out into the Smiling Pool it was still quite dark. There was hardly any light coming down through the roof of ice as was usually the case.

"This is queer," thought Stumpy. "Perhaps it is a cloudy day and jolly, bright, round Mr. Sun has his face hidden. I believe I'll have a look and find out. Not that it makes any particular difference down here; I just want to know."

So Stumpy swam to that place in the Laughing Brook where Jack Frost had not succeeded in freezing it over. Even before he was quite there he knew that Mr. Sun was shining after all. He could see the light coming down through the water. When he reached the open water and put his head out he found that jolly, bright, round Mr. Sun was shining, and shining his brightest. In fact it seemed to Stumpy that never had he seen such brightness. It fairly hurt his eyes. As he slowly, wonderingly turned his head millions of sparkles flashed and glittered and made him blink.

"The roof on the Smiling Pool wasn't a dream but this must be. Yes, sir, this certainly must be a dream." He closed his eyes tight and kept them closed for a minute or two. Then he opened them and as before millions of little sparkles flashed and twinkled. Moreover the whole Great World had changed! You see to Stumpy what he could see from the Smiling Pool and the Laughing Brook made up the whole Great World. And now this was all white. Yes, sir, it was all white.

"It's the roof of our house," he exclaimed

Do you wonder that Stumpy didn't know what to make of it?

He swam to a tussock on which he was accustomed to climb out and sit every day. It was covered with something white. Stumpy hesitated for some time. Finally he put his one front paw out and touched this white substance. It was cold and soft, but it seemed harmless. He ventured to climb out and sit on that tussock. From here he could see farther and better than from the water and again he blinked. Nothing looked familiar. Yesterday when he had sat here the Smiling Pool, covered with ice, had looked almost black. Now it was pure white. Had it not been for the smooth rounded banks he couldn't have told where the Smiling Pool was. Even the Big Rock was white. Over to one side was a smooth white mound. It puzzled him for some time. Then it came to him what it must be.

"It's the roof of our house!" he exclaimed.

"Of course. What else could it be?" said a voice right behind him. He turned quickly to find Jerry Muskrat grinning up at him.

"What is it? What has happened?" demanded Stumpy.

"It is snow; that is all," replied Jerry, climbing out beside Stumpy.

"And what is snow?" asked Stumpy.

"Rain," replied Jerry. "It is rain that Jack Frost has changed to what you see. By the time it reached the ground each little raindrop had been changed to a flake of snow, and Jack Frost did it."

"It seems to me that Jack Frost does a lot of strange and rather wonderful things," said Stumpy thoughtfully.

Your Baby and Mine

by MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

This department offers leaflets on weaning and feeding the child from 6 weeks to 6 years, prenatal care and diet for the nursing mother, constipation, eczema, outfits for the new baby, sleeping, walking, teething, thumb sucking, uncontrollable urine, bed wetting, training in cleanly habits, periods of nursing, cod liver oil, orange juice, hives, worms, vomiting, refractory children, prune juice, lime water, rupture, styes and boils and cradle cap. Before asking a personal question about one of these subjects, it is better to send a self-addressed stamped envelope for the leaflet you need. If your particular problem is not covered in the above list, Mrs. Eldred will be glad to give you a personal reply.

GRANDMOTHER FEELS THAT UNSELFISHNESS SHOULD NOT BE PRAISED

Charming letters often arrive from grandmothers who applaud the stand we take on various subjects, and belie the contention that mere age means the cessation of thinking. Any person is old, irrespective of his age, when he cannot accept new ideas, all of which only means that old ways of thinking are more comfortable, and, therefore, the thinker refuses to bother with anything which upsets his preconceived ideas.

It is refreshing to find a grandmother interested in our department, and there is a chance for a real argument in what she says.

TEACHING RESPECT FOR POSSESSIONS

"Although I am an old woman I am greatly interested in the subject of child training and I have found your articles unusually good," says Mrs. L. R. H. "One of the recent ones I feel like questioning. I want to tell you how I worked with my own children in training for unselfishness.

"I agree with you when you say 'the child takes what he wants when he wants it and without much feeling about it.' The second stage comes from without, either through the hard school of life or through wise training in the home. It is the recognition of the rights of others, the difference between mine and thine. The question is how to go about this training. We all take the first step without much thought. 'Baby's ball.' The second step 'Daddy's pipe.' 'Mother's watch.' Then follows an exchange of objects belonging to baby and the family. If baby must be denied some object, another is substituted.

"Bring him up in an atmosphere of give and take, happiness and courtesy and he will respond quickly. Do not give him fulsome praise for generous gestures as it is apt to lead to self-consciousness, and do not be too severe for occasional lapses. The first stage of fatigue or nervousness may be the cause."

WE DEMAND TOO MUCH OF CHILD

I had to reread my article to discover what you questioned, for I agree so heartily in what you say. In fact our leaflet on "How to Direct the Small Child's Curiosity" makes use of this method to teach the child how to live in the adult's household.

You are right in your contention that unselfishness should not have "fulsome" praise. I am sorry I gave that impression, for a child might easily angle for attention by silly gestures of unselfishness. At the same time both praise and blame, approval and disapproval of his acts are effective weapons in child training. We cannot, dare not discard them.

The real trouble in training for unselfishness is that we demand so much more of the child than we do of ourselves. To ourselves we have a thousand good reasons for denying the child what he asks for and yet, we are determined that any thing he is asked to relinquish he should relinquish unquestioningly. This is a big subject and well-worth thinking over.

Court Sets New Trial Date for M. B. Sheffield

The retrial of Maceo B. Sheffield, Negro, former Los Angeles police officer, once convicted of bribery, but granted a new trial by the Appellate Court, was set for January 7, 1931, by Superior Judge Aggeler yesterday.

Sheffield was convicted of accepting protection money from bootleggers in the Central-avenue district. The higher court, however, held the defendant had not been given a fair trial.

Rehearing Asked in Will Contest

Contestants of the will of Charles Yale, who left an estate of approximately $200,000, bequeathing sums ranging from $100 to $1000 to relatives and the rest to two business associates, yesterday filed a petition for a rehearing of the case with the District Court of Appeal.

The Appellate Court recently upheld the will, finding that Yale was mentally competent when he made it and ordered the lower court to enter a judgment for the will proponents, notwithstanding the verdict of the jury, which decided in favor of the will contestants.

State Wins Plea in Lavine Case

Two weeks' additional time for the preparation and filing of briefs in reply to the opening briefs of Morris Lavine and Leontine Johnson, who were convicted of attempted extortion, were granted the State yesterday by Division Two, District Court of Appeal. The State requested more time because of illness of Dep. Atty.-Gen. Howie and the press of other cases. Lavine and Miss Johnson were asserted to have obtained approximately $75,000 from Charles Crawford, local politician.

"OTHER WOMAN" BLAMED

Money—plenty of it—her husband received, but he spent it on some other woman, complained Mrs. Adelle Clark yesterday when she asked Superior Judge Yankwich for a divorce from William C. Clark, advertising man. The judge granted her a decree.

Chef Wyman's RECIPES

Every Friday at 2 o'clock Mrs. A. L. Wyman will conduct a free class and demonstration of good cookery in the lecture room of the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway.

BANANA PUDDING

Peel four large bananas, remove the strings and rub them through a sieve. Beat to a cream two tablespoonfuls of butter and gradually cream into it four tablespoonfuls of sugar and one teaspoonful of lemon juice and half a teaspoonful of grated lemon rind, beat together one whole egg and one egg yolk and half a cupful of rich milk. Mix into the creamed butter and sugar, then add the banana pulp. Butter a pudding dish and dust it thickly with powdered sugar, pour the mixture in, set in a pan of hot water and poach in a slow oven until firm in the center. Cover with a meringue made with the egg white and brown in a slow oven.

VEAL LOAF

Take one and one-half pounds of lean veal, uncooked, and run it through the fine knife of the meat grinder, adding to it one quarter of a pound of raw ham and a thin slice of fat salt pork. Place the mixture in a bowl, add two well-beaten eggs, one cupful of boiled potatoes that have been put through a ricer, four tablespoonfuls of cream, one teaspoonful of thyme, one teaspoonful of summer savory, one tablespoonful of finely chopped parsley, a seasoning of salt, paprika and a few grains of cayenne pepper. Butter a baking dish, dust it heavily with bread crumbs, cover the top with crumbs and bake in a moderate oven two hours, basting often with one cupful of meat stock or one teaspoonful of meat extract dissolved in one cupful of hot water.

BRUSSELS SPROUTS WITH CHESTNUTS

Four cupfuls of brussels sprouts, one pound of chestnuts, one-third of a cupful of butter. Wash and clean the brussels sprouts, removing the outside leaves, cover them with boiling water and boil until tender. Put the chestnuts in cold water and bring to the boiling point and allow to boil for five minutes, then remove the shells and brown skin. Butter a baking dish, cut the sprouts in half the long way, place them in the baking dish and cover them with a layer of the chestnuts that have been sliced, dot with bits of butter and season with salt and white pepper. Continue this until all have been used, then add just enough boiling water to slightly moisten and bake for thirty minutes in a moderate oven.

Mrs. Wyman does not reply to letters, but requests for recipes are answered in the CHEF WYMAN'S RECIPES published every Friday.—(All rights to reproduce reserved by A. L. Wyman.)

It is There for You

So often when we are visiting we say, "It is a shame to spoil your pretty guest towels; I'll just use this one." Then we take one that belongs to some member of the family when our hostess would greatly prefer that we used the towel provided for us. Usually guest towels are laundered not because they are mussed and soiled, but because they have become so dusty from just hanging.

Sagging Shoulders

The knitted suits and sweaters are very likely to sag at the shoulders and in this way spoil their appearance. A bit of ribbon the length of the shoulder of the person from neck to armhole, attached securely at each end of the sweater, will prevent the shoulders from sagging.

TWO CASES DROPPED BY PROSECUTOR

Former Police Chief of South Gate and Perjury Suspect Get Freedom

Dismissal of two cases for lack of evidence at the request of the District Attorney was granted in Superior Court yesterday.

A grand theft charge against F. C. Bridcott, former police chief of South Gate, was dismissed by Superior Judge Hardy. Bridcott was accused of misappropriating $310 from the South Gate police sick relief fund. It was announced in court that the evidence against Bridcott was insufficient to warrant prosecution.

The other case dismissed was that of Jesus De Leon, who was charged with perjury for testimony given in behalf of Juan Reyna, who was tried for the murder of V. A. Brindley, Los Angeles police officer, and convicted of manslaughter. The case was dismissed by Superior Judge Aggeler.

De Leon was charged with testifying falsely during the trial in an attempt to show that officers beat Reyna severely before he seized Brindley's own revolver and shot him to death.

Something to Stick To

Rubber bands twisted around the ends of the coat hangers will prevent the light chiffon dresses from slipping off so readily.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

And How They Grow

If the rain coat is too large for the child, fasten the belt or heavy tape to the coat and then as the youngster grows the rain coat may be let out accordingly.

Much Reading Gets Dull

All hats should be brushed and after each wearing, particularly if worn out of doors. Nothing looks as untidy as a dusty or soiled headgear, yet how often we see much of it.

Delicate White Shades

White or cream lamp shades will stay presentable many years if each one is cleaned upon discovery. Before using, good cream powdered soapstone, gently with a clean dry cloth, rubbing until the shade is clean.

For the Cheese Dish

A wire trimmer bolted to the wall close to the kitchen sink is a suitable holder for the cheese cleaner. This can, of course, be of absolute necessity, but a good habit of leaving a thing of use wherever it is put down and the proper holder eliminates the question of tidiness.

Boiled Water

If you boil your water for cooking and cooling purposes, pour it from one pitcher to another four or four times before you use it and lose that flat taste.

Chapped Hands

If your hands are very rough and chap easily, rub some cocoa oil into them every night and sleep with an old pair of gloves on them. A week of this and your hands will be soft and white.

For the Amateur Bridge Player

If you are one of those who are afraid you will forget to call for matches for the game of an old or unwanted card in the room by the medicine you dose is administered, look at the clock to the hour and the next dose. Then you can't make a mistake.

Much Brushing Could Be Saved

All hats should be brushed before and after each wearing, and particularly those of velvet. Nothing looks so untidy as a dusty or soiled headgear, yet that we see much of it.

White or cream linen window shades will stay presentable for many years if each spot is removed upon discovery. Nothing is as good as powdered hatshorn, gently with a clean, dry cloth, rubbing until the marks disappear.

For the Cleanser Can

A wire tumbler holder screwed to the wall close to the kitchen sink is a suitable holder for the scouring cleanser. This can, while absolute necessity, has a disconcerting habit of leaving a rim of rust wherever it is put down and the tumbler holder eliminates this unsightliness.

Boiled Water

If you boil your water for drinking and cooking purposes, pour from one pitcher to another four or four times before using, you lose that flat taste.

Chapped Hands

If your hands are very dry, rub and chap easily, try rubbing cold cream into them every night and sleep with an old pair of gloves on them. A week of this and your hands will be soft and smooth.

For the Amateur Nurse

If you are new at nursing and are afraid you will forget the proper time for medicine for the patient, keep an old or unwound watch in the room by the medicine and when a dose is administered move the hands of the clock to the hour for the next dose. Then you cannot make a mistake.

NEW LICENSE PLATES READY

Early Application by Autoists Urged

Virginia Lee One of First on Job

NOW is the time for all good people to come to the aid of the State Division of Motor Vehicles and procure their 1931 automobile licenses, Lon W. Butler, manager of the Los Angeles branch of the State Division of Motor Vehicles, remarked yesterday as he threw open the doors of the branch at 2419 South Grand avenue.

The new license plates, black with orange numerals, may be put on automobiles immediately and must be on by January 15. After that date police are authorized to hold any automobile for checking as to why the new plates have not been obtained. After February 1, the fee for the new plates is increased from $3 to $4.

With a force of 222 clerks on hand, Butler has arranged his organization so as to dispense plates in a minimum of time. The best time to obtain the plates "over the counter" in person at the office is in the afternoon between 2:30 and 4:30 o'clock when business slackens a bit.

The most common mistake applicants make is failing to have their correct address on the white slip in cases where the address has been changed since the slip was issued. Those who have obtained title to their cars since the slip was issued should have the pink slip with them for the transfer, which costs $1 extra.

Applicants may send their applications for new plates, accompanied with the white slip and a money order (no checks,) to the central office at Sacramento (not Los Angeles) and receive plates by mail. One of the first customers for plates yesterday was Virginia Lee of 3516 East Sixty-first Place.

Woman Taken Third Time on Liquor Charge

For the fourth time in less than three weeks, Marjorie Smith, 40 years of age, of 1740 North Las Palmas avenue, yesterday was arrested on a charge involving liquor. She was booked on suspicion of driving while drunk, following her arrest by Motorcycle Officer Sigelkoff. This time she gave the name of Peggy Davis and said she lives at 4004½ Columbia street, but police say fingerprints establish her as Marjorie Smith.

On November 29, last, Miss Smith was booked on liquor possession, for which she is to be tried on the 31st inst. Last Wednesday she was charged with drunk driving at Fourth street and Broadway and is to be tried on that charge tomorrow. Last Saturday she was held on a simple charge of drunkenness and sentenced to $10 fine or three days in jail. She paid the fine.

BREAKFAST CLUB WILL INITIATE SHRINE HEAD

Fred Wadley, Jr., Potentate of Al Malaikah Temple of the Shrine, is to be honored by initiation into the Breakfast Club tomorrow morning. The program will be offered by the Glendale members of the club with Mayor Kimlin, as one of the hosts. The other host will be Col. Harry M. Baine, president of Hollywood Boulevard Association. PRINCE OF WALES

This will be Albert Edward's third broadcast from England this year. He is to be heard in an address before the Incorporated Sales Managers' Association of the United Kingdom in historic Guildhall.

There is, of course, a possibility that atmospheric conditions may prevent successful transmission as was the case last week when John McCormack was to have been heard from London. So if we are disappointed let's not tear the radio apart.

International broadcast must have been anticipated by Mark Twain when he remarked that everyone complains about the weather, but never does anything about it.

Let's twirl the dial anyway—KHJ at 1:40—we may get a royal break.

They tell us that—

KECA, 5 p.m. Skimming from England to South America—a musical fiesta—marimba band—songs of Portugal and Rio de Janeiro—in typical Brazilian tempo—from New York. Berna Prechette and Joseph Hornik's orchestra.

KFWB, 9:30 p.m. Baby Joe Gans and Babe Anderson are going to try to rock each other to sleep—Olympic prize fight.

KHJ at 4 p.m. Once again Frederic William Wile, political observer at Washington, will be heard. His subject is to be "Political Situation in Washington Tonight."

KECA, 6:30 p.m. N.B.C. steals a march on Santa Claus. Title: "A Visit from Santy Claus"—a musical novelty—sung, talked and acted by members of the Baker's Trio.

KHJ, 8 p.m. Want to be transported to the Northland of ages ago? Listen to the musical weavers of the "Tapestries of Life" weave a wealth of melody and song—an hour in the Valhalla—Norse legends—the dreams of men and women of the past—Freya, the Norse goddess of love. You'll like it.

KHJ at 7 p.m. Southern California's Christmas-out-of-doors idea—Joe and Vi. Joe is to rehearse his hardy, perennial one-and-one, only speech. What that has to do with trees, we don't know—but Joe may branch out.

KNX and KHJ. A half-hour with KNX at 9—Lubovisky's Violin Choir—and then KHJ at 9:30—the Don Lee Symphony—there is an excellent hour.

KMTR at 8 p.m. How Chicago gangsters juggle machine guns and toss "pineapples"—a story of how the gangsters never change their spots.

KTM at 9 p.m. Ranch Boys are to be given an entire hour. There'll be a big celebration tonight—almost anything may happen.

Wife Used Car to Pet Others, Salesman Says

His wife used his car to take another man to and from work, complained Chester F. Fairly yesterday when Superior Judge Burnell granted him a divorce from Anna R. Fairly. The husband, a traveling salesman, also asserted that his wife petted in the parked car on lonely roads and that she used money he gave her to buy a ring for the other man, named as William Radonits.

"Mrs. Fairly apparently has treated Mr. Fairly unfairly," punned Judge Burnell, as he granted the husband a decree.

STARS WILL BE GUESTS

The American Projection Society, California Chapter No. 7, comprising operators of motion-picture machines will give its annual dinner-dance this evening at the Elks' Temple. With Gene Morgan as master of ceremonies, the program will include vaudeville acts, appearances of screen stars and the filming of the affair by cameramen from Fox and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios. Larger Grand Stand at Fair Urged on Board Action was taken yesterday by the county Supervisors looking toward a new grand stand at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds at Pomona which ultimately is to have a seating capacity of 15,000 persons.

A communication from C. B. Afferbaugh, secretary-manager of the fair, declared thousands of persons were turned away last fall because the old wooden grand stand holds only 6500. Supervisor Thatcher moved that the matter be referred to Supervisor Mahaffey, chairman of the building committee, for investigation. The fair manager said that the ninth annual fair had an attendance of 285,000 people.

The plan is to build a steel and concrete amphitheater that will seat 15,000 people.

On the eve of the last day of classes at the University of Southern California, students, alumni and faculty will herald the Christmas holidays with a presentation of Handel's oratorio, "The Messiah." It will be sung by the Semicentennial Chorus of 250 voices under the direction of Alexander Stewart of the college of music, in Bovard Auditorium, at 8:30 p.m. tonight.

ALEXANDER STEWART

Local musicians who will sing the solo parts are Lisa Roma, soprano; Mrs. Elizabeth Monser Biehl, contralto; Fred Scott, tenor, and Clifford Lott, baritone.

ALUMNI TO VISIT SCHOOL

Hundreds of former Hollywood High School students will gather on the campus January 2. According to Dr. F. E. Hogeboom, president of the alumni body, the day will start with an early morning assembly featuring the appearance of Dr. William H. Snyder, former principal and now director of Los Angeles Junior College. Lunch will be served at noon and class reunions will be held preceding a vaudeville show featuring students who have become famous.

JOHNSON RECEIVES SENTENCE

Oil Promoter Ordered to Serve Next Four Years in McNeil Island Prison

After conviction in United States District Judge Cosgrave's court on one count of using the mails to defraud, Gilbert S. Johnson, wealthy California and Texas oil promoter, was sentenced yesterday to serve four years at McNeil Island Federal prison. The court did not impose a fine.

After argument by David H. Cannon and H. L. Arterbery, defense counsel, and Asst. U. S. Attys. Redwyn and Davis, the court denied a motion in arrest of judgment. Defense attorneys immediately filed a notice of appeal based upon asserted errors.

Offices were conducted by Johnson at Fort Worth, San Francisco and Los Angeles. His business is said to have brought in about $100,000 a month. It was charged that Johnson misrepresented the values of various companies he controlled, and thus induced investors to buy stocks.

SLAYER OF WIFE DIES IN HOSPITAL

James Swift Succumbs to Suicidal Wound Following Murder of His Mate

Succumbing to a bullet wound in the head, self-inflicted after he is asserted to have fatally shot his wife in a fit of anger Sunday night, James Swift, 39 years of age, died yesterday morning at the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital.

The facts plainly indicating murder and suicide, no inquest into either Swift's death or that of his wife, Mrs. Lorena Walker Swift, 35, whom Swift shot and instantly killed at her home, 2427 East Fifty-third street, will be conducted, Chief Deputy Coroner Macdonald said.

Swift, a truck driver, recently estranged from his wife, entered the house and began shooting without warning, according to a report of Deputy Sheriff Hutchison. Mrs. Nora Walker, mother of Mrs. Swift, and Mrs. Cora Chadwick, a neighbor, were in the house at the time.

SPEECH TUTORS ASKED TO LUNCH

Eighth Oratorical Contest Campaign Under Way

Attendance Counts as Session of Teachers' Institute

Fete Tribute to Efforts of Competition Coaches

BY CHARLES S. SPRAGUE

Signalizing the inauguration of the eighth year of the National Oratorical Contest on the Constitution of the United States, generally referred to as The Times Contest because of its sponsorship in this section of the country, the teachers of speech in the high schools of Southern California have been invited to attend a luncheon at the Biltmore Thursday, the director of the contest, Prof. G. P. Tanquary, acting as host for The Times management.

Last year some seventy-five teachers of speech, representing as many schools, attended a similar luncheon, the first of the kind given in connection with the contest, and the acceptances already received indicate a still larger attendance this year.

DOUBLE PURPOSE

The purpose of the luncheon is to give the contest management an opportunity to express its appreciation of the support given the contest by the teachers supervising speech activities in the high schools and also to elicit suggestions and advice at a round-table conference following the luncheon.

The meeting and luncheon held last year proved to be most beneficial in the development of the contest, according to the contest management, and Director Tanquary states that in order to plan more effectively for the contest next year he hopes there will be a large attendance of teachers at the luncheon Thursday, so that the management may benefit from their collective and individual experience and advice.

TEACHERS ORGANIZED

Teachers of speech in the high schools of Southern California for the most part are organized as the Speech-Arts Association, formerly the Oral Arts Association, which last year attended the contest luncheon in a body. This association has always actively co-operated with the management of The Times Oratorical Contest on the Constitution as the outstanding activity of its kind in the schools, and the helpful suggestions have been greatly appreciated.

Last year the association, on the invitation of the contest management, formulated uniform methods of judging contests which proved extremely helpful to judges in their exacting and often perplexing duties of evaluating the efforts of contestants. These criteria have been adopted for all contests.

TO MEET PRESIDENT

The president of the Speech-Arts Association for this year is Mrs. Annice Campbell Moore. At Thursday's luncheon, Director Tanquary will welcome the guests on behalf of

SPEECH-ARTS HEAD TO GUIDE MEETING

Mrs. Annice Campbell Moore

The Times and will introduce Mrs. Moore, who will preside over conference following the luncheon.

The meeting Thursday will come in the midst of Teachers' Institute week. Robert H. Lane, assistant superintendent of schools, as an indorsement of the National Oratorical Contest on the Constitution, has ordered that the luncheon be counted officially as a session of the Teachers' Institute.

Pictures Will Supplant Drama at Vine-street

The Vine Street Theater in Hollywood, home of the spoken drama for several years, is to be devoted in the future to the screening of talking pictures. A Hollywood syndicate has taken over the institution and it is being wired with modern equipment, as well as being remodeled and redecorated. Contracts have been made with R.-K.-O., United Artists and Columbia Productions, whereby the theater will offer their pictures.

Under the new policy, "Half Shot at Sunrise," Radio Pictures' wartime comedy with music, will be the first feature. Starring Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, the production has in the leading feminine roles Dorothy Lee and Roberta Robinson.

Installation of the new equipment begins immediately and an opening around the holidays is planned.

MUNSON TO MAKE TALLY OF JOBLESS

Official of 1930 Census Accepts Proffer to Take Unemployment Count

A Federal census of the unemployed in Los Angeles will be taken between January 15 and February 1, 1931, and A. C. Munson will conduct it for the United States Census Bureau.

Munson yesterday telegraphed Director Steuart of the Washington bureau that he would accept the appointment as supervisor of the count here. A proffer of the appointment was received by Munson some days ago. With his decision to accept the position, Munson at once began outlining plans for the work.

A. C. MUNSON

"It will be a big two weeks' job," Munson said, "and the staff will probably be bigger than the one that conducted the regular decennial census taken last spring. There naturally will not be as many questions asked because this is to be only a census of unemployed for an obvious purpose and also to compare January conditions with those existing at the time of the 1930 census in April. We hope to make a fast, thorough job of it."

Munson was supervisor of the central district of Los Angeles during the census last spring and as such was one of five having the county to cover. His work was outstanding among those of the country and drew commendation from time to time from national headquarters.

The new unemployment census, it was stated in a recent announcement by the Washington bureau, will cover only principal cities of the country. Unemployment census has to do with persons out of a job who are able to work and would do so if they could get a job.

Woman Named Aide to M'Nabb by Government

Confirmation of the appointment of Mrs. Dorothy Lenroot Bromberg, daughter of former Senator Lenroot of Wisconsin, as assistant United States District Attorney, was received yesterday by U. S. Dist.-Atty. McNabb. The appointee is to report today for duty in the civil department.

Mrs. Bromberg, who is a University of Southern California law graduate, is the first woman to hold such a post locally. Those who recommended her include Chester Rowell, Mark Requa and Louis W. Meyers.

Mrs. Bromberg is the wife of Robert Bromberg and resides at 3859 Cimarron street. She is prominently known in political circles at San Francisco, where she lived for twelve years, and in Washington, where she assisted her father.

Clara Bow Has Jaw Operation

Clara Bow, film star, yesterday underwent a minor operation at her home for the removal of a small piece of cartilage from her jaw. The operation was performed by Dr. Wesley J. Hommell, who said the actress will be confined to her home for a few days but that postponement of her next production will not be necessary.

Miss Bow is scheduled to begin work in a new picture shortly at Paramount studio.

MARKERS TO BE PLACED

The City Council yesterday granted permission to the Santa Monica-Ocean Park Chamber of Commerce to place markers indicating National Highway No. 66 along the route of the artery in Los Angeles.

MRS. GEORGE ARLISS WINS LEAD

Marion Marsh Gets Ingenue Role With Miss Lightner; Two Cinderellas Assigned to "Private Secretary;" Bakewell Plays Juvenile in "Daybreak"

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

It was settled yesterday who will play opposite George Arliss in his next Warner picture. No less seasoned and accomplished an actress than Mrs. Arliss will enact the role of his wife in "The Ruling Passion," which title, by the way, will probably be changed. Mrs. Arliss works under the name of Florence Arliss. She has appeared in a number of the star's pictures.

GEORGE ARLISS

Booth Tarkington did his very first story and dialogue work for the talking pictures when he penned "The Ruling Passion."

Alfred Green will direct and the remainder of the cast will be chosen within a week or two.

Mr. and Mrs. Arliss returned to Hollywood yesterday after a long vacation in England.

Almost the entire period of Arliss' vacation was spent at the family country home in Kent. While there he received several honors, including the gold medal awarded for fiction, bestowed by the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, and the award for the finest performance of the year by a screen actor, given by the Motion Picture Academy of Arts and Sciences.

MARIAN MARSH IS COMING TO FORE

Hardly ever has a 17-year-old actress reached the heights, even in these Cinderella days of motion pictures, that Marian Marsh has attained.

MARIAN MARSH

Making a hit in a vivid bit in "Whoopee," an enterprising manager got hold of her and signed her with Warner Brothers. She appeared in a picture for that organization, and Elmer Harris saw her, and at once decided she was just the girl to play the lead in his latest success, "Young Sinners," which enjoyed a run a short time ago at the Belasco.

Now Miss Marsh has been assigned by Warners to the ingenue lead in Winnie Lightner's next starring vehicle, "Bad Women."

And we do hear a report from an excellent source that it is likely that the young actress will win the ingenue lead in George Arliss's "The Ruling Passion."

RADIO ASSIGNS TWO YOUNG CINDERELLAS

Two young Cinderellas have just been assigned their first jobs in Radio Pictures. They are Velma Valentine and Roberta Gale, who will appear in ingenue roles in "Private Secretary."

ROBERTA GALE

These young actresses are all that are left in pictures of Pearl Eaton's former famous beauty chorus, which appeared in Radio musicals. The chorus was disbanded when musicals went out of favor, but these two young dancers showed so much promise of possessing histrionic powers that they were signed to contracts. Their current roles are their first real opportunity to show what they can do.

Geneva Mitchell Signed

Charming Geneva Mitchell has just been signed by Tiffany to play the leading ingenue role with Bert Lytell in "The Single Sin," we learned yesterday.

Kay Johnson has the leading romantic feminine role, she having been borrowed from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for the purpose.

John Boles to New York

John Boles is to have a real vacation after the holidays. He will take a trip to New York, accompanied by his wife, leaving the first of the new year.

Under contract to Universal, Boles's next starring vehicle has not yet been selected.

Two Boys With Novarro

Carroll Nye likewise has a featured juvenile part. No leading woman has yet been assigned.

Jacques Feyder will direct the picture in the English version, but it is likely that Novarro will once more assume the directorial reins on the Spanish version.

Emily Fitzroy Cast

Emily Fitzroy's busy days continue. Now Miss Fitzroy, veteran of stage and screen, has been cast in a featured character role in Ruth Chatterton's next Paramount picture "New Morals," we learned yesterday.

EMILY FITZROY

Graduating from the stage after twenty years spent in England and America, Miss Fitzroy's first experience in pictures was with William Farnum in "The Lighting Conductor." Since that time she has distinguished herself in numberless screen roles, including several of D. W. Griffith's most noted productions.

Penalty Imposed for Not Heeding New Labor Law

It is a misdemeanor to disobey a subpoena issued by the State Labor Commission, B. B. Hill discovered yesterday in Municipal Judge Curtis's court. The case was the first filed under a law to that effect passed by the last Legislature.

Hill, whose offices are at 312 Spreckels Building, pleaded guilty to the charge. He was accused of failing to attend a Labor Commission hearing regarding employment agency fees on November 21, last. Judge Curtis imposed a $25 fine or five days in jail, but allowed Hill until tomorrow to pay it.

Mrs. King Rites to Be Tomorrow

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary E. King of 647 Gladys avenue, who died yesterday, will be conducted from the parlors of the Flower mortuary, 1717 South Flower street, tomorrow at 2:30 p.m. Interment will follow in Inglewood Park Cemetery.

Mrs. King was the wife of Samuel A. King, and the mother of Samuel King of Pasadena, and Robert E. King. Robert has thousands of personal friends and for over twenty years has sold The Times at his stand at Second and Spring streets.

AIR PILOTS TO CARRY GIRL'S BODY TO GRAVE

Six Culver City airport pilots will be pallbearers at the funeral at 1 p.m. tomorrow of Jessie Ligert Wood, 27-year-old secretary to Frances Marion, scenarist, at Hollywood Cemetery chapel. The young woman suffered fatal injuries last Saturday when the plane in which she was a passenger and of which Frank Bush was pilot struck power wires when landing at the airport. The pilots who will carry the coffin, according Miss Wood the honors of the air, are Douglas Schearer, Merrill Pye, Arnold Gillespie, Horace Ashe, Eugene Scrogie and William Daniels. Miss Wood lived at 955 North Genesee street.

DRILLING PERMITS GIVEN

Ordinances permitting the drilling for oil in the Venice district were adopted yesterday by the City Council in favor of Albert George Ralphs, Lucy M. Clark and John O. Awenius.

MAMMOTH INDUSTRIAL AREA VISIONED FOR CITY

It will require 35,300 acres or approximately fifty-five square miles to provide space for the industries that Los Angeles county in all probability will have when this metropolitan area attains its maximum population density of 15,000,000. This conclusion was expressed yesterday by William J. Fox, chief engineer of the Los Angeles County Regional Planning Commission, to a joint meeting of various Chamber of Commerce committees and representatives of the Los Angeles Realty Board. Robert Linton of the Manufacturing and Industries Committee was general chairman.

It is the result of study made under the auspices of the Regional Planning Commission as a guide in future zoning pertaining to industry here and to disclose the importance of providing adequate industrial space with respect to transportation facilities.

Based on the 1930 population of the county, the 2150 industries in operation here give a ratio for the entire area of 1065 persons per industry, Mr. Fox pointed out. He detailed such findings with reference to fourteen industrial cities in the county as substantiating the conclusions reached.

The survey, he stated, reveals that 2.35 acres constitute the average amount of land occupied by each industry.

"Projecting the relationship of 1000 persons per industry into the future," said the engineer, "and by simple arithmetic relating it to the ultimate population of 15,000,000 anticipated for this metropolitan area, will show that at that time there will be needed 15,000 industries to support such a population."

The significance of zoning, business and residential construction and other factors bearing on public welfare as industrial areas are developed were stressed by the speaker.

He discussed the highway system designed to serve the harbor district, to which he attributed special importance for basic industrial development. "It has been carefully thought out," he stated, "having in mind the topography of the area, the use to which the property finally is to be put, and the demand for highway access, as reflected by such use, the facilitating of communication between the harbor district and the central area of Los Angeles, between the recreation area at the beaches and the residential population between the commercial centers and their corresponding purchasing power. Particular attention has been directed to the relative use of rail lines vs. highways for the movement of freight in the harbor district."

TRAFFIC CLAIMS TWO MORE

Youth Avoiding Crash and Bicycle Victim Dead; Three Men Believed Mortally Hurt

Traffic accidents claimed two more lives here yesterday. Three other injured are not expected to survive.

Leroy Gibson, 22 years of age, employee of the Southern California Gas Company and son of L. R. Gibson of 842 East Seventy-eighth street, died soon after his car overturned last night at Forty-first and Figueroa streets. The victim's father explained later his son was driving and sought to avoid a collision with another car. Gibson died after being taken to Georgia-street Receiving Hospital. Police could find no witness who saw the other car, which must have driven off, the elder Gibson said.

Louis Realngnum, 70, of 630 South Kenmore avenue, died in Cedars of Lebanon Hospital of injuries received on the 1st inst., when at Eighth and Santee streets he was struck by a bicycle ridden by Pete Approa of 336 Granada street.

Walter Young, 24, of 4416 La Crescenta avenue, was taken to Physicians' and Surgeons' Hospital at Glendale last night with a fractured skull and a punctured lung suffered while driving home. On the outskirts of Glendale his car struck a depression in the road and turned over. He is married and is the father of a 4-day baby. He is not expected to recover.

Fred George Lanctot, 28, of 3313 Live Oak street, Huntington Park, was probably fatally injured yesterday when the automobile in which he was driving alone, collided with another car at Wilshire Boulevard and Mariposa avenue.

The other car was driven by Estin Gillot of 11482 Sunshine Terrace, according to police. He was painfully but not seriously hurt, investigating officers reported.

Probable fatal injuries were suffered yesterday morning by James Madison Andrews, 59, 710 South Kern avenue, Belvedere Gardens, when the car he was driving was struck broadside by a Pacific Electric train at Telegraph Road and the Rio Hondo.

FANTASY RARE SEASONAL GIFT

"Peter Pan" Assures Joy for Youngster Audience

Barrie's Imaginative Charm Intrigues at Opening

Marion Clayton Applauded for Portrayal

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

Christmas arrived ahead of time last night at the Hollywood Music Box Theater. At least, a play that should shine forth as a real Santa Claus gift to the children fluttered into being there out of the dream world of Never-Never Land. Sir James Mathew Barrie created it years ago, and it was once immortalized on the American stage by one of the public's greatest idols. Sufficient it is to mention the name of "Peter Pan" to conjure visions of a faery realm.

This new "Peter Pan" goes back to the English original. It is a fantasy told in four acts and eight scenes. It brings Marion Clayton as the interpreter of the role, and a throng of gay and happy children. It has its pirates, and its Indians, and the nurse dog Nana, the crocodile who swallowed the ticking clock, the wolves and the ostrich, not to speak of glimmering, chiming Tinker Bell, the elfin spirit, who is almost tragically killed by poison.

You can go to this play for laughter as well as romance. You can go to it in order to applaud at the sight of children flying about their nursery room, and eventually taking wing through the open window. You can go, too, in order to applaud at the famous climaxing scene where Peter Pan appeals to the audience to save the life of Tinker Bell by clapping their hands, and declaring their belief in the existence of such a place as Never-Never Land.

The first audience responded to the plaint with enthusiasm. Actually they saved the little elfin creature. And other audiences will doubtless do the same because the spell that Barrie casts over the imagination in this episode retains its strange and haunting actuality. The moment is still magical—though I believe that when Maude Adams sponsored the magicianship she secured a hushed affirmative whisper.

"Peter Pan," as a production, may lag a little in the action and prologue as yet, but its elusive enchantment is still remarkable. The ideas expressed in the play are enriching. The whimsy—always the mark of the Barrie play—is at times bewitching.

It is unquestioned that the present performance is very authentic. The direction by Donald Stuart, it would seem, assures that, and the mechanical devices which are really very important to the play, are skillfully managed.

There is, of course, no denying that the performance needs smoothing, and occasionally a better tempo. The lateness of the hour at which it ended would also appear to imply that some pruning of scenes would not be harmful. The Adams version was shorter, though, I believe, it also had the defect that it was fashioned for the star.

As a Civic Repertory Theater emprise for this season of the year, "Peter Pan" is really inspirational, and there is no end of enjoyment assured, especially for those who have children and take them to the play. I would recommend it most heartily in that particular relation. Grown-ups, too, will find a radiant fascination in many of the stage happenings, because this play singularly revives the make-believe spirit in an age so radically dedicated to realism.

The numerous outbursts of applause for Miss Clayton must have been a satisfying award for her undertaking of one of the most difficult roles to invest with a corporeal actuality. She played it gayly and whimsically, as it should be played for the most part, only failing perhaps to sound the deeper, more penetrating note of sadness. Still her plea for Tinker Bell was a rare and effective moment. I personally would like more simplicity, fewer mannerisms in the interpretation, but it possesses a delicacy and airiness which are delightful.

The cast is an enormous one, considering the pirates, Indians and all, who each and every one has to do a few steps of dancing, if naught else. The Wendy of Mary Jane Higby has charm and some of the sweetness associated with the little girl who fell in love with the King of Never-Never Land. Miss Higby's work is promising, lacking as yet in evenness, though capable in the more dramatic moments.

The blustering Capt. Hook is bombastically portrayed by Boyd Irwin. I believe he should be bombastic, according to tradition, but then tempering would not harm the role for the present-day audience. A definite hit was won by Nestor Aber as Tootles, the "head man" of Peter Pan's companions. Mickey McBan and Billy Seay, as Wendy's brothers, Doris Whitney as Mrs. Darling, Taylor Graves as Nana, and Forrester Harvey deserve more than a passing word of approval for their efforts, as do various of the others. Staging is a revelation, particularly in the scene that shows the home under the ground, where Peter Pan, Wendy and the children set up housekeeping.

Varconi has the name role; Miss Wray is seen as Ynes and Miss Moorhead has the chief feminine supporting part. Others in the cast are Charles Judels, Robert Emmett Keane, Bert Roach, Don Alvarado and John Sainpolis.

"Capt. Thunder" is an original story by Hal Davitt and Pierre Couderc. It was produced by Warner Brothers under the direction of Alan Crosland.

Child Prodigy, Charlotte Bremmer, Displays Talent in Concert

The Ephebian Society of the public-school teachers entertained a large audience at the Hollywood High School last night with a program of music and dancing which ranged from the songs of an 11-year-old prodigy to a professional Russian chorus. The child soprano, Charlotte Bremmer, attracted unusual attention because of her age and ability, and other soloists who were enthusiastically applauded were Alexander Borissoff, violoncellist, and Tamara Shavrona from the Russian Grand Opera Company.

A women's chorus from the Russian-American Club sang characteristic folksongs in beautiful costumes embroidered with brilliants and the entire entertainment was colorful and picturesque.

The diminutive Miss Bremmer, as the entrepreneur informed the audience, was ill, but insisted bravely upon going on with her scheduled performance. She sang Carrie Jacobs-Bond's "I Love You Truly" and the difficult Tschaikowsky "Lullaby." Her voice is appealing and was remarkably clear, although she was obviously suffering from a cold. Like a real trouper, this gifted child acted as well as sang, using effective facial expression and displaying mobile, expressive hands in telling the story of her songs.

Massive chrysanthemums and bouquets of roses were showered on the pretty blond child at the conclusion of her numbers. Sergei Rodinoff contributed to the success of her performance with his excellent piano accompaniments.

Mr. Borissoff played his own Hungarian Rhapsody and Kreisler's Viennese Melody as an encore. He is an assured artist and his composition was characteristic of the Hungarian gypsy-like music. He was roundly applauded.

Mme. Shavrova displayed a voice of exceptional beauty in Russian numbers with cello obbligatos. She has marked dramatic ability and is charming to look at.

NEW SCREEN STAR WILL MAKE DEBUT

Evelyn Laye Enacts Chief Role in Goldwyn Picture Opening Christmas

Evelyn Laye, Samuel Goldwyn's newest screen protegee, will be seen and heard for the first time on the United Artists' Theater screen when "One Heavenly Night" starts a run on Christmas Day. This picture follows the current attraction, David W. Griffith's "Lincoln."

"One Heavenly Night" reveals the noted stage star in a finely drawn romance. Playing opposite Miss Laye is John Boles. Also featured in the cast are Lilyan Tashman and Leon Errol, comedian.

"Lincoln," which is now playing at the United Artists, has received unanimous approval from critics and patrons alike as being one of the finest talking pictures yet produced.

It is owing to the fact that the theater management is desirous of offering "One Heavenly Night" as a Christmas gift to theatergoers that the run of "Lincoln" is to be curtailed, according to an announcement.

"EX-FLAME" BOOKED AT ORPHEUM

Halperin Production to Follow 'Boudoir Diplomat' in Near Future

Based on the conflict between a man, a divorcee, and his wife and child, "Ex-flame," a Halperin brothers' production, has been named as the next attraction for the Orpheum Theater. It will follow "The Boudoir Diplomat."

Marion Nixon, currently seen in a directly contrasting type of characterization in "College Lovers;" Neil Hamilton, featured in "The Dawn Patrol," and Judith Barrie, former model for James Montgomery Flagg, have the stellar roles in "Ex-Flame."

Dancer Reveals Technique and Grace in Debut

An event of interest in dance circles, and one that marked the debut of another promising Los Angeles dancer, was held last night at the Theater Mart, where Miss Harriet E. Huntington presented an interesting program of dances.

Although visibly nervous in her first group, Miss Huntington gradually became accustomed to her audience. As time progressed she swung into her numbers with a technique that bespoke hours of practice and endeavor. Each of her movements, pictorially speaking, reached close within the goal of perfection. She uses her body with a rare grace, weaving rhythmical stories with the co-ordination of hands, feet and torso. Each pose might well have been lifted from the stage and framed as a picture.

Whether it was due to nervousness, or whether to concentration upon the perfection of technique, Miss Huntington failed to mirror in her face the thoughts expressed in the movements of her body. It was as though some ethereal creature, reveling in the delights of dancing, had donned a mask to hide, from those watching, her own enjoyment. Her expression never changed whether the mood was gay or idyllic.

This strange combination, in spite of the perfection of the dancer's technique, emphasized a lack of animation in a program which fairly abounded with opportunities, such as Michio Ito's famous "Tango," "Habanera" and "Spanish Fan Dance." Other numbers, also of Ito's composition, included the "Four Dance Preludes" to the music of Scriabine; "Ouled Nail;" "Javanese Dance," and a series of "Dance Poems" to the melodies of Yamada. Brilliantly picturesque costumes added a dash of color against the simple and effective black velvet drop surrounding the stage.

"STEPPIN' OUT" AMUSES

"Steppin' Out," a representative burlesque show, is the current attraction at the Follies Theater this week. Verne, billed as the "Parisian Doll," contributes several novelty numbers on the runway. Mary Sunde and Leona White offer a cycle of songs and dances, and Eddie Collins and George Clark are the featured comedians. The straight and juvenile parts are ably taken by Bob Stanley and Charles Breedlove. Valda Parsons presents a pleasing solo. There are forty girls in the chorus.

TITLE SELECTED

Miljan Plays Detective in M.-G.-M. Film

Heretofore Miljan has played parts ranging from menacing kidnaper to suave gangland cheiftain. In "Paid" he portrays the chief of detectives who is kept helpless against the confederates of the wily Mary Turner until they disobey her.

In his new role Miljan is said to be just as menacing as ever, however, as he attempts to ensnare the clever quartet. Other featured players supporting Miss Crawford are Robert Armstrong, Marie Prevost, George Cooper, Kent Douglass and Purnell Pratt.

ARTISTS PLAY ON OLD INSTRUMENTS

Spinet, Quinton and Viola da Gamba Used by Trio in Concert

BY ISABEL MORSE JONES

Anton Rovinsky, spinetist, Gilbert Ross, quintonist, and David Freed, viola da gamba player, give a concert of rare and precious music under the auspices of the Los Angeles chapter of Pro-Musica at the Council House Saturday evening. These ancient instruments which the young artists have chosen for a series of trio concerts, have made musical history and centuries ago they inspired Valentini, Rameau Couperin, Purcell, Lotti, Boyce and others to write music of exquisite charm.

The spinet, a graceful forerunner of the piano, gave out a small tone not unlike the mandolin-zither. Mr. Rovinsky, being an exceptional pianist, made a perfect accompanying instrument of it. The spinet blends well with strings. The quinton, which is like the viola d'amore, only smaller and having a strong French influence, was played by Mr. Ross with marked sympathy. He displayed gifts of leadership without detracting from the ensemble and produced a quaint and penetrating tone. The viola da gamba, a delicate violoncello type of instrument with seven closely set strings, was played skillfully by Mr. Freed with a light, tightly strung bow and was most natural to our modern ears. Mr. Freed has the gift of fine nuance and the soul of an artist.

Harking back to the refinements of a forgotten age, the musicians played five short sonatas for trio and for encores, "Nina," by Pergolesi, and the Bocherini Minuet. It was all too short a program even with the group of small numbers designed to show the individuality of the three instruments. It was a privilege not soon to be forgotten to have heard this trio of Old World ancient instrumentalists.

QUARTET GIVES VARIED PROGRAM

BY I. M. J.

The Classique String and Woodwind Quartet with Helen Ledger, soprano, as soloist, gave an enjoyable program at the Hollywood Knickerbocker Sunday evening. The program was varied in content and unusual in the instruments employed. The ensemble consisted of Helen Mead Little, well-known flutist; Ethel Averill, whose oboe playing has brought her to the attention of many Los Angeles music lovers; Eugenie Egloff, a violoncellist, with an excellent technic and good tone, and Elisabeth Drake Proehl, pianist and skillful arranger of numbers for the ensemble.

The combination of oboe and flute in duett was particularly well blended. Both Mrs. Little and Miss Averill are schooled musicians with a fine sense of nuance and tone.

Miss Ledger's voice has a warm, sympathetic quality and her phrasing bespeaks musical culture. She has taste, poise and a clear well-placed voice which carries and which she does not attempt to force. In her songs last night certain difficulties arose which were out of her control and prevented her from losing herself completely in the musical stories but her work is more than promising, and it is to be hoped that she will be heard frequently.

This ensemble is interesting and novel, and its concerts deserve large audiences.

First Western Showing of New Play to Be Here

While "Up Pops the Devil" continues to run successfully in New York, the production of the play which Messrs. Belasco and Curran will offer at the Belasco Theater beginning Christmas night, will mark the first metropolitan presentation of the Hackett-Goodrich comedy west of the eastern metropolis.

The producers are said to be making every effort to offer a production which will excel the original. In fact, Stage Director A. Leslie Pearce has the advantage of having seen the Broadway presentation of "Up Pops the Devil."

The story, revolving about a young couple of Greenwich Village, furnishes a comedy of situations with much humor depending on the various characters, it is reported. The collection includes a young man who gives up his regular job to write a "best seller," and while he wears the apron at home his wife dances at Roxy's Theater. Then there are Biney, a press agent, and Polly, a newspaper woman. Another free spirit is George, who suffers under the domination of a wealthy dowager to whom he is married. A flirtatious and designing southern girl, an author's agent, a colored laundryman, a subscription boy, these are a few of the other characters.

FIVE UNITS BUSY

Five companies are busy at Radio Pictures Studio. They are "Assorted Nuts," with Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey; "Private Secretary," with Mary Astor; "Ladies for Hire," with Betty Compson; "Kept Husbands," with Dorothy Mackaill, and a comedy with Hugh Herbert and Rosco Ates.

COMEDY PLAYERS SELECTED

The complete cast to appear with May Boley in "Stepping Sisters," the stage comedy which opens Christmas Day matinee at the Hollywood Playhouse as Henry Duffy's Christmas offering to local theatergoers, has been announced.

May Boley heads the trio of "Stepping Sisters" as the most vivacious of the burlesque queens. Kathryn Givney is the former Shakespearean actress, and Frances Woodbury plays the role of the girl who has married money.

Barbara Luddy enacts the romantic ingenue role of the daughter who is ignorant of her mother's former means of livelihood, while Irving Fisher, who appeared for several seasons with Marilyn Miller in "Sunny," plays the romantic lead.

Rounding out the cast of principals, now in rehearsal under the direction of Edwin H. Curtis, are Robert Adams, William Macauley, William Lloyd, Myra Marsh, Muriel Rothermel and Frank Perry.

In addition to the Christmas and New Year's Day matinees, Henry Duffy announces that there will be two midnight shows on New Year's Eve.

CHURCH-SCHOOL SUPPORT URGED

Federation Official Voices Plea to Clergymen

Week-Day Instruction Plan Held Crime Antidote

Showing Made at Beach City Cited by Speaker

Stronger support by the churches of week-day religious schools was urged Dr. F. M. Larkin, secretary of the State Church Federation, in an address to ministers at the First Methodist Church yesterday. He said that such schools, now being operated in more than 2000 centers in America are proving an antidote for crime.

Mentioning especially the week-day School of Religious Education at Long Beach, Dr. Larkin said that more than 80 per cent of the school children, representing fifteen denominations, attended the school during the first three months.

"This remarkable institution, conducted at Long Beach Immanuel Baptist Church, interferes in no way with the public schools, yet it increases the morals and efficiency of the pupils," said Dr. Larkin. "The California State Church Federation is especially interested in week-day religious education and is prepared to furnish instructors, with no tax on either the public schools or the churches."

The ministers adopted a resolution indorsing the World Friendship Oratorical Contest being conducted in Los Angeles high schools and requesting the Board of Education to give more publicity to the contest, which will come to a close at Polytechnic High School at 2 p.m. next Wednesday, when six pupils are to compete in the finals.

Court Decides Wrong Brother Arrested Here

Harry Goldberg has two brothers and he assured Department of Justice agents that he is not responsible for what they do. Goldberg was arrested by police, who were assured by government agents that he is Max Goldberg, indicted by a Federal grand jury at Seattle for violation at Everett, Wash., of the Bankruptcy Act, by concealing assets in a bankruptcy matter.

"My name is Harry. Max is my brother," said Harry Goldberg.

Federal agents doubted and yesterday a Department of Justice agent and a witness arrived by airplane from Seattle, but they stated that Harry is not Max. An attorney for Harry stated there are three brothers, who look much alike.

United States Commissioner Head, after the testimony, dismissed the removal hearing and released Harry Goldberg.

Once tried for the murder, April 8, 1927, of Melvin Hatch, Percy Eberly must submit to a retrial February 10, 1931, Superior Judge Wood ruled yesterday because the jury which heard the first trial failed to agree and was discharged Saturday.

Virtually the entire State's case against Eberly hinges on a fingerprint found in the Hatch home at 2149 Echo Park avenue, which officers assert was left by Eberly and was identified by experts as his.

Eberly already has been tried and convicted of four counts of robbery.

CIGAR LOVE BALKS DOOM FROM SKIES

Film Man Leaves Bench to Smoke Just When Plane Part Rips Through Roof

Don't ever try to suggest to E. E. Russell, head of the camera department at the Pathe studios, that he should quit smoking. For it was the desire for a good smoke that probably saved his life Sunday afternoon while he was at work.

Stepping away from his bench for a moment to light his cigar he heard a splintering crash and there, where he had been bending over his work a few seconds before, lay a red-hot airplane cylinder. A jagged hole in the roof revealed only too plainly from whence the heavy object had come.

The mystery was cleared up yesterday by Lieut. Eddie Coppo of the Culver City Police Department when he located the plane from which the cylinder was missing in a bean field at the base of the Baldwin Hills back of Culver City.

Further investigation revealed the fact that it was piloted at the time of the accident by L. W. Crutcher, a salesman for the Winfield Carburetor Company who made a forced, though successful landing.

JUDGE SEES FOR SELF IN WRIT ACTION

Yankwich Views Lighting Posts Involved in Suit Against Pasadena

Court moved at a foot pace for two miles yesterday when Superior Judge Yankwich walked the section of North Lake street, Pasadena, involved in the mandamus proceedings directed against George K. Hooper, City Engineer of the Crown City, G. W. Bond & Co. and others are seeking a writ of mandate to compel the city to accept a $280,000 installation of electric light posts. Hooper has refused to accept the installation on ground that the posts, formed of a composition, are insufficient in design and strength.

Judge Yankwich, accompanied by attorneys for both sides, inspected the seventy posts of the installation, set over a distance of two miles. This viewing of the premises occupied the forenoon.

During the afternoon session, Hooper was examined on the witness stand. He identified samples broken or hammered from various posts involved in the proceedings. The City Engineer asserted that many of the posts were cracked as a result of insufficient curing. The hearing continues today.

OFFICERS NAMED BY CHAMBER

Harvey Humphrey Elected to Head Junior Body by Narrow Majority

New officers for the ensuing year of the Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce were chosen after a spirited contest yesterday. Harvey Humphrey, advertising director of the Security Title Insurance and Guarantee Company, won by a few votes over F. Halsey Denman for the presidency. Both candidates have been active in the organization for the last four years.

Others elected are four vice-presidents, a treasurer and fifteen directors. The four new vice-presidents are Daniel G. Hay, Edward S. Shattuck, Oscar A. Trippet and Robert J. White. Edward Glen Barcome was elected treasurer.

The fifteen directors are Myron Albertson, Jr., J. S. Armstrong, J. Lamar Butler, Karl Lyn Davis, Edward L. Paupel, Benjamin K. McNeill, Kenneth McNeill, Albert B. McKee, Jr., M. E. McCreery, LeRoy D. Owen, Eric L. Pedley, Alfred E. Rogers, Tyd Rogers, F. Orville Sawyer, Jr., and Sidney S. Van Keuren.

Ex-Chicagoan Seeks Divorce

Victoria Villano, former wife of Jim Colosimo, Chicago cafe operator, killed several years ago, has sued Antonio Villano of Los Angeles for divorce. It was revealed yesterday when Villano filed his answer.

Mrs. Villano asserts her husband refused to support her, and once threatened her with a gun. She asks for a division of $30,000 community property. Villano, in his answer, declares his wife drank too much, and that he had to "restrain her."

City Beautifiers to Plant Trees

Mrs. Olga Shuey, president, and Mrs. Edward H. Anthony, vice-president of the Los Angeles League of City Beautifiers, appeared before the Board of Supervisors yesterday with an invitation to its members to attend a tree-planting ceremony at the intersection of Victory Boulevard and Riverside Drive in Griffith Park on Thursday at 2 p.m. Fifty trees are to be planted.

The league is urging home owners to plant a living pine tree in their yards for Christmas trees instead of buying those cut in the forests.

MEETINGS ABANDONED

Idaho and Utah State societies in Southern California have decided not to hold any meetings in the current month, but to center their efforts on making a success of the annual winter picnic in Sycamore Grove Park Saturday, January 17.

Griffith Park Tree-Planting Program Ready

The League of City Beautifiers yesterday completed its plans for the tree-planting ceremonial in Griffith Park Thursday at 2 p.m. Calculated to be the initial step in a national movement to encourage reforestration, the affair will take place at the intersection of Victory Boulevard and Riverside Drive. Fifty nut trees are to be planted as the nucleus for a projected memorial nut forest which ultimately will cover 350 acres.

Mrs. Olga Shuey, president of the league, will preside and introduce public officials and civic leaders as the speakers. Music will be provided by the Burbank Municipal Band and the Fire Department Band. The public is urged to attend.

PENNSYLVANIANS TO MEET

Pennsylvania State Society of Southern California will hold its next meeting today at 845 South Figueroa street.

Judge Bishop's Taking of Oath Repeats Event

Superior Judge Bishop yesterday was sworn in for the six-year term beginning January 5, 1931, the oath being administered by Superior Judge Hazlett, who retires from the bench that day. The ceremony had a sentimental, as well as official aspect, because Judges Bishop and Hazlett administered the oath to each other four years ago when they began their terms just ending. At that time they were Superior judges by appointment and had just been elected for short terms.

After administering the oath yesterday, Judge Hazlett announced that on January 5, next, he will re-enter the practice of law, having taken over the practice of the late Wilbert Morgrage, with offices at 918 Security Building. Associated with him will be Edna Covert Plummer, who was the first woman District Attorney in the United States and the first woman to organize a national bank. They will specialize in corporation law.

Schumann-Heink Sues Carewe in Screen-Job Row

Ferdinand Schumann - Heink, screen actor, yesterday sued Edwin Carewe, director, for $11,000 claimed as salary and damages because Carewe, he asserts, failed to cast him in a motion-picture production after hiring him for twelve weeks' work at $300 a week.

Schumann-Heink declares he was discharged after it had been widely advertised that he would appear in the picture.

WIFE ASSERTS HUBBY LEFT ON ANNIVERSARY

A novel way of observing a wedding anniversary was explained yesterday by Mrs. Florence B. Mason while testifying at hearing of her suit for divorce from Frank J. Mason, motion-picture studio employee. On their third wedding anniversary, she testified, her husband walked out on her. They were married April 14, 1926, and separated April 14, 1929. Superior Judge Westover granted a decree.

ROSE BOWL HALF SOLD OUT FOR JANUARY 1 GAME

TWO OF THE MAN-EATING COUGARS

Here are Harold Ahlskog, left, and Glenn Edwards, powerful tackles of the Washington State College team which will arrive, soon to meet Alabama at the Rose Bowl. Both have been named on first all-American selections this year. Ahlskog is a senior and weighs 195. Edwards, a junior, tips the scales at 238 pounds. When these two are arrayed against Alabama's two strong tackles, Sington (all-American) and Capt. Clement, there should be plenty of excitement.

Officials for New Year's Tilt Picked

PULLMAN (Wash.) Dec. 15. (AP)—Selection of officials for the Rose Bowl football game at Pasadena, Cal., New Year's Day between Washington State College and Alabama was completed here today. They are: Robert Evans, Millkan College, referee; H. R. Hutchins, Purdue, umpire; Sam Dolan, Oregon State College, head linesman; Walter Powell, Wisconsin, field judge.

Coach Orin E. Hollingbery chose Hutchins and Powell from a list submitted by Wallace Wade, head coach at Alabama, and Wade chose the other two from a list made up by Hollingbery.

Both Evans and Powell are former Stanford coaches.

TWENTY-THREE ON LION LIST

Lieb Awards Letters to Men on Football Squad

Twenty-three men were yesterday named by Coach Tom Lieb of Loyola University to receive letters for their work on the gridiron this past year. Only three seniors will receive the awards, so the Lion mentor will have twenty returning letter men on his squad next season.

Lieb has a bright outlook for the Loyola eleven next year. Together with the returning letter men will be a large number of good freshmen who should boost up the squad considerably. Chief among these are Klitzky, an all-State tackle from South Dakota; Ruby, a star from Hollywood High; Whittlesey, a Bakersfield flash; Ashen, Dermody, Casey and Mangus.

The Del Rey institution has a number of good games already lined up for next season and is still endeavoring to get a few more. Games already signed are with Santa Clara, Occidental, Whittier, San Francisco University and the Olympic Club.

KNUTE ROCKNE RETURNS TO SOUTH BEND; STARTS PLANS FOR LOCAL TILT

SOUTH BEND, Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—The cold and cheerless mantle of defeat was draped around the shoulders of Knute Rockne when he returned here tonight. Ever since the fall days of 1928 Knute has been wearing the royal purple, but it was sackcloth with a sprinkling of ashes here tonight. Benny Friedman and his hard-working professional footballers, those Giants of New York, arranged for the change yesterday afternoon when they heavy-handed the All-Notre Dame, 22 to 0.

"They had a lot of power, and more wind," was all Knute would say. But he postscripted, "It'll be different in Los Angeles."

Reputations, as those Giants of New York might have explained to Knute previous to Sunday's encounter, are gilt-edge utensils for the ex-gridder who goes into bond-broking. But on the chalked field, the ex-gridder who can draw a deep breath is better equipped than the average all-American of two years back.

So when Knute settles down to work on Tuesday, with one eye cast westward to Los Angeles where another All-Notre Dame has a date with a selected eleven, he plans to use as many of the lads from the recently departed 1930 outfit as he can.

Only three of the men who went through their paces—as far as those Giants of New York would allow—on Sunday will be in the Irish line-up that Rockne plans to start in Los Angeles. Frank Carideo, all-American quarter; Paul O'Connor, halfback, and Tim Moynihan, center, will be on the field at the opening kick-off. Six seniors and two alumni of 1929 are due to open at the other berths.

That extreme lassitude and weariness sometimes attendant upon unqualified success has departed from the expressive face of Mr. Rockne. Those Giants of New York cold-showered it on Sunday and now Knute is again at the throttle and turning on the steam. A squad of nearly twenty present and past Notre Dame men will greet him tomorrow and from that time, until the day they leave for Los Angeles, which is next Friday, it might as well be the first week of September for all you can see of the scrimmage.

Rockne will use Carideo and Brill in the backfield, Metzger, Conley,

BAER TO MAKE EASTERN BOXING DEBUT FRIDAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 15. (AP)—Max Baer, a couple of hundred pounds of punch and confidence, comes into Madison Square Garden Friday night to justify, if possible, the extravagant praises sung in the young Californian heavyweight's behalf since he headed east.

Baer, hailed as another Dempsey by his enthusiastic admirers, will make his Garden debut in a ten-round main bout against Ernie Schaaf, Boston heavyweight. Schaaf, only a youngster, has been loitering on the fringe of heavyweight importance for two years, has twice defeated Tommy Loughran and holds a decision over Johnny Risko.

In his campaign on the west coast Baer has won twenty-four of his twenty-seven professional bouts by knockouts. He lost one decision. Aside from his rough, aggressive ring style, Baer has interested local sports with his extensive wardrobe, an expensive car and liveried chauffeur and his willingness to elaborate at all times upon his own fighting ability.

WHAT'LL HAPPEN WHEN TIDE RUSHES IN TO MEET COUGARS?

Johnny Mack Brown, who played on the first Alabama team to appear in the Rose Bowl, and Ray Loomis, performing on the first Washington State eleven to play at Pasadena, will face each other over the microphone Thursday night from KHJ. Brown scored two touchdowns against Washington in 1926. Loomis played end on the Cougar eleven which thumped Brown University in 1916. Earl V. Foster, graduate manager of W.S.C., will also be on the program Thursday night to tell you about tickets for the Rose Bowl classic. Paul Lowry, sports editor of The Times, will conduct the interview at 9:30 p.m. The broadcast features the regular weekly presentation of the Los Angeles Times sports edition of the air.

PLAN CHARITY CONTEST

New Yorkers Planning Another Benefit Football Game for Unemployed

NEW YORK, Dec. 15. (AP)—Hard on the heels of the latest football festivals on behalf of charity came a suggestion today for a final game in the series, of which four already have been staged here for the benefit of the unemployed. The idea seemed to be a combination of northern college stars would meet a similar team from the south in one of the big New York ball parks, December 27, but several complications set in.

Difficulty in rounding up players and lining up a field for the game hampered the initial discussions, which were instituted by the New York chapter of the Knights of Columbus in conjunction with the American Legion and the Mayor's committee for relief of the unemployed. For the northern line-up, players from Fordham, New York University, Holy Cross, Boston College, Dartmouth, Marquette, Pittsburgh and Penn State were sought.

The southern eleven, to be chosen by "Stumpy" Thomason, former Georgia Tech backfield star, was sought from players of Kentucky, Florida, Tennessee, Georgia, Georgia Tech, Tulane and Alabama Poly.

Auditors for the Salvation Army and the citizens' committee checked and double-checked figures on receipts and attendance at Saturday's colorful Army-Navy spectacle without reaching definite conclusions. Until an official statement is made tomorrow, the preliminary estimates of a $600,000 "gate" and a crowd of 70,000, remained unchanged.

It seemed likely tonight New

FIREMEN HOPE FOR WIN OVER NORTH DAKOTANS

Los Angeles City Firemen, coached by Bill Clewett, plan to bring their football season to a close Christmas Day in a blaze of glory, when they tangle with the North Dakota University team at the Coliseum. The Firemen, boasting a strong squad of forty players, are pointed for a stirring victory over the "Flying Flickertails," according to E. O. Barnett, athletic director of the local department.

The Smoke-eaters have been working more than three hours a day on offensive plays, many of which they will be using for the first time this season. Blewett has a complete report on the North Dakota team and later this week he will run his third stringers against his first and second string with the former using North Dakota plays.

The Firemen have run up an amazing amount of touchdowns this season. Few teams in the nation have topped their scoring record to date. Blewett is confident that his power backfield, which is built around Don Moses, former Trojan star, will surprise the North Dakota team and the fans alike with their punch and dash.

Blewett pointed out the fact that Milt Nolan, former Loyola ace, has a kicking record which few men in the country have equaled this season. Like Carideo of Notre Dame, Nolan has added almost every extra point he has tried for this year. He is a great punter and Blewett expects him to keep the Flickertails deep in their own territory all afternoon with his long kicks.

The North Dakota team is scheduled to arrive here on the 22nd. They have several outstanding players but their big threat is "Red" Jarrett, who was named on several of the all-Midwest selections this season. He has scored against every team the North Dakota outfit has played this season.

The Flickertails, incidentally, have lost but three games in three years.

RECORD CROWD MAY SEE COUGAR-ALABAMA CLASH

Washington State Ticket Chief Predicts Complete Sellout for Annual New Year's Classic

BY BRAVEN DYER

With the game slightly more than two weeks away the Pasadena Rose Bowl is more than one-half sold out for the intersectional grid struggle between Washington State and Alabama. This is the information revealed last night by Earl V. Foster, graduate manager of the Cougar institution.

More than 45,000 seats have been applied for, according to Foster, and if the present demand for ducats keeps up the game is sure to be a sellout, which means that 85,000 souls will witness the contest.

"Applications are pouring in every day," declared Foster last night, "and I confidently expect to see every seat taken when Washington State and Alabama line up for the kickoff two weeks from Thursday."

If the Bowl does sell out the crowd will be the largest that ever saw a Tournament of Roses game for this year's seating capacity is greater than ever before. Last season when Southern California ran over Pittsburgh, 47 to 14, the attendance was 71,000 and that set a record for Rose Bowl games.

On Alabama's first visit to the Pacific Coast in 1926 the Crimson Tide played Washington and won, 20 to 19, in the most thrilling Rose Bowl game ever played.

SMALL CROWD

Due to the fact that Alabama was not well known, plus a certain amount of antipathy toward Enoch Bagshaw, then coach of the Huskies, the turnout for the 1926 game was only fair, 45,000 fans attending.

Next year, when those who had

Tide Takes Hard Workout Despite Weather; Cain Is Used on Passes

TUSCALOOSA (Ala.) Dec. 15. (AP) Despite bad weather, Coach Wallace Wade rushed his Alabama squad through another fast practice today, opening the final week of training before the Crimson Tide entrains for Pasadena to meet Washington State in the New Year's Day game.

The team will leave next Friday. Practice this week will be devoted to tackling, blocking, passing and kicking. Coach Wade plans to devote much of this week to working against Washington State plays, with the reserves in the role of the opposing team.

John Cain, sophomore fullback, has devoted most of his time to throwing passes. The entire squad is in good shape. There will be no stopovers for practice en route to the Coast.

BALLYHOO KINDLED FOR MIAMI HEAVYWEIGHT GO

NEW YORK, Dec. 15. (Exclusive) Preliminary run around was held at Madison Square Garden today in preparation for the grand and final run-around which will occur when "Pa" Stribling and his boy Willie arrive from Chicago tomorrow.

The run of the run around, it is probably unnecessary to state, is to find out who will fight Stribling in Miami next February and for how much.

Frank Bruen arrived from Miami this morning to discuss with "Pa" Stribling terms for a bout for the Georgian with Carnera in Miami in February. The Garden, unable to deal with Carnera, who is suspended here, has Victorio Campolo on the hook and as a result Luis Gutierrez, his manager, as well as Kid Chocolate was running in today's heats.

These, together with Walter Friedman who is looking out for Carnera, were the leading participants in

According to present arrangements, the University of Pennsylvania will be the final opponent of the Naval Academy next season, and other big games will be played with Notre Dame, Ohio State, Princeton, Southern Methodist and Maryland.

RABBIT PUNCHES

By Paul Lowry

THE COACH TRAIL

MR. BILL MONOHAN, University of California's good-looking graduate manager, is following a well-trod trail. Mr. Monohan is on the loose for a new football coach.

That was back in 1922. Pop didn't arrive until 1924, but he sent assistants to pave the way.

And University of Washington chose Jimmy Phelan to succeed the late Baggy Bagshaw at the start of the 1930 season.

There have been other coach-scouting expeditions in the Coast Conference but Mr. Monohan's is of current interest.

THE BERKLEY HURDLES

THERE are a lot of coaches who would like to have the job at Berkeley, and Mr. Monohan was busy playing the duck all during the Coast Conference meeting here last week.

His friends reported him out of town via airplane to relieve the pressure.

In reality he left by train Saturday morning, bound first of all for New Orleans and the southern sector.

Then he goes East through Pennsylvania, New York and other States dropping into the Midwest for the final survey.

There's anywhere from $12,000 to $15,000 yearly salary attached to the coaching berth at California, and that's a ridy stipend if anybody should ask you.

Three months, mind you, and six weeks of spring practice.

But the man who gets it will have to be a big man, a man who can mold the warring elements at Berkeley and get everybody behind him. And that isn't done in a day.

Andy Smith found it a tough job when he came out here in 1915, and it was not until he unveiled the first California "Wonder Team" in 1920 that he found real support.

His head was ready for the block, but the great eleven of that year saved his goose.

COAST RIVALS

AND the man who starts in at Berkeley with Jones at S.C., Warner at Stanford, Phelan at Washington, Spears at Oregon, Helmgberg at Washington State, etc., waiting to spear him can best appreciate the situation.

They all have several years head start on him.

In 1920 Smith was at California, Henderson at S.C., Dobie at Washington, Dietz at Washington State, Huntington at Oregon, Powell at Stanford.

Malcewicz is Loser on Mat to Don George

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 15. (AP)—Don George, victor last Wednesday over Gus Sonnenberg, strengthened his heavyweight wrestling claims here tonight with a victory over Joe Malcewicz. The former Michigan football player defeated the Utica (N. Y.) "Panther" in two consecutive falls.

Pasadenans to Take on Sheiks

The Pasadena A.C. eleven will be given a chance to show in the spotlight Sunday afternoon at Loyola Field when the hustling Crown City youngsters collide with the Hollywood Sheiks in the City League soccer feature. The Sheiks are unbeaten to date this year. If the Pasadena boys can take them down the line then they are in for a good deal of attention in soccer circles. The two teams take the field at 3 p.m.

At 1 p.m. the Victorias and the Scots tangle in a battle royal. Two games are also scheduled for Tournament Park, Pasadena, on Sunday by the local league. The Richfield Oilers meet the Los Angeles A.C. and the Sons of St. George play the Magyars.

City League officials announced yesterday that four teams will play at Loyola Christmas Day and the best eleven men of forty-four players will represent Los Angeles in an all-star game at San Francisco later.

AZTEC A.C. DEFEATS H.A.C. RESERVE FIVE

The Aztec Athletic Club quintet sprang an upset last night when it defeated the reserve basketball squad of the Hollywood Athletic Club, 18 to 13, in the Mercuries' gymnasium. The Aztec team led at half-time with a score of 13 to 11.

Rodriguez, Aztec forward, was high-point man of the evening with 10 points, while Potter was the leading scorer for the H.A.C. reserves with 8 points.

The line-ups:

Aztec A. C. (18.)		H. A. C. Reserves (13.)

Pacific Fans Aroused Over Poor Season

STOCKTON, Dec. 15. (AP)—Following upon the College of Pacific football team's defeat at the hands of Sacramento Junior College last Saturday, students and alumni of C.O.P. were today demanding a shake-up in the athletic department.

Walter Pickering, president of the San Joaquin county branch of the Pacific alumni, was a leader in the move against Erwin J. (Swede) Righter, who has been head coach at the college for the past seven years. Pickering was quoted as saying that the players had lost confidence in Righter, that they were not giving him their co-operation by breaking training and adopting a half-hearted attitude toward football.

The college won three games this year and lost six. Last winter Righter's basketball team won the Far Western Conference championship.

KENTUCKY WESLEYAN WILL DROP FOOTBALL

WINCHESTER (Ky.) Dec. 15. (AP) Dr. C. M. Dannely, president of Kentucky Wesleyan College, announced today the discontinuance of football as an intercollegiate activity and the substitution of a program of required physical education for every student.

Intercollegiate basketball will be continued and possibly other intercollegiate sports will be promoted, he said.

HUNT IN TEARS AS HE LOSES ON FOUL

BERNIE HARVEY

Sailing season opens today for the sailor men aboard the battleships in Los Angeles Harbor when three events will be run off inside the breakwater in the first annual sailing regatta. The race will be held over a three-mile staked course with the bridge of the U.S.S. Oklahoma as the start and finish line. According to a report from the flagship West Virginia the course will be sailed anticlockwise unless, in the opinion of the referee, the existing weather conditions make it advisable to sail it clockwise.

Opening the contest at 8:30 in the morning will be the race for motor launches in service condition, and following at 9:45 a contest for boats of the whaleboat class. In the afternoon at 1:30 a free-for-all race will be held and should prove the most interesting of the day. Crafts in this race can be of any size and powered with any type of sail. All of the ships have gone to a considerable expense in order to equip their entry with the fastest sail obtainable.

Lieutenant-Commander Kingman will referee the contest, and Lieutenant-Commander Thompson and Lieutenant-Commander Smith will act as starters and judges of the finish. Lieutenant-Commander Hans, Lieutenant-Commander Martin, Lieut. Wilson, and Lieut. McCollum are to be judges of the course.

Hoopsters from the West Virginia will clash with the Maryland five, and the Tennessee squad will mix with the Nevada quintet in a double-header tomorrow night at the Navy "Y" in San Pedro. If the Wee Vee squad wins from the "Big Mary" outfit they will be the champions of their group. Ensign Miller will referee and Ensign Cockell will act as umpire to the games, which will be played at 7 and 7:30 o'clock respectively.

Mittmen from the New York copped the show last Friday afternoon in the battleship divisions championship smoker so far as point awards for the "Iron Man" trophy are concerned. This trophy is awarded yearly to the ship with highest efficiency in athletic contests, and is coveted by every athlete in man o' war row. The Knickerbocker ship garnered two contests via the kayo route, and the Tennessee took second place with one kayo and a decision. Third place points were taken by the Mississippi mittmen with two decisions to their credit, and a Nevada man stopped his opponent to win fourth place for his ship. The Bear ship stepped into fifth place when their lone contestant won his bout by a decision.

In the wrestling matches the Nevada grapplers managed to place two men out of five to take first-place awards toward the trophy. One bout was won on the only fall in the show, and the second on a top-time decision. The Tennessee, Mississippi, New Mexico, California and New York are all tied up with each having won one bout apiece via the decision route.

According to Lieut. Leland P. Lovette, athletic officer for the battleship divisions, an all-Navy team will be one of the features on the Pacific Fleet gridiron schedule next season. Several of the best players on the various ships are to be combined into one squad and given shore duty at San Diego where they will have a chance to practice. In this way the navy will have a team that can represent it as it should be represented. This aggregation is to be primed for the annual Army-Navy game which is played in San Francisco every Armistice Day.

Preseason games with some of the Southland's major colleges will be booked in contests which bid fair to give the collegians some real opposition, which until this time has been almost impossible. Fleet target practice keeps the battleship teams at sea half of the grid season and they are unable to work out, but under the new plan the boys at San Diego will have plenty of time to scrimmage and run through signals every day. Fleet sport fans as well as the officers and men of the Navy are looking forward to next season when they will be able to see this new eleven in action.

Golf Swing, Arm Swing, Says Varden

BY SOL METZGER

Golf! What is it? What is the mystery of the swing? From the miles of instructive material printed concerning it, from the hundreds of textbooks, from the millions of feet of slow motion reels and the countless lessons given the year around, too little is gleaned that helps us improve our games.

Why? Well, the fundamental ideas are clouded.

Now that so many of us are confined indoors during the winter, it strikes us as a good time to sit down and reason it out so we may go about building up our games when the outdoors again beckons. Let us take the swing apart step by step and see just what makes it work.

There is no better idea of what it is than Vardon's explanation. He, the old master, the British pro around whose game America patterned her style, says the swing is an arm swing. Let us see whether that is so.

The pivot is the least understood phase in golf instruction. Sol Metzger has prepared a leaflet on the Pivot which he will gladly send to any reader requesting it. Inclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

Nevada Seeks New Mentor

RENO (Nev.) Dec. 15. (AP)—The University of Nevada tonight had joined the ranks of colleges seeking new football coaches for next year.

Athletic officials announced a committee selected to name the 1931 mentor had been unable to agree on a renewal of Coach George W. Philbrook's contract and negotiations to name his successor will be launched immediately. No prospective candidates were discussed.

Philbrook, who played at Notre Dame with Knute Rockne, came here from Whittier College, California, two years ago. His team this year was defeated by California, San Francisco, Utah and Fresno State; played tie games with Brigham Young and Santa Clara, and defeated College of Pacific and California Aggies.

It was understood Philbrook had refused to accept a contract offered him at the same salary for one year only.

The big exhibition match on the feature program will be fought by the Alhambra fistic sensation, Bobby Reister. Bobby will meet Jimmy Sullivan in a four-round exhibition that will be refereed by "What a Man" Shires. The wrestling match between "Terrible" Swede and Ad Herman will give variety to this all-star exhibition program.

BOSTON, Dec. 15. (AP) — Though he apparently outpointed Con O'Kelly, Irish heavyweight, in nine of the ten rounds Al Friedman, Boston Jewish battler, lost the decision here tonight when the two judges overruled Referee Johnny Martin.

Several times during the battle, which appeared one-sided at every stage, O'Kelly was on the verge of a knockout from Friedman's terrific body punches. O'Kelly weighed 191, a pound more than Friedman. The verdict was roundly booed by the fair-sized crowd.

L.A.A.C. Five Cards Game With A.A.U. Champs

Arrangements were completed last night by L.A.A.C. officials for a basketball game at the Olympic Auditorium January 12, next, between the Mercury quintet and the Henry's Clothiers of Wichita, Kan., national A.A.U. champions. The national champions will play the Pacific Coast Club of Long Beach on the latter's court January 13.

Barry Dunham, manager of the Wichita team, has announced that he has a stronger team than last season, having added many eastern and mid-western university cagers to his line-up of all-stars.

The L.A.A.C. game with Henry's should be one of the best club contests to be played in the United States this season outside of the national championships at Kansas City.

Tonight the Mercuries meet Occidental College at Eagle Rock and on Saturday clash with the powerful Bruins from U.C.L.A. at the Olympic Auditorium. The latter game opens the season at the Olympic and should be one of the tightest games of the year.

BALLYHOO FOR BOUT KINDLED

day's doings. Nate Lewis, the Chicago promoter, will arrive in time for the finals tomorrow afternoon.

All this activity represents the first rumbling of the great heavyweight ballyhoo which will be resounding through the spring as the time nears for Max Schmeling to defend his championship.

The probability remains that Bruen, who already has the consent of Carnera, will sign Stribling for Miami, the winner to meet Jack Sharkey in the Garden in April and the winner of this bout to meet Schmeling for the title at a milk-fund show here in June. Terms will be reached this week.

STRIBLING MUST FIGHT FOR TITLE

CHICAGO, Dec. 15. (AP)—W. L. (Young) Stribling must fight for the world heavyweight championship after all—which is okay with the Striblings, according to "Pa" Stribling, father-manager of the Georgian.

Before Stribling's bout with Tuffy Griffiths in the Stadium last Friday night, it was announced the National Boxing Association, of which Gen. John V. Clinnin, chairman of the Illinois State Athletic Commission, is president, would recommend that Max Schmeling of Germany, be replaced by the winner as title-holder.

Gen. Clinnin today pointed out at least two things must be done before the N.B.A. recognizes Stribling, first, that the body vote to oust Schmeling for failure to defend the title within six months of winning it; second, that Stribling defeat the next ranking contender.

Before he left for New York tonight, Pa Stribling said he would deposit a check for $2500 with the New York State Athletic Commission, to back up a challenge to Schmeling for a title match in New York any time such an event could be arranged.

BRUIN PUCKSTERS WIN FROM HOLLYWOOD, 1-0

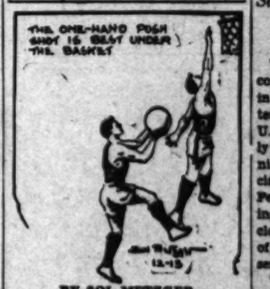
The Los Angeles Bruins defeated the Hollywood Monarchs last night at the Palais de Glace by the close score of 1 to 0. The game was featured by the excellent goal-keeping work of Ted Irland of the Bruins and Joe Fly of the Monarchs.

After two scoreless periods, Art Palfrey of the Bruins scored with a shot from the blue line to win the game. The largest crowd of the season witnessed the struggle. The victory last night increased the lead of the Bruins in first place of the Southern California Senior Hockey League.

HART, UZCUDUN FIGHT DRAW IN CULVER RING

Jimmy Hart and Johnny Uscudun boxed a six-round draw in the main event last night at Culver City. Johnny Willis scored a three-round knockout over George Evans in the semi-wind-up go. Leon Thompson won a four-round decision over Al Hamilton. Willie Davis won over Johnny Machado and Young Cabalaro kayoed Carloes Montes in the second round.

Cage Scoring Greatly Aided by Push Shots



BY SOL METZGER

If you see good basketball played you will note that most shots made from directly under the basket are the one-hand push shots. Players dribbling in will take the ball in the right hand, leap off the left foot and push the ball upward with the right hand to carom it off the backboard into the basket.

They give it a bit of English by turning the right hand in as the ball is leaving, thus compelling the ball to bounce inward toward the basket as it leaves the backboard.

In making this shot, as in all shots, the eyes really control it, as they are riveted upon the spot where the player wishes to place the ball, in this case upon the spot on the backboard where it is to strike.

Most coaches give their candidates a great deal of practice dribbling to the basket and then trying this shot.

Princetonians Bid Farewell to Bill Roper

Roper received two gifts, one an electric clock from the University Athletic Association, and the other a silver punch bowl from undergraduates.

John Grier Hibben, president of the university, was the principal speaker.

"Tonight we are all saddened that we are met here to say good-by to Bill Roper as head football coach," he said. "Through all the games he has won and lost he has brought his men to the scrimmage line with the finest spirit and this was largely inspired by his great personality."

Gans returns to the under the promo- Doyle, who gave him his first big Negro fight. The Negro, idol of Central avenue, meets Babe Anderson.

For two years Gans has campaigned out of New York in Ed Chocolate's stable. A light-weight when he went east, the Baby is now a welterweight.

Gans is tonight's choice since he is figured, while Anderson is showing forty pounds of gain per in this class of holiday prices.

Anderson makes great fights and he makes others not so good. But he is a crowd-pleaser since he is not the holding type.

Over a year ago Anderson knocked out Jimmy Duffy, pride of Oakland. More recently he lost decisions to Bucky Lawless and Benny Miller here. In one start at the Olympic the San Jose boy knocked out Leo Hernandez, a Mexican who appears on tonight's card.

Hernandez boxes Tommy Huffman in the top six. Huffman is the younger brother of Eddie, the sailor heavyweight who is now passe.

The two other sixes are Hymie Miller vs. Midge Wiswell and Cliff Burrier vs. Henry Meriscal. Miller is the only member of the fighting family now keeping in the limelight. Benny and Abie are saving themselves for a fresh start in 1931.

DOUBLE MAIN EVENT ON SATURDAY CARD

What figures to be the classiest double main event staged at the Main-street club in weeks is scheduled for Saturday night when Bobby Pacho, Mexican featherweight, meets Bobbie Ramarez and Joe Bitto takes on Tony Cadena, Mexican 160-pounder. Both bouts are scheduled for six rounds.

Bitto is something of a clown fighter but he throws a lot of gloves. Carlo Curtis is lining up three four-round battles to complete the card.

A Year-Around Job

BEFORE starting back for the Mayos at Rochester, Minn., Knute Rockne took up the matter of modern football coaching.

"Coaching a football team is no longer a part-time job," the Notre Dame leader said. "It is an all-year job, that is, from September to June. It demands of a coach as much time as any other professor has to give to his classes. The modern coach can't get by from September to December, with only a week or so in the spring.

"You hear that the players don't like spring practice. Well, they like it at Notre Dame. And I believe they would like it at many other places if the coaches also took a keen interest. On the 15th of March I will issue a call for spring practice at Notre Dame. When that call goes out from 350 to 400 men will respond at once, all keen for the work ahead. There will be no pressure exerted and no campaign put on. These men are coming out because they like football and want to play it. And, liking football, they also want to improve their play and start from sound fundamentals.

"We have all sorts of teams which play together and as each player improves he advances nearer the first-string squad. If football wasn't a lot of fun for these men they would never come out those raw March days and face the training and the discipline ahead of them for many weeks. It takes hard work to make a good football player and it takes discipline and training and condition. But we see that the fun of the game remains. Certainly here is one phase of football that isn't overemphasized, for there is no publicity about it; there are no crowds or headlines or outside trips away from the campus. If anyone can show me the harm in spring practice where 400 students want it and like it and prove this by coming out, I'd like to have the answer."

Not By One Game

"You don't hear so much of the dazzling play of Mohler and Duffield after that Notre Dame game," writes L. D.

One football game can't make or break a football player. The work these two did through the year can't be wiped out in one afternoon. There were two successive years when Red Grange failed to make a first down against Nebraska. In one game his net total was minus 7 yards. But that didn't mean Grange was a flop. Eddie Mahan, one of the great backs of all time, had hard work taking two steps against Cornell one season when Gib Cool and a pair of crack ends were nailing him at every start. That was the year Cornell beat Harvard, 10 to 0. Duffield has been a star for two years. Mohler is one of the best backs the west coast has ever known. But they are all stopped on those days when the supporting line is badly outplayed.

Notre Dame's victory on the Coast did the west coast good. It brought them back to earth again after too many victories over eastern teams. It was a medicinal flattener that will bring back more rational judgments in the future. But it did not reduce the all-season value of such men as Pinckert and Mohler and Duffield.

For example, the Four Horsemen in their brief appearance Sunday showed much of the old speed and flash of 1925, but they had no coordinating line to give them a chance. You could see their class, even five years after college play, but no back is great enough to move with an outplayed line that hasn't worked together.

The New Chance

It will be interesting to see whether or not Max Baer, the Coast heavyweight, can bring back new life to the heavyweight division that is now deader than a brace of mackerel.

Baer has come along heralded as a fighter and a puncher who is willing to practice his profession without the defensive restraint shown by most of the others. He has no world beater to face in Ernie Schaaf, but he has a seasoned, experienced opponent who is well above the average, and who is good enough to show just about where Baer belongs in the heavyweight scale.

Anything approaching a new sensation now would make a large difference in public interest. Schmeling has been almost forgotten. Sharkey and Stribling get only so far and then stick at that spot. They gain ground on one fight and lose it on another. It may be they have been around too long to have the needed keenness left for any extended campaign. At any rate, Baer has a great chance. He is also in a great spot. No young heavyweight ever had such an opportunity to hurry to the front and make a clean-up.

Two Weeks More

At the end of the next two weeks the old golf ball will belong with the "feather" and the "guttie." Its day is about over.

With the arrival of the new ball, a little larger and a little lighter, there will be many warm arguments for some time to come. The average opinion is that it will make little difference to the star or the duffer. The duffer may lose three or four yards, but he will also find it easier to get into the air from a brassie, spoon or long iron. It will make this part of his play much simpler and this has been one feature of the average game that causes so many lost strokes. However, those who happen to be off their game will blame it on the new ball and those who happen to be playing better will cheer for the change.

National Loop Puts on 'Dog'

The National League is going to put on the old high hat next season. The owners have adopted a ruling no person would be allowed on the field next season after the gates are open who is not in uniform. This means the bat boy, the announcer and those kids who "help out" at the practice will have to wear uniforms and look neat and natty. The National League owners may even go further. They are counting on dolling up their ushers next season in blue uniforms, brass buttons and braids and drilling them in military fashion. The ushers at the Cub's park last year were the best dressed in the league, and after each game marched down to the baselines, stood in line and kept the crowd off the infield.

ROSE BOWL IS HALF SOLD OUT

missed Alabama's sensational play against the Huskies turned out in droves, 56,000 fans saw the Crimson Tide roll in as the sun was setting behind the rim of the Arroyo Seco and wipe out Stanford's 7-to-0 lead. That was a capacity crowd.

When Stanford encountered Pittsburgh the following year enough additional seats had been provided to bring the capacity to 70,000. Southern California fans went for the game only half-heartedly, however, and the result was several thousand shy of a sellout, 58,000 spectators watching the Palo Alto team score a 7-to-6 victory over Pitt.

In 1929 Georgia Tech came west and encountered California in that memorable 8-to-7 game featured by that famous reverse run by Roy Riegels, Golden Bear captain, whose mad dash toward his own goal line ultimately cost his team the 2 points which lost the ball game. Approximately 65,000 fans attended, this being the largest Rose Bowl crowd up until last year when the Trojans, as already stated, played Pittsburgh before a capacity turnout of 71,000.

In line with their policy of bigger and better athletic entertainments, the Tournament of Roses committee last summer enlarged the Bowl to seat 85,000 people.

WILL PICK UP

There is considerable debate as to whether the Alabama-Washington State game will sell out, but Foster, who is in close touch with the ticket situation, feels certain that the Bowl will be packed. Plenty of folks will disagree with him, but once Alabama and the Cougars reach here and get in some practice licks interest in the game will pick up tremendously.

Alabama is due one week from today while Babe Hollingbery will bring his Cougars here the day after Christmas.

ROCKNE PLANS FOR LOCAL TILT

Yarr and Kassis in the line from the great 1930 team. He will shove that runaway switch engine, Jumping Joe Savoldi, into the backfield, and run Tim Moynihan up and down the field preparatory to his job of thrusting the pigskin in an opposite direction from his head, at center.

Arriving in Los Angeles, on the 22nd inst., Rockne will repair with his athletes to the Coliseum, and hold an open workout or two, and a closed session or so, and run onto the field on the 27th inst. with the idea of holding what he has won in the West.

"I don't mind losing a game in New York," the Scandinavian mumbled tonight. "They'll forget it by Wednesday. But if we drop one out there, the boys on the Coast will be talking about it in 1960 and I'm getting old."

COLLEGE STARS TO PLAY HERE

Muehleisen and Bob Muench, national intercollegiate doubles champions, and Alan Biade, captain of the Bear team. Stanford will be represented by Keith Gledhill, Santa Barbara ace, who has beaten both Wood and Johnny Van Ryn this year, and Stan Robinson, tennis captain. Los Angeles Junior College will send Lester Stoefen, who has beaten both Vines and Johnny Doeg, the national champion, this year.

Feminine stars who will play include Dorothy Weisel of Sacramento, who is certain to be ranked among the first ten this year; Helen Marlowe, Los Angeles, national junior doubles champion, and national junior hard-court queen; Violet Doeg, Gladys Patz, Caroline Babcock, Dorothy Workman, Esther Bartosh and other prominent local players.

COURTNEY FAVORED TO BEAT RANKINS

George Courtney, Oklahoma light-heavyweight, will be an odds-on favorite to trounce Oscar Rankins, red-headed Negro glove thrower, when they clash in the ten-round main event at the Wilmington Bowl Wednesday night.

Other bouts carded are: Bud Baker vs. Sailor Maxwell, light heavyweights, six rounds; Georgia Hanford vs. Pete Saapeda, featherweights, six rounds; Don Conn vs. Mickey McLaughlin, welterweights, four rounds; Melvin Bobo vs. Chick Peralto, welterweights, four rounds; Ted Goedders vs. Cruze Gomez, welterweights, four rounds.

ASCOT CARDS CLOSING RACES OF YEAR SUNDAY

The last auto races of the year will be held next Sunday afternoon at the Legion Ascot Speedway, officials of the plant announced last night.

Extensive safety precautions were planned last night when Dr. Fred Loring and his contest board held a meeting at Glendale.

"We are going to make the track the finest anywhere — and the safest," declared the official. "Such authorities as Ralph De Palma have stated that it is in fine shape. But we are not going to stop there."

With a view of halting the sensational victorious streak of "Shorty" Cantlon, who hung up another spectacular win when he annexed the 100-lap honors last Sunday, more than forty pilots have started tuning their mounts for the forthcoming speed battles.

Several drivers, including Lou Moore, "Stubby" Stubblefield and Fred Frame, who lost out Sunday when forced into the pits, are overhauling their chariots in hopes of eradicating the trouble.

OWNER PREDICTS TITLE FOR MILLIONAIRE TEAM

After watching the way his men have performed in their last two home games Owner Mel Malwick yesterday predicted that his Los Angeles Millionaires will win the 1930-31 championship of the California Hockey League. Malwick is very enthusiastic over the youth and speed of the Millionaires. They showed a lack of polish in their first couple of starts, but the way they have been clicking lately stamps them as real championship threats. Their teamwork will be hard to equal for the rest of the race.

The Millionaires continue their championship quest Thursday night at the Winter Garden when they face the Oakland Checkers. Manager Tom Carrigan expects the Millionaires to defeat both the Checkers and the San Francisco Black Hawks, whom they meet the following week. With these victories under their wing they should be able to start north for a four-game series at the top of the league standings.

Tom Carrigan at goal and Wolf Peltier at forward are the only veterans on the team and it is the speed and dash of the youngsters, plus the experience of these two vets that make the local sextet a title contender.

Dutch Singer and Dan Carrigan are both vastly improved men since last season. Archie Gray, Jack Filkin, Lindsay Carver, Guidos Roy, George Brown, Ted Jacques and Johnny Bruenteau complete the line-up.

While the Checkers and Millionaires are meeting at the Winter Garden, the Sheiks will be tangling with the San Francisco Black Hawks at San Francisco.

SOUTHLAND TO SPONSOR BIKE TRACK FOR GAMES

Southern California is going to have something to say about the records of European and eastern bicycle riders during the 1932 Olympic Games if the plans of officials of the Nineteenth Century Wheelmen materialize.

Bill Furman, who pedalled to many victories in the old bike days of Los Angeles; Harry Lamport and Earl Le Meine, the latter two veteran athletes of standing, are heading a committee for the advocation of a quarter-mile oval track on which aspiring cyclists may train for the 1932 grinds. According to Le Meine, the track would cost approximately $5000 and will be of permanent construction.

Check of training possibilities in the Southland disclose a real want for a bike headquarters and from records of the European cyclists there is not much time remaining in which to develop boys and men to compete on even terms with the visitors. The Nineteenth Century Wheelmen are now circulating petitions urging the members of the City Council to appropriate monies for the construction of the training track and the majority of the bicycle riders are in favor of having the oval built and operated as a part of the Los Angeles Playground and Recreation Department program.

HERMOSA FISHING WEATHER IMPROVES

HERMOSA BEACH, Dec. 15.—That fishing weather would improve shortly was the belief yesterday of Capt. J. M. Anderson, skipper of the big Olympic fishing barge, anchored two miles off shore here. While breakers have been small, huge rolling swells have somewhat hindered local anglers for the past few days.

LEWIS MAY FACE KOLOFF

Lou Daro Seeks Former World's Champion to Wrestle Big Balkan in Monday's Olympic Show

The mat fans of this section may witness the first meeting on the mat between Ed (Strangler) Lewis, former world's champion, and Dan Koloff, the big Balkan, at the Olympic Monday night.

Koloff was signed to appear in the special event of the all-star card Lou Daro is lining up for his final mat card of the year, and the promoter is trying to line up an opponent for him that is as rough and as tough as himself.

Koloff has always declared that Lewis has consistently refused to meet him, but the headlock artist, who still has a $5000 appearance forfeit up with the State Athletic Commission here to back up his challenge to the recent winner of the Gus Sonnenberg-Don George title bout, has now put in his bid for the first bout here with the new mat king.

Both Nick Lutze and Henri De Glane, the two top-notchers who are scheduled to clash in the final feature event of Monday night's mat program, are also seeking the first match here with George.

Lutze was never given a chance at the title while Sonnenberg was champion, although he has met and beaten many of the best grapplers in the game. His record shows that he has beaten such stars as Stanislaus Zbyszko, Joe Malcewicz, Stan Stasiak, and held to draws such grapplers as Joe Stecher, Hans Stienke, Richard Shikat, among others. Last year he beat Jim McMillen, formerly of the University of Illinois, who recently defeated Shikat in New York City in a quick and decisive manner.

Lutze has recovered from the knee ailment that gave him so much bother in his recent bouts, and he expects to be in perfect condition for the first time in many months when he faces the French mat ace.

PLAN ANOTHER CHARITY TILT

York's effort on behalf of the unemployed through the medium of four football games would net charity approximately $838,000.

In addition to the estimated $800,000 gate Saturday, the Notre Dame all stars and the New York Giants professional eleven drew $115,000 at the Polo Grounds yesterday. The Colgate-New York University game netted about $73,000 and the match between N.Y.U. and Fordham brought in about $50,000.

McMILLEN BEATS RUSSIAN

TARZAN AND THE GOLDEN LION

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The old man led Tarzan to a window. "Look," he directed, pointing to a strange, flat tower rising high above the other sections of the palace. "The woman is probably somewhere in that tower; but as far as you are concerned she might as well be at the North Pole." The ape-man's keen eyes took in every detail of the prospect before him. Seemingly satisfied, he turned upon the old man: "Bloodties are strong. We are the only men of our race in this valley. Perhaps you will betray me, but I believe I can trust you."

"If you want to escape," he continued, "come with me." The old man shook his head. "No," he answered, "it is hopeless." "Good-by then," grinned the ape-man, and swinging out of the window he clambered toward the roof below, along the staut stems of the ancient ivy. The old man watched him make his careful way toward the tower of mystery where he hoped to find and liberate La. Then the old fellow turned and hurried rapidly down the crude stairway that dropped ladder-like from the center of the room. All the time he mumbled some queer jargon to himself.

About an hour later Tarzan reached the tower's roof. It had many openings covered with heavy tapestries. He drew one aside, peered cautiously down and lowered himself into a large, bare chamber. Sounds of life now came up to him and again the air was fragrant with that peculiar incense. This was to prove the ape-man's undoing, for otherwise his keen nostrils would have detected the scent of a nearby Gomangani who stood hidden behind one of the hangings. He saw Tarzan approach and watched him with superstitious terror.

Finding a stairway, Tarzan softly descended. No sooner had he passed out of sight, than the black watcher leaped to his feet and scurried madly away. Now on the fourth landing Tarzan came abruptly upon an enormous slave, armed with a huge spear. Wide-eyed the slave beheld the ape-man jump lightly from the stairway. Finally he found words to speak. "Are you searching for the white she, your mate?" he asked. "I know where she is hidden. Follow me." Tarzan was suspicious. How had the fellow known his motive? How came he in the ape-man's path?

Death Threats Received

Loan Commissioner Moves Family for Fear Home Will Be Bombed

Receiver to Plead Friday; Grand Jury's Questioning of Directors to Go On

Death threats against State Building and Loan Commissioner Whitmore, who now is in charge of the defunct Building and Loan Association which was plundered of more than $8,000,000 by Gilbert M. Desmeyer, were reported late yesterday to Dep. Dist.-Atty. McKay by the commissioner.

Anonymous letters believed to be from persons who had lost their savings in the crash of the loan company, together with telephone calls both to his office and residence, carried the threats against Whitmore.

Fearful of a bombing at his home in the Hollywood hills, Whitmore moved his wife and children from the residence during the day and has notified the authorities of the threats against his life.

THREATS RECITED

In one of the letters received by Whitmore he reported to McKay that he was told he was to be "taken to a dark alley and put on the spot." Other letters and telephone calls the commissioner reported threatened to bomb his home and injure his family.

"I have received a number of threats," declared Mr. Whitmore last night, "and I did report the matter to the District Attorney's office. My family was somewhat worried and spent the day with friends. I was told by Mr. McKay to take up the matter with Chief of Police Steckel but so far I have not found time to do so."

According to the county authorities the threats probably resulted from published account of how Whitmore's examiners had investigated the Guaranty company for many months before they at last discovered the $8,000,000 shortage.

DEXTER QUESTIONED

In the meantime yesterday G. R. Dexter, a director of the defunct company, spent more than seven hours before the grand jury while a score of other witnesses remained in the waiting rooms to be called. Dexter was questioned by Chief Deputy District Attorney Stewart.

From what could be learned from Dexter the witness declared over and over again that he knew nothing of Desmeyer's embezzlements and explained that all of the board of directors had complete trust in Desmeyer.

From Dexter the grand jury attempted to get a complete picture of the loan company's involved financial set-up and just how Desmeyer could have carried on his embezzlements without the knowledge of the rest of the directors.

Late in the afternoon Harry E. Jones, another director, was called to the witness stand only to have the grand jury call it a day at 4:30 o'clock and instruct all witnesses to return this morning.
